TWO MISERS
By Harvey F. Westgate

I know a man who owns and hoards
A rare old violin,
And keeps it locked within his vaults,
Nor plays a simple air;
That neighbors may not ever hear
Its liquid-tones come in,
He hides it where the dust moth lives,
And glows to see it there.

I know a man who owns and hoards
A heart without a smile,
And keeps it locked within his breast,
Nor cheers with lip or eye;
That none may gather joy from him,
Or love or hope, the while,
He hides it where the hate moth lives,
And glows to see it die.

Less Red Tape Needed

A great deal of the time of Municipal Councils is taken up with giving by-laws for borrowing money for current expenses and the appointment of officials a first, second and third reading, says the Chesley Enterprise. In those days the economy of time is being practised and it seems to us that the Municipal Act might well be changed to make a resolution by a majority of the Council just as binding. It would be a great time and labor saver. It always looks to us as a relic of feudal days. By-laws for debentures might very well be retained, but for the appointment of assessors, collectors, clerks, school attendance officers, weed inspectors, pathmasters, fenceviewers, poundkeepers and other minor municipal positions, it always appears to us as quite unnecessary. Inasmuch as nearly every by-law is passed at the same sitting of the Council—parliamentary rule of order, requiring the different readings at successive meetings being suspended—there is no object in taking time for the three readings.

Good Roads as an Advertisement

The cost of building and maintaining roads seems so great, says the Owen Sound Sun-Times, that many taxpayers are inclined to lie down and say they simply cannot be afforded.

Yet before taking that attitude, it is well to reflect on the returns that a good road brings.

The news that a certain city or district has good roads spreads for many miles around. Motorists drive that way when out for pleasure or will go in that direction when seeking a trade centre. They will go many miles out of their way if they can find a good road into some business centre. The convenience and comfort of a good road is a magnet that draws trade and business that spreads prosperity into the surrounding country. It makes a city seem a live one. The streets in its business centre are well filled with visitors, while a city with poor outlying roads find visitors going elsewhere. It costs something to solve the good roads problem, but it costs more not to.

More Safety

More safety and fewer accidents is a great need of this country. There are too many preventable accidents on the streets, in the homes and in industry. In this Province alone industry pays, through the Compensation Board, an annual tax of about six million dollars for accidents and this is only part of the loss, for the employer and employee alike suffer every time there is an accident in involving loss of time. Safety is largely a habit of mind and like other habits can be acquired. "Thinking safety" will, therefore, produce safety, so that both management and workers should give thought to accident prevention to the end, that the awful toll in human suffering and the very considerable sums of money lost may be reduced to a minimum.

More safety is a reasonable demand of industry in this country and is a demand which both workers and executives will support.

Chevrolet Brings Town and Country Close

IT is no longer necessary for the farmer to remain a recluse—for his children to forego the youthful companionship which they all crave. Neither is it necessary for the town or city dweller to think of the countryside as a delightful place to be visited only at vacation time. The automobile has made communication swift and easy. It has brought friends near each other, though they live miles apart.

And Chevrolet has made it possible for almost every Canadian to enjoy the benefits of an automobile. For Chevrolet is not only an exceedingly low-priced car, but it is also the most economical car in the world to maintain.

Even though you have not the ready cash with which to purchase at present, the General Motors Acceptance Corporation makes it possible for you to pay for your Chevrolet while you are using and enjoying it.

Investigate Chevrolet and learn how easy it is to own and operate.

Support Your Local Newspaper

The local newspaper is an institution of prime importance in the development of our great Dominion. The local paper serves as the "magnifying glass" of that fortunate majority which lives outside of the big cities, helps largely to develop and encourage the community spirit without which co-ordinated progress is impossible. Its strength as a newspaper lies in its intimate knowledge of local conditions, local aspirations, local personalities and local incidents. It has established a contact with its constituency which has no parallel amongst the great daily newspapers or the journals of national circulation. The local weekly newspaper is in a class by itself. In order that the local newspapers of Canada may function as virile influence in the progress and well-being of their respective communities, they need and deserve the active support of all good citizens.
