HALDIMAND MEMBER SEES NO GOOD IN LOWER TARIFF

Danger For Farmer as Well as Factory Warning Given by Mark Senn, M.P.

Mark C. Senn, Conservative member of the Dominion parliament from Haldimand county, is opposed to the reduction of tariff in the budget now under discussion in the House at Ottawa.

Mr. Senn sees in it a danger to the farmer as well as the factory. He sees little saving in it for the man who is tilling the soil and he believes it will be harmful to the farmer's home market.

In the House last week Mr. Senn said:

"Mr. Speaker, it is my intention to speak very briefly on several aspects of the budget. The effect of the budget and of the subsequent addresses delivered by several hon. members on the other side of the House, particularly by the members of the government, has been to create a feeling of uncertainty and apprehension throughout industrial Canada. A further result has been to bring the issue of protection more prominently before the House and before the country.

"Last year there was an increase in the British preference on knitted goods, and in spite of the bad effect that that had upon industry, this year there has been another reduction in the tariff on farm implements. The injury brought about by these changes in the tariff has been greatly increased by the suggestion involved in the hope expressed by the Minister of the Interior (Mr. Stewart) that these reductions should be the death knell of protection. Last year I pointed out to the House the serious consequences which would result from the British preference would have upon the woolen industry of this country. There has been sufficient evidence before us during the past year, both through statements in the press and in speeches made in this House, to justify fully the warnings which were given at that time. I think it was the honorable member for Port Hope (Mr. Rainy River) who made the statement in the House not long ago that 40 per cent. of the machinery in our woolen mills had been closed down.

"Now, these are the results which we have already seen in respect to the change in the tariff on woolen and knitted goods, but there are results which we have not yet known anything about. Our woolen industries and our knitting industries are struggling along as best they can to retrieve their position and to keep their heads above water. There is a certain amount of momentum which industry always has which enables it to carry along for a certain length of time even under adverse circumstances, but if those conditions do not improve that momentum must gradually fall.

"I could inform the House, if I were at liberty, of companies who are in the woolen industry who did not feel the immediate effect of the increase in the British preference, whose sales for the past three months of this year have been practically out in two compared with their sales of a year ago. Many companies are in the same predicament, and the result must be that large numbers of their factory operators will have to migrate to the States to earn a living for themselves and their families.

"There is every indication that the volume of imports will go on increasing. I have in my hand a clipping from the Daily News Record, a financial paper published in New York, of the issue of April 21st, 1924, which shows very clearly that the people across the line are looking to Canada for an outlet for their surplus product in woolen and knitted goods. The caption of the article should, I believe, demand the attention of honorable members. It is this:

"Canada One of Largest Outlets for All Classes of Knit Goods."

"The article says:

"Canada forms one of the largest foreign outlets for nearly all classes of knitted goods, especially cotton and silk hosiery, and cotton underwear, the greatest bulk of imports of the articles being from the United States. Great Britain, however, practically controls the market in Canada for foreign made knit goods."

"It goes on to state the amount of cotton, woolen and silk hosiery imported during the past year, showing that the total value of the import of these articles was $5,100,000 for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1923, as compared with $2,800,000 in 1922. It points out also that for the fiscal year, 1923 the share of Great Britain in the total import was 63 per cent. It says further that although the United States share of this trade has shown a marked increase, Great Britain still retains a strong hold on the market for wool hosiery and underwear. That is sufficient to show the House, I believe, that the United States as well as Great Britain are looking to Canada for an outlet for their woolen and knitted goods. Another significant fact is that Mr. Walter Schwaebach has been in Canada recently on a mission to promote the sale of German knitted goods. Among other things he told us while here, through an interview to the press, that the scale of German wages for woolen operatives was 40 cents per day. It is readily to be seen, how impossible it will be for our woolen and knitted goods manufacturers to compete with a wage scale of that kind.

"I want to make a comparison between the duties imposed by the United States and by Canada on woolen goods and knitted goods, a comparison which I think will be of interest to the House. I have taken for the purpose of comparison the line of knitted sweaters, which are sold at the rate of $15 per dozen by the British manufacturer. The Canadian duty under the British preference on these articles is 20 per cent, which amounts to $3 a dozen, while the American duty on the same line of goods is 45 cents per pound, and 50 per cent ad valorem, which amounts to $9.75 per dozen. This is only a sample of what might be shown in artificial silk goods, stockings, and so on. I have made this comparison to show the difference between the attitude of the United States toward their industries and their workmen and that which has been adopted by the government of the day in this country. The result is that our operatives are leaving Canada every day to go to help build up the protected industries of other countries, particularly the United States.

"Under the tariff regulations of 1923 a duty was placed on artificial silk fibre coming into Canada. We were informed by the Finance Minister (Mr. Fielding) that its purpose was to encourage the establishment of an artificial silk industry in Canada. Incidentally I might say that that was an acknowledgement by him of the value of protection. A duty was also placed on artificial silk tops, which are very largely used in our spinning mills. I am credibly informed, however, that this new industry which was expected to be in operation at the beginning of next year does not exist, therefore there is no necessity for adding duty to them with a view to encouraging their manufacture. This matter has been drawn to the attention of the Finance Minister on more than one occasion, but yet no remedy has been applied. It is a manufacturer who has written to me that he had bought these silk tops at a higher rate because of the duty than does the British manufacturer who is selling his goods in competition with ours in the case of the finished article. In spite of the very apparent result of the increase in the tariff on knitted goods, the government has seen fit to reduce the duty on agricultural implements. It is contended that this has been done for the purpose of aiding agriculture, but I feel sure that instead of aiding agriculture it will in the end have a disastrous effect.

