A despatch from Ottawa says:-The announcement by Hon. J. A. Robb that about 8,000 openings for winter employment have already been found for British harvesters, is evidence that the great majority of these men can get work in Canada throughout the winter, if they are prepared to take ordinary chances. As it is believed that 12,000 harvesters came from the British Isles, it will thus be seen that jobs have been secured for two-thirds of them, to say nothing of others who have secured employment through their own efforts.

"All the men I brought out have got jobs and will stay in Canada, Captain Northcotte-North, of Birmingham, a writer and lecturer, who brought out 35 harvesters, men of his old company, and who passed through the city on his way homesto England. This party got work near Carroll, Manitoba. Speaking of their expertences there, he said:
