Protect Against Winter

Reasons For Fall Painting

- 1.—In the Fall the surface is thoroughly dry.
- 2.—When the wood is dry it absorbs more of the paint. The paint penetrates deeper into the wood, therefore getting a firmer hold on it, giving the paint coating greater tenacity of holding qualities.
- 3.—A house needs its protecting coat of paint more in the winter than at any other time. A house is need of repainting should never be allowed to go over the winter without this protection.
- 4.—It is easier to keep moisture and dampness out by applying a coat of paint when the surface is dry than it is to get the moisture or dampness out of the wood when you want to apply paint.

FEARFUL EXPERIENCES IRELAND'S PARLIAMENT

Arrival of First Refugees From Stricken Country.

Steamer President Jefferson, with survivors of Yokohama earthquake, arrives at Victoria, B.C.—Many are suffering from gruesome injuries sustained in the disaster—Stories of narrow escapes.

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 17.—The steamer President Jefferson, carrying the first survivors of the Yokohama earthquake, warped into its dock at Victoria, B.C., at 11 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 17, shortly after 7.30 o'clock Saturday night.

Premier John Oliver of British Columbia and a party representing the Canadian Government, as well as representatives of the United States Public Health Service and officials of the Admiral Orient Line, operating the Jefferson, boarded the vessel at Quarantine.

Previously at the Canadian Government quarantine station at William Head, 33 British and Canadian passengers, a number of them suffering from broken arms and legs, bruises and shock, and others destitute, had been taken from the vessel to remain under care of the Canadian Red Cross as long as necessary. Doctors and nurses met them at the station and escorted them to shore.

The Jefferson carried 155 refugees, representing 13 nationalities. To many of them the arrival on American shores was the occasion of reunion with friends and relatives. To others it meant merely a long wait until "things adjust themselves and we can get back to Japan."

The Jefferson, proceeding swiftly through the Straits of Juan de Fuca, hauled around William Head shortly after five o'clock. Then there was a tedious wait at Quarantine, while Canadian and United States medical officers made careful examination to determine that there were no cases of contagious illness aboard.

At Victoria, Premier Oliver of British Columbia, and an official party, boarded the Jefferson and offered the assistance of the Canadian Government to the passengers. There were a few cases of seriously injured aboard.

A providential hand held the Empress of Australia on an even keel when she was caught in the earthquake and tidal wave which swept Yokohama at noon on September 1, according to Rev. Francis G. Gilbert, Boston missionary, who was aboard the vessel in Yokohama harbor when the disturbance came.

Recounting his experience on the Empress of Australia in Yokohama harbor, Rev. Mr. Gilbert said:

"It threw the great vessel 25 feet out from the wharf, and in doing so the wire mooring ropes jerked out the heavy mooring pins, and piles of the wharf set in cement. Then barges, some of them oil barges which had been torn loose, 13 or 15 of them altogether, flamed around the Empress and took fire, all burning at the same time. At one time the bow of the ship was plunged right through a burning building. Before the vessel could work her way out of this some of the oil barges were burned down to the water's level. There, with burning oil 15 to 18 inches deep, the flames shot fully 300 feet up in the air. That oil on the water burned for six or seven hours."

Mr. Gilbert asserted that there has been no exaggeration in the reports of damage reaching this continent.

Marvelous stories of narrow escapes were related by many of the women survivors. They told, often with trembling lips, of death from fire, sea or exposure, of rescues of men whose limbs were amputated that they might be freed from debris, and of heroic courage on the part of rescuers, while all the time their trembling fingers picked nervously at their makeshift garments, depicting the awful horror they had seen.

Find No Trace of Convicts.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 17.—Absolutely nothing occurred during the night which would give the searchers for the four escaped convicts from the penitentiary any clue as to the whereabouts of the fugitives. Several parties of guards were through the country, but they failed to bring to light any news of the missing men. A report was received to the effect that two men were seen about ten miles from Kingston on the Gananoque highway. They had made their way through to the Howe Island ferry. It was reported that they had fired a shot at a man in a boat. The Provincial Police were notified, and the matter followed up, but no trace of the men could be found.

