TALKING RECIPROCITY

Old Question Again Enters Political Arena.

Suggestions Made by Hon. W. A. Fielding During Course of Budget Speech in Canadian House of Commons Arouse Interest in Washington—Tariff Controversy is to be Reopened.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Suggestion made in the Canadian House of Commons by W. A. Fielding, Minister of Finance, relative to reciprocity with the United States, has caused a new controversy to be reopened in the Legislative Assembly pending for the Electoral District of Haldimand, and that of Premier Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Canada. Under the Reciprocity Bill and by the power given to the Governor-in-Council, the suggested reductions without legislative action.

The Canadian dissatisfaction with the United States tariff is well-known, and is regarded as interfering with the increasingly close relations with Canada which the present administration is endeavoring to foster. Minister Fielding is the same man who negotiated the original reciprocity treaty with the United States, which resulted so disastrously to the interests of Canada in the hands of the Board of the Harding Administration were silent on the suggestion, but the new members of Congress interested in the proposal.

Mr. Fielding's proposal is assumed to have been made as a part of the policy of the King Cabinet and probably as a result of investigation and settlement relative to the tariff in the agricultural sections of the United States.

Regardless of enthusiastic references to the effect of the tariff made from the middle west show opposition to it. Outside of growers of hard wheat and Montana, dirt farmers are understood to be in a state of revolt. That benefits they obtain are more than offset by the higher prices they are compelled to pay for the things they buy.

This is especially true of farmers in the corn growing sections who find themselves robbed of one of their chief resources which has consisted in the past in bringing "feeders" (cattle) from Canada—cattle which were fattened on American corn. Turning saleable beef by this method is now barred because of the encroachment of the tariff which eats up the profit.

One of the chief features has been the Reciprocity tariff policy, but which has up to this time resulted in general arrangements with South America never found their way out of State Department pigeon holes, while the rate of the tariff-Laurier reciprocity has been changed since then and that new reciprocal arrangement will be profit by the mistakes of the last one. The American farmer objects to the tariff arrangement chiefly on the ground that while he was to be admitted to open competition with the Canadian farmer, the tariff on his machinery was not disturbed. His reciprocity arrangement would probably have to take this into consideration.

It is noted, however, that Mr. Fielding's suggestion deals only with both ways on cattle, wheat, wheat, turnips, hay and fish. It is assumed that if the Administration makes a proposal along this line, the American farmers will clamor once more for a reduction of the tariff on the machinery something that is likely to reopen the entire tariff controversy.

There is an increasing school in the United States which believes that wherever the tariff bars should be let down completely between the two English-speaking American countries. The pro-British element in Canada is expected to oppose such a program on the ground that increasing commercial relations between Canada and the United States might result in closer political affiliation.
