

ALLIED POWERS AT LAUSANNE PLAN TO DISARM TURKEY IN EUROPE

Demilitarized Strip of Fifteen Miles on Ottoman Border Would Include Adrianople and All Strategic Points Leaving Constantinople as Only Important Military Post of Kemalists.

A despatch from Lausanne says:—Supported solidly by the Balkan bloc, a secret sub-committee of the Lausanne Conference, which has been examining the question of demilitarizing the Ottoman frontier and Thracian, has practically reached a decision to disarm Turkey in Europe.

On recommendation from General Weygand, Marshal Foch's Chief of Staff, it was announced that a zone approximately fifteen miles wide on both sides of the border from the Black Sea to the Aegean should be completely stripped of all fortifications and war materials of every kind and no troop movements allowed therein.

This zone would include Adrianople and several other towns along the Maritima River, whose uses as military bases, in the opinion of Gen. Weygand, would be essential to the Turks if they should ever attempt an offensive war on their neighbors in Europe.

Gen. Weygand pointed out that, despite the development of trenches and temporary earthworks in the late war, which would be of value to belligerents, strategic strongholds and forts would be diminished.

This demilitarized strip would also include the strategic railway line from the Bulgarian frontier through Karagatch to the port of Dedagatch, on the Aegean, thus providing Bulgaria with an outlet and preventing either side, in case of future war, from using for warlike purposes the sole means of railway transport in the territory.

With their frontier thus demilitarized, the Turks would have Constantinople as their only military base in Europe, and they would be separated from their Balkan neighbors by miles of unprotected and semi-desert terrain.

Although the decision was not received favorably in Turkish quarters, the belief is held that it will bow to it in the hope of being able to secure compensation somewhere else, especially since the big powers are unanimous on this decision.

In any event the matter will be referred to Ankara for final decision. The plan, which lifts the menace of Moslem aggression against the Turkish Christian neighbors, is resulting in a new Balkan bloc due to the untiring efforts of Premier Nicholas of Greece.

The action taken by Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, Greece and Bulgaria on this question is regarded as the initial step toward the formation of a Balkan alliance which is designated to supersede the Little Entente.

The latter is considered the logical development of secret British negotiations with the Belgrade and Bucharest Governments for pledges of military aid in support of the British naval strength against the Turks in case it should ever become necessary to use force to impose the Western powers' will in the Near East.

When neither the French nor Italian would promise the contingents of troops the British deemed necessary at Gallipoli and the Dardanelles port, the British and Rumanians began two months ago.

Canada from Coast to Coast

Halifax, N.S.—The export of Nova Scotia apples through the port of Halifax to date is nearly eighty thousand barrels in excess of the total shipments for the same period of the 1921-22 season. Figures available show the 339 barrels have passed through the port since the season began, while the total for the same period last season was only 230,737 barrels. During the month of October there were eighteen steamers left Halifax with cargoes totaling 173,069 barrels.

Campbelltown, N.B.—Fifty-five cargoes of lumber have been shipped from this port this season, which is a record. It is reported that lumber companies are being flooded with orders for lumber and lath.

Montreal, Que.—The largest roller-bearing in the world is reported to be on exhibit at the Motor Show in London, England, before its shipment to Canada. It is over four feet high, weighs more than a ton, and is of the chain type, like those recently tested by the British Railways. This giant bearing, and two others like it, will be installed in a Canadian pulp mill.

Toronto, Ont.—Eighteen hundred exhibitors, forty-five from the United States, showed their products at the Royal Winter Fair here. The exhibition was held in the Royal Coliseum, one of the greatest arenas on the continent, covering approximately nine acres.

Edmonton, Alta.—Federal plans for a chain of wireless stations extending right into the Arctic Circle are being completed. The stations will be operated by the Dominion Government, with the primary purpose of keeping officials in touch with one another. The locations of the proposed stations are Forts Smith, Resolution, Simpson, Norman, and McPherson on the Mackenzie, and the sixth one has been located at the head of Canyon Creek. Returns of two thousand ounces of silver to the ton have been secured. Five tons have been taken out and shipped to the smelter at Trail.

