Foreword

With this issue the "Record" appears under new management. It is our modest hope and ambition to give to the readers of Jarvis and surrounding districts a real live local paper and to do this we must have the hearty co-operation of all our readers and well-wishers. With the help of those who desire to see our town and district develop as they should we will be placed in the position to take advantage of every opportunity to advance the interests of every one. Jarvis is considered one of the old conservative towns of Southern Ontario and is surrounded by farming districts that compare favorably with any other in this glorious country of ours. We are firmly convinced that there is a bright future ahead of us and that although the past has been specially kind to us, the future has still greater things in view. Where the great provincial highways that are now in the course of construction are completed. Motor traffic through Jarvis, both north and south will be multiplied many times. People of Jarvis and districts have a reputation, provincial wide for uniform kindness, honest and generous treatment for all with whom they come in contact with. We wish you one and all a bright and prosperous future and hope that you will not fail to co-operate with us in our endeavor to make the "Jarvis Record" a paper of which you will be proud to acknowledge to all as your own.

Is The World Growing Better?

At the morning service at the Wesley Methodist church, Jarvis on Sunday last the speaker, Mr. J. O. McCarthy, of Toronto, in the course of his able remarks, made the claim that the world was steadily growing better. We hope that it is, as this is the design of the Great Creator and the desire of the Saviour, who gave his life on the cross, that all the world might believe and be saved. But personally we do not see the matter in the same light as the speaker does and there is considerable room for argument along these lines.

We can ourselves look back now to close of half a century, and the conclusion that we are compelled to arrive at, is that the church is barely holding its own in the world to-day. There is far too much of the higher criticism taught in our Universities, and the tendency of this erroneous teaching is to get away from the simple child-like faith of our forefathers. People like to have pleasant things told them, and, sad to relate, there seem to many leaders of the Christian movement who like to pamper people of this description. The day of the old revivalist is fast ebbing away, for the average person does not like to hear the unpleasant things told him of the after life, if he is not a follower of the meek and lowly Nazarene, and prepared accept the story of salvation as laid down in the New Testament. There is hardly a church to-day but has strayed from the straight and narrow way laid down by its Divinely inspired founder. If John Knox was allowed to come back to earth to-day and drop into the average Presbyterian church on the Lord's Day would he not find many changes made? Would not Martin Luther be in the same predicament? Would not the sainted John Wesley, the founder of the great Methodist denomination almost feel himself a stranger in a strange land in the average Methodist congregation in the world? It seems to us that we should turn back the pages of our religious experience to the time of our grandfathers and grandmothers. In those days the Sabbath was an hallowed day and the religious services were looked forward to with zest and joyfulness. On Sunday the family pew was filled and all the members thereof were in their place before the service started. We ran across a poem some years ago which started as follows:

"The church and the world walked far apart
On the changing shores of time;
The world was humming a gaudy song,
And the church a hymn sublime."

In those days there was practically an impassible gulf between the church and the world; the passage of which could only be accomplished by the acceptance of the free salvation offered through the crucified. But in latter years this barrier has been swept away, and instead of the church and the world keeping apart, they appear to be going hand in hand, each one trying to outdo the other in offers to induce the people to unite with them. Toronto is often quoted as a city of churches—Toronto the Good—but actual figures will show that a large majority of the people of that city make no pretence of religion and seldom if ever go to church, and not only neglect this important function themselves, but fail to have their children receive any religious instruction whatsoever. We believe that it is high time to call a halt to this worldly-mindedness on the part of the church and its present day leaders and to get back to the real, heartfelt and co-operative religion of the years that have gone.

The Washington Conference

The great conference on the Limitations of Armament has completed its duties. It is true that it has not succeeded in the banishment of war, but it has been enabled to reach some definite agreements which will help to link together the great nations of the world in an earnest attempt to lessen the likelihood of war. A Naval treaty has been made and signed by United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan in which arrangements have been made for a radical reduction in naval armament, and if no more had been accomplished than this the meeting of the conference would not have been in vain. This treaty not only definitely limits naval construction, but it also binds the five contracting parties concerned to refrain from building naval bases in Western Pacific Islands thereby lessening the chance of a war between the East and West.

