Only a Youth, but Never Knew a Boyhood

George Adams is a very weak boy he's so weak he can't even turr the pages of a book without feeling pain. He has a good many brothers and sisters and his parents are very poor. So when George put on long trousers—he was just 12 at the time—he became a man and took upon himself the task of earning money for the family.

He went to learn a trade in an iron foundry, where fumes and hard work undermined a weak system and sowed future trouble. Now and then one ciher working member of the family would cease earning through sickness or loss of job, and George would have to keep his nose to the grindstone a few more hours each day to make up for it. His life was just work, work, until one day he dropped on the floor. The company physician, who examined him, prescribed a year or two at the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives. He can't understand why he never had a boyhood and none of the good things of life, but he's fairly happy—he knows separation from his family safeguards them. He's content, and he still has hand.

There are many just such deserving cases in need of treatment at the Muskoka Hospital. Will you lend a hand.

"Don't Worry About Me" Tom's Assuring Message

On a little farm away up north Tom lived with his parents and one brother. His father, well up in years, found himself unable to continue the hard work of farming, so Tom took up the burden. The income was not large, and the lad signed up with a lumber gang working nearby—sawing logs, stripping back and driving the teams. Altogether these two jobs, farmer and lumberman, kept his day so well filled that he had time for little more than sleep. Nature rebelling at this heavy burden—consumption claimed another victim.

After trying various ways to overcome his physical weakness, he went to the Muskoka. Hospital. His parents are anxious about him, they send the other son to see him often, for they are old and feeble and journeying is a hazardous undertaking to them. Tom's own troubles are never so real to him that he forgets others. He asks for those about him, lives for little bits of news about his home, and never falls to send this message back, "Don't worry about me. The 'people here sure do treat you white."

A wonderful work is being done by the National Sanitarium Association. The death rate from tuberculosis in Ontario has been reduced by more than one-half during the last twenty years. It needs your help to make its efforts still more effective.