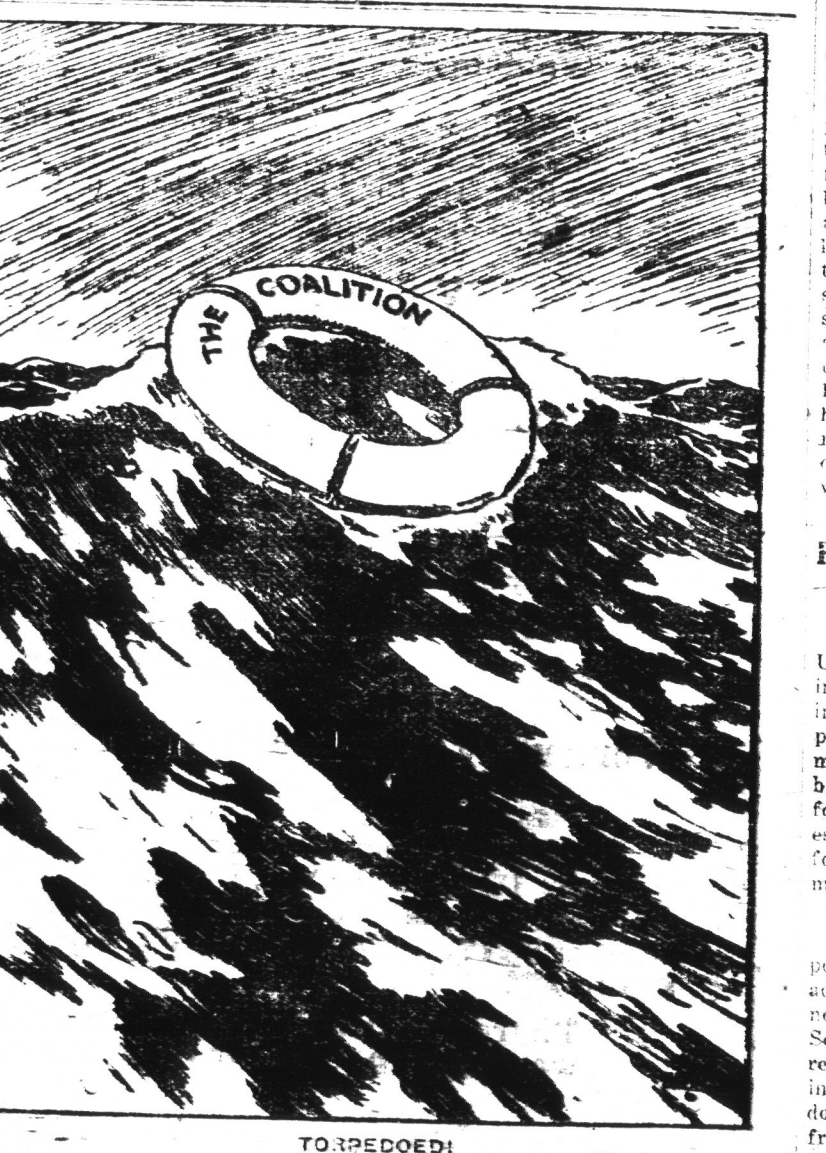

British Mine Owners Hope to Retain Canadian Trade

A despatch from London says:—British coal mine owners are beginning to hope that it will be possible to build up a permanent export trade in coal with Canada. Notwithstanding the element of the strike in the United States, large quantities of Welsh coal continue to be sent to both Canada and the United States. Two steamers left from Swansea on Thursday with 12,000 tons and further large cargoes are booked. It is recognized that there is slim chance of retaining the custom of the United States; but it is hoped that a permanent trade in the better class of Welsh coal may be built up with Eastern Canada. The Canadian Government merchant marine officials here are encouraging the idea, as tending to provide profitable cargoes for west bound vessels of the fleet.

Recognized Good Work of Children's Aid Society

At a recent session of the County Council of Northumberland and Durham the grant to the Children's Aid Society was increased from $200 to $200 per month in recognition of the effective work the Society is doing for neglected and homeless children.

That the increasing demand in Eastern Canada for the product of Manitoba's granite producing industries will bring about rapid development of these industries is assured. Both red and grey granite has been taken out during operation of the quarries within the past two years, and it is expected the industry will develop rapidly since a market has been found in the East.

Quebec to Check Hoarding and Speculation

A despatch from Quebec says:—A drastic measure creating a Fuel and Food Control Board in this Province, with powers to render obligatory and final decisions fixing and limiting the quantities of coal and food which may be sold in time of crisis to customers, and compelling manufacturers and merchants to supply the board with an inventory of the fuel and food they have in store in warehouses, was presented in the Legislative Assembly on Thursday. Severe penalties are provided, and fines varying from $25 to $100 may be imposed under the Quebec Summary Conviction Act.

Intake and Outgive.

In the case of those who rush about from pillar to post in "society," bound to see all the sights and hear all the sounds that constitute "high life" and the social whirl, one easily discovers an empty uninterestingness, shown first in the vacant, aimless face and then in the stupid, futile conversation of most of the "society."

One has nothing to give out if one never takes in anything. Failure to feed the inner life is a failure to feed the mountain springs replenish the lowland stream. As every factory must receive constantly its supply of the raw material, as a newspaper must have rolls of paper for its presses, even so the bodily mechanism requires its fuel of vitamins. The spirit, too, imperatively cries for its daily bread. We carry a small book to read or a letter from a friend, and we cannot see that friend, and when the soul hungers we feast on what we read. A man in the World War carried a girl's picture, or a lock of hair, or a baby's shoe. It was not a bullet for the enemy, it was not even a talisman against a wound, but it lifted him through hell; it was a memory to keep him straight and going on.

The things men live by may be the things they hide or the things they mention, or even the things that they deny; but through the working hours or the playtime, subconsciously they go with us, to cheer, inspire and fortify. They are the necessities, as the compass and the rudder are to a ship. They keep one true to the course; they are restorative after a sad maze of error.

