Mother

Of the three hundred and sixty-five days of the year there are a number which are more or less set apart to commemorate and to externalize sacred and historic events of the ages

The object of "Mother's Day" is many fold, it brings more closely home to wandering sons and daughters sacred thoughts of "Mother"

There is no one more worthy of recognition than "Mother" in much has always been expected of "Mothers"—in love, in service and in sacrifice

A Misspent Life: A recent press from Ireland announcing the death of Richard Croker passed by almost without comment

Urban Municipalities will contribute in the form of taxes their full share of the proposed bonus for rural light and power lines

Our University trained men and women may have a far greater knowledge than "Mother" has, but we prefer to place confidence in her God-given powers of instructive wisdom

"Mother's" love and the memory of it has saved many a person from going deeper in sin. God have mercy on the one, who, when tempted, does not hesitate at the thought of "Mother"

The thought of "Mother" carries us back to memories of long ago and to scenes forever past. Those of us who have been unfortunate in the loss of "Mother" cherish her hallowed memory and from her saintly and blessed life derive strength to live a life more worthy for her and to continue to strive to so continue to strive to so conduct ourselves that we may merit the mother love she had for us while here on earth with us, that she is still watching over us

To those who have not as yet been called upon to pass through the greatest sorrow that can come to us in this life, take warning before it is too late. Look to the "Perfect example," between "Mother" and son. Christ lived a perfect life. He made His earthly home gloriously happy, and from the agony of the cross on Calvary His thoughts were for His "Mother's" welfare

The conflict that has been so much dreaded has at last broken out in Southern Ireland with all the proportions of civil war

Some famous jokes have taken the form of puns on names. Good Queen Bess, who liked to show her wit in this direction, once rallied her courtier, Lord Burleigh, about the Earl of Leicester, saying, "Ye be Earl, my Lord of Burleigh, but ye Leicester, my less stir than my Lord of Leicester"

Excuses won't do, he stands no sort of fumery; Though Winter his name is, his presence is summary

Thomas Hood, the poet, was the prince of English punsters, and found his own name a fruitful subject of his wit

Neither in their personal nor their corporate capacity do the members of Lloyd's assign the classification which in the world-famous phrase "A 1 at Lloyd's" has been adopted as a criterion of reliability and worth

Thought Cape Ann Greenland: Cape Ann, which furnished a bleak and barren harbor for adventurous explorers, was settled temporarily only three years after the Mayflower arrived at Plymouth

Reports that the death of Captain Smith "angling with a hook, and crossing the sweet air from lake to lake" attracted many English fishing men to have sought their subsistence largely through agriculture
