THE DUKE'S SOLILOQUIZE
STRIVE AND ATTAIN

The Christian Life is the best of all. The perchance we strive and oft times God gives us strength if we but ask, still To meet our each and every task.

Then live for service every day, Keep walking in the narrow way. We mortals made of common clay, Can only serve him as we pray

His love is great, His strength Divine, If we but on his breast recline; A daily task to us is given, To tread the way from earth to Heaven.

Then Father God here our petition, And keep us safe in Thy tradition; Be Thou our guide, our shield, our friend From start until the journey's end.

And when at last our wandering's done, We meet above with Thy dear Son; My each of us, beside our own, Have other souls around Thy throne.

Then may we hear Thee say well done, Thou hast indeed a victory won; On earth did prove a help to be, Now serve for all eternity.

Jarvis, Dec. 28, 1922 "THE DUKE."

"THE DUKE" THINKS
THAT 1923 should see a great advancement in our village.
THAT all "Record" readers may enjoy a Prosperous and Happy New Year.
THAT it is time some action was taken to get the Hydro-Electric service installed in this district.
THAT although all work and no play make Jack a dull boy, that all play and no work would make him a fool.

THAT there are too many terpsichorean enthusiasts to-day and not enough religious cranks to balance the scales properly.
THAT a woman looks younger than she is; that a man is as old as he feels; and that a fool is sometimes wiser than he looks.

THAT New Year's resolutions are "en passe" and were never of any account for people should so live so that these things are unnecessary.
THAT if necessary to get an awakening in the transaction of municipal affairs "The Duke" will enter the list of candidates for civic honors for 1924.
THAT natural gas is all right for heating purposes, but it runs a poor second with "white coal" when it comes to illumination and power purposes.
THAT there are five classes of town-killers:—1st—Those who shop out of town. 2nd—Those who oppose local improvements. 3rd—Those who think they own the town. 4th—Those who prefer a "dead" town to a "live" one. 5th—Those who oppose everything undertaken that does not not originate with them.
