Protect Against Winter

Reasons For Fall Painting

- 1.—In the Fall the surface is thoroughly dry.
- 2.—When the wood is dry it absorbs more of the paint. The paint penetrates deeper into the wood, therefore getting a firmer hold on it, giving the paint coating greater tenacity of holding qualities.
- 3.—A house needs its protecting coat of paint more in the winter than at any other time. A house in need of repainting should never be allowed to go over the winter without this protection.
- 4.—It is easier to keep moisture and dampness out by applying a coat of paint when the surface is dry than it is to get the moisture or dampness out of the wood when you want to apply paint.

THE LONESOME WOMAN

Former British Cabinet Minister Subcommittee of House of Commons.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Viscount Morley, of Blackburn, former Lord President of the Council and Secretary of State for India, died last night at his residence in Wimbledon, from heart disease.

He was taken ill only yesterday morning and his end was peaceful. He was 85 years old.

Lord Morley leaves no heir, and the peerage becomes extinct. The veteran writer and statesman had lived for a long time in almost complete retirement. Like his famous colleague in the Asquith Ministry, John Burns, he parted from the Government in 1914 because he could not acquiesce in the war policy, and since that time had taken no very active part in politics.

In 1919, however, he was appointed a member of a special committee to draft treaties for the protection of the Jews, and later made appeals for sanity in dealing with Ireland.

Lord Morley came out of his retirement in December, 1921, to speak in the House of Lords on the Irish agreement and he gave his support to the Irish treaty.

The late Viscount Morley was born at Blackburn on December 24, 1838, the son of the late Dr. Jonathan Morley. Following education at Cheltenham College and at Lincoln's College, he became a barrister and practised in Lincoln's Inn. In 1883 he entered Parliament as a member for Newcastle-on-Tyne, a seat which he represented until 1895, when he was elected in Montrose Burghs. In 1908 he was created a viscount and thereafter sat in the House of Lords.

His political career was a notable one and led him to all many high offices. He was twice Chief Secretary for Ireland, was from 1905 to 1910 Secretary of State for India, and was Lord President of the Council from 1910 to 1914. His other honors in addition were numerous. He held honorary degrees from Glasgow, Cambridge, St. Andrew's, Edinburgh and Oxford Universities; he was a brother of Lincoln's Inn, and he was also a member of the Historical Manuscripts Commission.

Viscount Morley was known pre-eminently as a sincere and practical politician. Love of and belief in freedom guided him largely in the formulation of his policies. For this reason he was prominent always in matters of Irish policy, being, in fact, one of the founders of the policy which resulted in 1921 in Irish freedom.

He was a literary man of distinction, as well as a practical newspaper man of force. In the former capacity he was the author of many volumes dealing with politics, history and literature. As a newspaperman he became editor of the Pall Mall Gazette and exercised, in that position, an important influence upon the policies of the Liberal party. His last notable appearance in Parliament was in December, 1921, when he moved the adoption of the Irish Peace Treaty in the House of Lords.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Three Lose Lives In Gordon Bennett Balloon Race.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 24.—The Gordon Bennett Cup classic, the annual balloon race for aeronauts of all countries, which started here Saturday in terrific gusts of wind and driving rain, has already cost three lives. Of the seventeen entrants assembled for the race, thirteen, so far as is known, are in the air.

One of the balloons, reported to be the Swiss Geneva, was struck by lightning and Lieutenants Von Gruningen and Wheron were killed. The Spanish balloon Polar caught fire and its pilot, Penaranda, was killed and his assistant, Gomez, injured. The United States contestant, St. Louis, was unable to withstand the pressure of the anchor rope when hit by a half-gale and burst before the start.

The United States army S-6 glided into the Belgian Ville de Bruxelles when she was taking off and damaged the Belgian so badly that she had to be emptied of gas.

The United States navy A-8699 had a narrow escape from colliding with others waiting for the start because of atmospheric conditions, but, hastily dropping her ballast, she soared high enough to get into the air currents and sail away.

A bright sun was shining as the start was made at four o'clock. The French balloon Pizarro and the Spanish balloon Fernandez Duro were off without accident. Then the United States army S-6 rose just as dark clouds screened the sun, creating condensation, which was the probable cause of the United States balloon not reaching a safe height immediately.