Accepts Invitation.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 17.—David Lloyd George will be the guest of the Canadian Club at a luncheon here on Thursday, October 11. F. W. Griffiths, president of the club, announces, following receipt of acceptance of the invitation on behalf of the ex-Premier by Sir Alfred Cope. The former Premier will spend the whole day here, so that this city will be the only place in Ontario outside of Toronto to be favored by a visit. Lloyd George will arrive here in the afternoon, have luncheon at the Refectory, where he will give an address lasting half an hour, and will spend the afternoon on a sight-seeing tour.

Hits Obstruction and Sinks.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 17.—An uncharted obstruction is believed to have been struck by the steamer Glen Arm, which sank just outside the harbor at Port Dalhousie, Friday. The steamer, which was heavily laden with grain, was floated on Saturday. She will proceed to Kingston when sufficiently lightened.

Members of Free State House Summoned to Meet.

President Cosgrave Has 63 Seats in the New House—All Must Swear Fealty—Most of the Republican Members Are Now in Jail.

DUBLIN, Sept. 17.—The new Parliament will meet on Wednesday. All the members elected have been summoned to attend. The notices to Republicans were addressed, not to the prisons, where most of them are confined, but to their private houses. Their friends re-addressed them to Eamonn de Valera and his twenty-eight colleagues in the jails.

Some Republicans who are at large in the country came up to Dublin and were supposed to be planning a demonstration when Parliament assembled similar to that registered by Lawrence Ginnell at the opening of the Dail. This plan, however, will be frustrated by a standing order passed toward the end of the last session and not out of the printer's hands. It prescribes that no member can be admitted to the Dail Eirann unless he became a member, according to law. This means that the oath of allegiance is essential; the preliminary oath will not be taken, as in the British Parliament on the floor of the House, but beforehand privately in the clerk's office. This is expected to remove all opposition and frustrate plans for a demonstration. Members who are not sworn could be stopped at the outer gate.

The business of the opening day will be the election of a Speaker and a Deputy Speaker, and probably also a President who may make a statement of his Parliamentary program and nominate his Cabinet for the Dail's approval. In the absence of the Republican members, President Cosgrave's power will be exactly the same in the new Parliament as in the old.

The House, minus 44 Republicans, contains one hundred and nine members, among whom President Cosgrave has 63 definitely pledged supporters. The embarrassment caused by the absence of nearly one-third the members elected, constituting the second largest party, has awakened the activities of the peace-makers, who will attempt to establish a working arrangement between the Government and its Republican opponents, and as an initial step will ask for the immediate release of the 29 members now in jail.

The demonstration organized in Dublin to welcome President Cosgrave on his return from the League of Nations at Geneva has shown that all the enthusiasm is not one-sided.

The Republicans were during the elections able to fill Dublin's chief wide thoroughfare with thousands of sympathizers. But the Dublin crowds came out in equal thousands to welcome the President, while the organizing committee and the partisans in the complimentary banquet included some of the most prominent figures in the commercial and professional life of the capital. The demonstration was recognized as a tribute of admiration and encouragement to the President in his general policy more than for the part he has taken in the League of Nations. The Government's decision to join the League is generally approved, but there is no popular enthusiasm on this score. Public sentiment is accurately expressed by the statement of the Minister of External Affairs, that if the League of Nations does no good, it can do no harm, and as evidence of external status of the Free State and as a source of publicity it is worth the money it will cost.

The new shoe factory at Tillsonburg is nearing completion and the official opening is expected to take place in about ten days time.

The Old Cabinet Maker Says:

That they keep right on improving these Kitchen Cabinets until he doesn't see how they can put any more conveniences in them. Why they are arranged now so that a woman can prepare a whole meal and hardly step away from the front of one. Not alone their convenience and their handsome appearance, but the steps they save should force one of them into your home. Ours are well made of white hardwood but still reasonable in price.