The treaty puts poison and asphyxiating gases under the ban and it is unanimously agreed not to use submarines as commerce destroyers. The Shantung incident between China and Japan has been settled and the British will withdraw from Wei-Hai-Wei. The Conference brought together the great powers of the world to discuss together in a reasonable and peaceful manner the questions which might easily be war provoking. Thus it has been found possible to reach a common agreement and develop an international confidence which will do much to make another world-war impossible.

Our New High Commissioner at London

The Ottawa Government have appointed Mr. P. C. Larkin of Toronto to the post of High Commissioner of Canada at London, England. He succeeds Sir Geo. H. Perley who succeeded the late Lord Strathcona in 1914. Mr. Larkin is of Irish parentage and was born in Montreal on May 18, 1866. For a number of years he represented a wholesale grocery firm of Montreal as a traveller. His business brought him in close touch with the tea trade of Canada and he later organized the Salada Tea Company. This company was the first to introduce the sealed package to the consumer and more Salada tea is said to be sold on the American Continent than of any other firm's product. In 1911 Mr. Larkin was appointed Canadian Representative on the Royal Commission to investigate the trade resources of the British Empire, but on the defeat of the Laurier Government shortly afterwards he resigned, being succeeded by Sir Geo. Foster. Mr. Larkin has always taken active interest in institutions of a public nature and was the Vice-Chairman of the Toronto General Hospital Board during the period in which the new group of buildings of that institution on College street were conceived and erected. This group was erected at a cost of $4,600,000; covers nine acres of land and has an accommodation for over 750 patients. Mr. Larkin is a past president of the League for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, and is also a traveller of world-wide experience, having had wide direct-to-hand experience along the lines of the duties which will fall to the New High Commissioner at London, and unless all signs fail, promises to make the best representative that was ever appointed by Canada to this very important post.

Editorial Comment

The Ontario Government should see that Matthew Bullock is represented by counsel who will make the state of North Carolina prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that he is wanted for an offence covered by the Extradition Treaty.

Telling one's age by the snow is said to be accomplished thus:—"If you hate to see the snow come down you are getting old. If you like to sit and look out at it snowing, you are middle-aged. If you like to be out in the snow, you are young. How old are you?"

At the recent Retail Merchant Tailors' Convention the general complaint was the scarcity of apprentices. The same trouble appears in the building trades. Why our Canadian youth should refuse to learn two of the best paying trades is beyond our comprehension.

Our Canadian dollar can soon begin to throw out its chest and look the world in the face. The Wall Street Journal believes it may be restored to par in United States before Spring. The restoration of our Canadian dollar would have been par long since if Canadian people had refused to buy U. S. goods until they received one hundred cents for their dollar.

The so-called Irish Republicans are seizing and destroying copies of newspapers that support the Free State party. The first act of any tyrant is to forbid the freedom of the press: Getting rid of British troops has not brought liberty to the people of Southern Ireland. It now looks like civil war in Ireland. Truly it has been said that an Irishman would sooner fight than eat.

Seven treaties emerging from the Washington Conference will be brought before the U. S. Senate for ratification. Each involves restrictions on each nation in the interest of all. In principle none of the treaties differs from the Covenant of the League of Nations. It is now up to the Republican Senators, who opposed the League in order to defeat Ex-President Woodruff Wilson, to be loyal to President Harding at the expense of consistency.

AESOP'S ADVERTISING FABLE

Once upon a Time there lived a Merchant Prince who inserted a small ADVERTISING Card in his local paper. The World and His Wives rushed to the Store and the Great Battle of Push and Take occurred. The Merchant Prince did such a Tremendous Business as a Result of this one Small Advertisement that he was able to Retire and Spend the rest of his Life playing at Golf.

That is a Fable!

But it still represents some folks ideas of advertising.

ADVERTISING won't make any man or firm rich over night, but, if intelligently used with persistence, it will multiply customers, increase turnover, swell profits and build such goodwill for the advertiser as nothing else will.

Get the facts from "The Jarvis Record."
