MRS. DAVISON PLEADED

and his eyebrows and moustache singed when he struck the match and started the fire.
They had been working the farm for Niemcewicz for $40 a month and he was living with them. He had material on the ground to build a new barn and wanted money to go on with the work, they claimed, and they deposed that he was very dictatorial and never satisfied with the work. He had them at his mercy and was quite domineering. Davison was to get $100 for burning this and another house. Niemcewicz was sorry that the Dover fire brigade subdued the flames.

Evidence went to show that the Pollock had $1100 insurance on the building and the claim was for $250. He was sent up for trial.

COURT HOUSE OPENING SEPT. 22

The official opening of the Court House, which was to have been held at Cayuga last Thursday, has been postponed until the week of Sept. 22. The committee of the County Council which was looking after the program for the event, could not arrange to procure the speakers whom they desired to have present for the occasion.

SEPTEMBER "ROD AND GUN"

The September issue of "Rod and Gun in Canada" will appeal to every sportsman. A canoe trip through the Chain Lakes from Dartmouth to Shubenacadie, by R. G. Urquhart describes one of the most alluring trips that can be made anywhere in the Maritimes. "The Four of Us," by B. Lonsdale is the story of a perfect two weeks' hunting trip, while Bonnycastle Dale gives an interesting account of how the Slim Wriggling Eel is taken in Winter on the Atlantic Coast. Raymond Thompson's story of the frozen north, entitled "The Fur Cache," is one with an unusually good plot. Mildred Low introduces the reader to a very interesting group of people, "The Guides of Algonquin," and Martin Hunter narrates in his usual vivid style in "Circulating." All the regular departments are up to their usual standard of excellence and aid in providing good, all-round reading in this number of the magazine.

"Rod and Gun in Canada" is published by W. J. Taylor, Ltd., Woodstock, Ont.
