The Coin And The Goblet

Put a derby hat on a goblet as in the illustration. Put a half dollar on the top of the hat.

The problem is to knock the hat o that the half dollar will full into the gobiet. There are two ways in which the trick may be presented. The first is to tell what is to be done and letting your friends try it. After they have failed, as they will, you can show how easy it is to do it. The better way is to practice the trick until you can do it well. Then do the stunt, relying upon your skill to hide the method by which the result is accomplished. Pretend to strike the hat two or three times as if you were gauging the amount of force needed and the exact direction of the blow. When you strike, however, do not strike the outside of the hat. Strike inside, as near the brim as possible. If you do it that way, the coin will fall into the glass. A little clever acting will persuade your friends that you struck where you pretended you were going to strike on the outside of the hat. Try it.
