Champion Lady Bowler

Miss Nellie Poole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Poole, of 160 Yarmouth Road, Toronto, is recognized as the best lady bowler in the Queen City. The following extract is taken from the columns of the "The Sport and Bowler" of Jan. 13th:—

"Winners of Gold Watch Competition"
 Jas. Sutcliffe..... 836
 Sam Stein..... 380
 Miss Nellie Poole..... 670
 Miss Lila Gange..... 329

"The largest competition for the most valuable prizes ever staged in a bowling academy in Toronto came to a close at the Olympia at 12 p.m. New Year's night, after running continuously from Christmas morning, with the result that the above mentioned are officially declared the winners of the solid gold watches over approximately 1,800 bowlers. The winners are indeed to be congratulated on their wonderful performance, as their scores would do credit to anyone. Miss Nellie Poole of Gutta Percha Ladies' Head Office league, is without doubt one of Toronto's best lady bowlers, and her best effort in the competition was made on New Year's afternoon when she scored 211, 266, 193, 670, which gave her high three and high single, but as each bowler could only win one prize, Miss Lila Gange was awarded the high single with 229. Miss Range, who is one of the Toronto Transportation sharpshooters, rolled her score on Thursday during a Transportation contest. James "Lefty" Sutcliffe of Industrial Press proved himself the big hitter of the men, also putting in his best effort on New Year's afternoon. Lefty, with a large gallery around him, never weakened for a moment, and started off his three strings with 365 and followed it up with 240 and 231 for 836 total. Like Miss Poole, Sutcliffe also had high single, and by virtue of his three high games high single was awarded to Sam Stein of the Gutta Percha and Rubber Co. league, whose 380 game made on Wednesday was second highest single of the week, Sam also rolling the second high three, counting 811. Miss Poole was born in Walpole near Nantucket. In 1908 she moved with her parents to Toronto, and later became employed as stenographer for the Gutta Percha Rubber

First, your signals were coming in beautifully and the modulation was splendid.
 Secondly, it was especially enjoyable on account of the work of Mrs. Bates, who is a Jarvis girl. Her three solos on this occasion were exceptionally good and clear.
 Wishing you all success in the work and thanking you for the entertainment which you provide.
 Also wishing you the season's greetings, I remain,
 Yours sincerely,
 R. H. FALLIS.

Mrs. Bates, who was formerly Miss Shirley Rodgers, of this place, is one of Canada's foremost soloists, and is well known all over Canada. Jarvis people follow with interest her public career and are proud of her.

Old Landmark Gone

About four o'clock last Friday morning fire was discovered in the old Exchange Hotel, which in late years has been used as a garage and showroom by Messrs. Allen and McCarter. Owing to the start obtained by the fire nothing could be done to save anything. Eight automobiles were destroyed and Mr. E. W. Anderson, who had his repair shop in building, lost his whole equipment. Mr. J. Shuter and another gentleman, who had rooms upstairs, had narrow escapes. It is thought that spontaneous combustion was the cause of the fire. The losses will be heavy as insurance carried was light.

A Word of Thanks

Mr. E. W. Anderson and family desire through the "Record" to express their appreciation of the sympathy and help extended to them by the village, on account of fire. They also hope to further show their thanks by re-establishing a motor repair service that will in every way meet the needs of the public.

any question, making much effort on the part of the fishermen to have it removed, not as a special favor from the government, but because, he claimed, it was an injustice and a serious handicap to the industry.

Captain Robinson, of Port Dover, for 14 years in charge of one of the Federal Government's patrol boats on the Lake Erie International line, addressed the members on that subject; F. C. Hart, head of the co-operative marketing branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, handled that topic in an interesting address; A. McLeod, superintendent of hatcheries in Ontario, spoke on conservation; and Hugh C. McKillop M.P. for West Elgin, appealed for a hearing of the branch that has existed between the two classes of fishermen for so long. Other speakers who enlarged on these timely subjects were Alex Wallace, M.P. for Norfolk county, J. H. Conlon, editor of the Canadian Fisherman and representative of the Canadian Fisherman's Association; Col. Emmerton, London, district game warden; and G. H. Rapsey the superintendent of fisheries in Ontario.

Compares Canadians and Americans

Mr. Barwell's address perhaps made the greatest impression on the members assembled, and caused the most discussion at its conclusion, dealing as it did with a question that is undoubtedly an important one in the eyes of the majority of fishermen. He compared fishing conditions along the north shore of Lake Erie with those along the south shore, not only at the present time with the new Fordney Tariff Bill imposing a duty of one cent a pound on all fish exported to the United States, but also prior to that. Even before the new duty was introduced the American fishermen had the advantage of the Canadians, he claimed, in the fact that their annual license payments were considerably lower. This was especially true of the gill net fishermen, who were required to pay $25 a year in the United States and no royalties. In the gill net fishermen must not only pay the annual license of $250, but also the $5 per ton royalty on all fish caught over the 75 ton maximum. The $250 license payment was merely the initial tax that allowed a gill netter to fish. Mr. Barwell claimed, for unless a fisherman could catch more than the 75 ton limit he would starve to death. He insisted that the license fees charged by the Ontario Government was sufficient tax on the fishermen without the royalty and he urged the fishermen to unite and request the government as an act of justice and not as a special favor to remove the royalty. He contended that the resolution passed by the association last year, asking for the discontinuance of the royalty and the government fish sales plan should have received favorable consideration last year.

 As evidence of the hardships many fishing companies had suffered during the past two years, Mr. Barwell cited the case of the Port Dover Fish Company Ltd., of which he was a member. The company had a turnover of approximately $50,000 and the office expenses, including those of the manager, do not exceed $2500 a year, yet in 1921 the company showed a deficit, and last year it would not more than break even. In the face of such evidence as this, he thought there was good reason for fishermen to ask for government assistance.

Compare With Other Industries

Mr. Barwell argued that the Ontario Department of Fisheries should look at the fishing industry from a comparative standpoint, considering what assistance was being given the fruit growers and other classes of agriculture. He did not know of any way in which the government helped the fishermen except in the matter of hatcheries.

Mr. Barwell also touched on the reported threatened discontinuance of the hatcheries. Such action would be like taking coal from a fire that heats a man's home.

Mr. McLeod replied to Mr. Barwell in respect to the hatchery removal report. He knew that no communication of that nature had gone out from the Ontario Department and felt certain that there was no desire or design by department officers to discontinue such an important work.

President Brown explained that the letter asking the opinion of the association in reference to the suggested removal of the hatcheries for economic reasons had come from J. A. Rodd of the Dominion Department of Mines and Fisheries.

Mr. Rapsey questioned Mr. Barwell in reference to the business of the Port Dover company. If the company suffered a loss in 1921 and was able to break even in 1922, it did not appear that the new United States duty of one cent per pound was working any appreciable hardship on the industry, he stated.

In reply, Mr. Barwell explained that 1921 was one of the poorest fishing years on record, while in the Port Dover region the 1922 catches had been steadier although there had been no improvement in market prices. With the bulk of the fish caught selling at from two to three cents a pound, the net tax certainly did