Again and again we must return to some source of power to be replenished, quickened, corrected with a wise discernment. That source of power is personal, and we cannot get strength from those who have no strength to give. We do not appeal to the vain, empty, frivolous, flippant ones to help us, for the effort is quite beyond them, even if they would.

The tragedy of life is to find oneself afflicted in partnership, be it marital or industrial, with one who merely exhausts and makes no return. "Freely ye have received, freely give." Nothing in this world was bestowed on us that we might clutch it to ourselves and make a tantalizing display of what we have for those who have not. Did any one ever deserve to be loved and admired for merely showing off? It doesn't need the approval of Christmas to tell us that a gift brings greater joy than an acceptance. Nor is there any gift like that of ourselves, if we have anything at all in our nature that can heal or bless. It is hard indeed, to imagine a nature so poor and mean that it cannot offer a real service to the peace and harmony of a world, the affectionate everyday communion of a household and a family.

The Bells of Limerick.

Limerick, where the Irish rebels had their headquarters, has one of the most beautiful peals of bells in the world. They were made in Italy by a young workman, who after the toll of many years, produced a peal of bells which were so perfect in tone, that even his critical judgment was satisfied. The bells were hung in a neighboring convent, but in the course of years war swept across that part of the land, and the bells were lost. Misfortune overtook the bell founder and he left his native land, wandering about the world for years. Then, learning that his bells had been taken to Limerick, he set out to hear their sweet tones once again. As his vessel sailed up the Shannon, borne upon the wind from the towers of the cathedral came the music of his bells. He went forward and sat, listening, his gaze fixed upon the distant cathedral, but when the vessel came to anchor and they went to arouse him he was dead.

Forbid Foreigners Holding French Real Estate

A despatch from Paris says:—The United States Embassy has received instruction from the State Department in Washington to make immediate representations to the French Government concerning the recent adoption by the Chamber of Deputies of a bill forbidding foreigners to hold real estate in France, or to lease property for more than nine years without the approval of the government.

Assurance of French official support for the expedition train of Canadian troops which is to leave for the next spring has been obtained by Senator C. J. Bonaparte, of Montreal, from President Millerand, according to a despatch received from London. The French railways are to give free passage to the train, and a special exhibition will be arranged in Paris after the tour.

NEW BRITISH HOUSE CONFRONTED BY VITAL ISSUES, IRISH AND LABOR

A despatch from London says:—The new Parliament opened on Thursday, if not in a tranquil, at least in a quiet mood. There were no fireworks, and Ramsay MacDonald, as leader of the Opposition, made it plain that he was leading the Labor party in a quiet, non-violent manner, and that he was not prepared to offer redress for its grievances.

This is taken as a timely warning to the extremists of his party whose demagogic while the House was being sworn in indicated impatience with the orderly conduct of business under the established usages of Parliament. MacDonald made a favorable impression not only by his attitude on this point, but by his whole manner and the tone of his speech.

Lloyd George, sitting below the gangway in the seat not long since occupied by Horatio Bottomley, followed the word of triumph. Labor's leader with the deepest interest, but let no sign of approval or disapproval escape him. He scanned with something of amusement in his expression, the faces of the Ministers as MacDonald, with all the master of the situation, confronted them. He predicted the success of Labor in any proposal of the dispute between Bonar Law was rather a surprise, especially in view of the heavy game played in his determination to see the Irish treaty opened.

The session opened with all the ceremonial attendant upon the opening of Parliament. Dr. King, Queen, in the State coach, escorted by Life Guards, the Lord Chamberlain, and the Lord Steward, accompanied by Queen Mary, King George, and the Duke of York, were in the State coach, escorted by Life Guards, the Lord Chamberlain, and the Lord Steward, accompanied by Queen Mary, King George, and the Duke of York.

CANADA BUYS LESS FROM UNITED STATES

Remarkable Decline in Dominion Imports from the South.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—The extent of the decline in Canadian imports of products from the United States is shown by a statement just issued through the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, giving comparative figures for the twelve months ending October 31 last and the twelve-month period ending October 31, 1921 and 1920.

This statement reveals the fact that imports from the United States declined in value $115,272,742 during the twelve months ending October 31 last, in comparison with the previous twelve months.

When the figures for the period just ended are compared with those for the twelve-month period ending October 31, 1920, a drop of no less than $290,012,574 is shown.

During the twelve months ending October 31, 1922, exports to the United States were to the value of $1,037,218. During the previous twelve-month period they totalled $1,000,018. Exports to the United Kingdom, on the other hand, increased from $296,778,084 in the twelve months ending October 31, 1921, to $326,370,712 in the period just ended.

Alberta's death rate from tuberculosis is the second lowest in Canada, so Dr. R. E. Woodhouse, of Ottawa, secretary of the National Society for the Relief of Tuberculosis, declared at a big public meeting at Regina. He is campaigning for a general plan, effective throughout the Dominion, which will provide adequate means for the combating of this disease.