"There is no use denying the fact that agriculture in Canada today is not in a prosperous condition. There may be some difference of opinion as to the reason for this, but I believe there are three reasons, briefly stated: The first is the loss of purchasing power in Europe. The second is the high tariff walls raised by the United States against our products, and the third is the large importation into Canada of agricultural products from the country to the south. The most important one and the one to which you must turn for a remedy for the existing state of affairs today.

"It goes without saying that we have little or no control over the purchasing power of Europe, nor over the tariff barriers imposed by the United States, but it should be the duty of the Canadian government to do everything possible to adjust conditions in respect of the unequal deflation of prices. As usual the government has proceeded in the wrong way. The Minister of the Interior (Mr. Stewart) said in his speech last Monday reported on page 133 of Unrevised Hansard:

"We took into consideration the fact that we should, not to any extent, injure the manufacturer of farm implements in Canada, and it is the desire of the government to interfere with the interests of any industry in Canada. But let me say that, when the full effects of these reductions are felt and when the encouragement which will be given to agriculture permeates throughout the business of Canada, there will be less unemployment and less emigration to the United States than under existing conditions today."

"Now, I should like to examine for a moment or two just what benefit the reduction in the tariff on agricultural implements will be to the Canadian farmer, and in this connection I have taken the trouble to compile a list of the prices of agricultural implements as they are used on the ordinary Ontario farm. These are the prices at which agricultural implements were offered the Ontario farmer by a well known and reliable firm:

Manure spreader	$ 227
Disc—No. 16	73
Spring tooth harrow (17 ft.)	37
Harrows—16 ft.	34
13 disc drill	160
6 ft. mower	109
Dump rake	47
Loader	127
Wagon (32 x 12)	284
Verity No. 8	122
Walking plow	25
Corn binder	256
Cultivator	48
Small tools, axes, forks, shovels, etc.	100

$1711

"To this price list I desire to add the sum of $290 for 'sundries' such as light wagons, harness, etc., which will bring the grand total to $2,000. If the farmer could get the full benefit of the reduction in tariff on the price of these implements it would only mean a very small amount per year, taking the average life of these implements at ten years—in any case it would not amount to over $10 a year. Yet the Minister of the Interior tells us that when the effect of the reduction is felt, the encouragement afforded to agriculture will cause a wonderful revival of business. Could anything be more absurd than to have a minister of the Crown stand in his place in this House and intimate that because a farmer is going to obtain a 10 per cent reduction of yearly cost in his implements the government has removed all his difficulties and that all he has to do is to go ahead and prosper. The government are really saying to the farmer 'We cannot do anything to increase your revenue, but if you are not prospering we will see to it that other industries are not prospering either—we will do our best to destroy the market you have in our own centres of production.'

"Before agriculture can prosper in Canada the price of farm products must be equalized in comparison with that of other commodities. In my opinion the way to do this is not to seek to reduce the price of other commodities by lowering the tariff wall, thus driving our industries out of business, but to strive to bring the price of farm produce to a higher level. Our people were never so prosperous as when prices were on the high level of years such as 1920-21. They way to accomplish this is to retain and to enlarge our home market. In spite of a determined effort on the part of certain honorable members to minimize the value of our home market, it is and will continue to be our greatest

MRS. W. E. KELLY DIES IN SIMCOE

Wife of Crown Attorney of Norfolk County Victim of Anaemia

On the 2nd inst., at her residence, Dean Street, Simcoe, Annie O'Mahony, wife of W. E. Kelley, K.C., Crown attorney, died, leaving a husband and seven children.

All that skilful and loving hands could do had been done for her. She had not been in good health but kept going until about six weeks before her death, when she went to her bed. Her sons gave their blood for transfusion and a Hamilton specialist assisted Dr. McGilvery in the operation but anaemia had undermined her usual good health.

Mrs. Kelly was the third daughter of the late Daniel O'Mahony, J.P., farmer of Townsend, and previous to her marriage she had been a school teacher. She excelled in music, both singing and instrumental. Her soprano voice, which never failed her, was one of the best trained and sweetest voices in Simcoe and for over 30 years she trained the Catholic church choir there.

The funeral was held at 9 a.m. on Monday morning last and the large attendance at the Catholic church at an early morning hour there being standing room only at the church, testified to the merits of a good woman, wife and mother. Her husband and two nephews, Herbert and Charles Brook, of Townsend, were in the sanctuary for Solemn Requiem High Mass: Rev. Father Nagle (pastor), celebrant; Rev. Father D. Foster, London, deacon; Very Rev. Father Frank Forster, superior general of the Basilian Order of Catholic Priests in America, Toronto, sub-deacon; Rev. Father Young, St. Mary's (brother of Mrs. Hubert O'Mahony), master of ceremonies and Rev. Father Oliver representing Assumption college, Windsor and Sandwich. Her son, William, trained by his solo at the Requiem Mass.

The following are her children: David E., barrister-at-law, Simcoe; Lawrence D., Woodhouse; William E., bachelor of arts, Osgoode Hall, Toronto; Lee J., at Assumption college, Sandwich; Hubert, Charles and Mary at home.

There are the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Brock, Mrs. Dr. McGinnis, Mrs. Beaton, Mrs. Dwyer, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Dunn, Cornelius, Daniel and Hubert, and one grandson, Joseph Kelly.

L. Kelly, Philadelphia, brother of the crown attorney, attended the funeral. The attendance and solemn ceremonies were a wonderful tribute to the deceased. His Honor Judge Boles adjourned court during the funeral as a mark of respect. Many prominent citizens, including His Worship, Mayor Bailie, were in attendance.
