Educationists and church leaders are studying the child as it has never been studied in the hisagent for McLaughlin and Durant Cars tory of the world. Such a study are making a special offer. An schools of the continent are awake inspection of their cars is solicited to the question as never before, and international committees are presenting programmes for 'teen age boys and girls that were never dreamt of in years gone by. During the past twenty-five years the whole scheme of teaching has been revolutionized, and Christian churches must recognize that fact if they are to successfully train our youth in matters of religion. To educate we draw out what is already latent in the child life. Inway he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

Ruskin says; "In the child we have humanity, faith, charity and and arrived recently. This speaks highly cheerfulness reverted and illustrat- of the horse, as Black Bird has a colt by ed." It is true. Every child has Wild Mayo, which experts say is a crackfaith. It puts faith in its parents, er. There are to be good prizes offered and in most cases will put its faith at Jarvis Agricultural Fair for Wild Mayo in God and Christ if rightly direct- colts. Also prizes for mares bred to this ed. The child also has intelligence horse. emotion and will. But the trouble is the youngest children these three qualities do not work together. Sometimes the will power is uppermost in child life, and at other times the emotions or the intellect.

These various stages should be carefully studied and the type of training ought to be given that will best guide and develope the child life through these stages. Psychologists tell us that in young children the will power is wonderfully asserted, but from 7 years on to 12 years the will power is temporarily arrested, while the emotions and intelligence greatly develop; to be followed by the will power bulking big again and the emotions retiring. All these ideas should be studied by Christian leaders if they are to do their best work with the child life under their care.

In the matter of religious education it is difficult, and will continue to be difficult, for all the churches to work together, adopting the program of any interdenominational board, simply because the denominations do not see eye to eye as to the religious status of the child. There are those who take the stand that the child is born into the kingdom of God at its natural birth; that the child is naturally good, has no need of conversion, and if sanely educated will never leave the kingdom. Others take the ground that a child enters the kingdom by an external sacramental act of infant baptism. This act is supposed to Main Street, Jarvis, Ontario have regenerating value and to place the child within the kingdom, while a third wing of the Christain church objects to both these views. claiming that a child is not born in the kingdom, nor yet brought into it by an external sacramental act; that the only way a child can enter the kingdom is by an act of its own will through faith in Christ as the Saviour; that only those who repent and believe can become spiritual kingdom of God, and they claim that science, experience and the Bible are in harmony with their

The foregoing views are simply stated to reveal the difficulty of any board arranging a programme for child life that will harmonize such divergent views. The education considerably different to that of another. They each start from a different viewpoint. They have conceptions both of the nature of Because of such divergent views it seems imperative that religious training should be carried on by the churches in their own way and also by the home. Neither the church or the home is fulfilling its duty in this regard. Martineau, in speaking of the mother's power, said; - "When a mother calls her children to her knees to speak to them of God, she is herself the greatest object of their affections. E D I T O R I A L It is by her power over them that God becomes venerable; by the purity of her eye that He becomes holy: by the silence of the hour Christ placed the little child in derness of her tones He becomes that He becomes awful; by the ten-Christian church should assist the It is only in recent years that the home in that great task.

The rangers on the Ombabika to Fort Hope canoe route in the far north on July 4th found an area 10 miles long by 4 miles wide which had been swept by fire since their previous trip. A camp fire left on a portage was the cause. A prospector on the Montreal River started a fire