Lieut. Olmstead was in charge, and as the S-6 drifted in the direction of the Belgian Ville de Bruxelles he failed to drop ballast quickly enough. The second bag had not been emptied when his basket drove heavily into the Belgian, six yards above ground.

Fortunately, the S-6 slid along the Ville de Bruxelles, skimming, tearing away part of the covering net, then, after dropping more ballast, sailed off, followed by yells from the thousands of spectators of "Stop."

The Belgian balloon was emptied immediately, in order to prevent possible accident. The Aero Club will hold a special meeting to decide whether Lieut. Olmstead will be disqualified.

Many of the balloons experienced great difficulty owing to rain and wind.

Come to Domestic.
OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—Nineteen Russian girls, said to be of noble birth, will arrive in Ottawa next week for domestic service. They come under the wing of the employment service of Canada, and all speak French, but not English.

No Chance to Exercise My Tongue, Is Her Plaint.

Was This Farmer's Wife Correct?—
Is There Any Remedy From Monotony in the Life of Rural Women?—What Is the Panacea for Farm Loneliness?—Handling Cream for Butter.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

I called at a farm home one day in search of water for an overheated motor. Slipping gently on the kitchen floor, I was met by the good lady of the house.

"May I have a pail of water?" I asked.

"You may," she said, handing me a pail and pointing to the pump. I noticed that her index finger and her chin seemed to work in unison when she indicated the direction of the pump.

"Shrewd old girl," I thought, as the water flowed into the pail. "I will try and draw her out. I wonder how she puts in the time. What is she thinking about anyway?"

A Farm Woman's View of the Quiet Life.

After filling the radiator with the clear, cold water, I returned to the door with the borrowed pail. No need of rapping this time. She met me with a kindly smile.

"You have a nice farm here," I said. "You must have a nice quiet life in the country where everything about you is just plain wholesome nature."

"Quiet life!" she said with some emphasis. "Just plain nature?" "Yes just too much so, so much so that we want to get away from it all, and be natural."

Somewhat surprised at her expressions, especially the "be natural," I had always thought that if there was any place where a person could be natural it was on the farm.

The Monotony of Farm Living.

I asked, "Why do you want to get away?"

She replied, "We have no life here. My husband and I get up at five o'clock every morning. He at once goes to the barn to feed the stock, while I get the breakfast and attend the poultry. We hurry through breakfast, and then he rushes away to the barn or fields, returning at noon for one half hour in which to eat his dinner. After dinner he is away again until supper time, when he returns tired from work in the fields, pretty well worn by the long monotonous day of heavy labor. As for me, why, I attend the house work. Yes, I attend the house work in silence all day long, and that is what gets my goat. I do not hear the sound of another voice from one day's end to another. No woman to talk to, no neighbor handy by where I could call for a chat. No chance to exercise my tongue.

Farm Women Fed Up With Silence.

"We farm women get fed up with so much silence. It is somewhat different with the men, they are working with animals and do not feel the loneliness as we women do. Once a week is not often enough for women to get together. Being kept apart so long is it any wonder that our tongues wag at both ends when an opportunity to talk does come."

Is There a Panacea for Rural Loneliness?

After hearing that little sermonette, I unconsciously started for the car that I had left standing on the roadway. Coming to my senses after a time, I began to think, just what there was in what the lady of the farm home had to say, and repeated to myself her words, "No chance to exercise my tongue, so much silence."

Perhaps, after all, the farm is too lonely a place for the average woman of to-day, and with the trend of modern living it will be a more lonesome place in the future unless something happens to change ideas and ideals.

Can anyone suggest a solution of the problem?—L. Stevenson, O. A. C., Guelph.

The Old Cabinet Maker Says:

That they keep right on improving these Kitchen Cabinets until he doesn't see how they can put any more conveniences in them. Why they are arranged now so that a woman can prepare a whole meal and hardly step away from the front of one. Not alone their convenience and their handsome appearance, but the steps they save should force one of them into your home. Ours are well made of white hardwood but still reasonable in price.
