

Here and There

Shipments of grain from Vancouver for the 1923-24 season have now passed the 41,000,000 bushel mark. Officials estimate that the 50,000,000 bushel mark set for the season will be surpassed in the near future.

Reports from England state that it has been universally conceded that Canada's pavilion was in the best condition when the King opened the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley on April 23rd. "It was the Canadian building," the reports said, "spick and span and complete to the last nail that left all others in the race to the finish in time for to-day's official opening."

Over 3,000 settlers left Liverpool for Canada on April 24th. Thirteen hundred of these sailed on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montcalm," including a party of 200 skilled workers from Manchester, 38 belonging to engineering trades, 40 to building trades and 42 farm hands. Eighty skilled workers from Leeds and a party of engineers from Darlington-Furness were also on board.

A total of 40,000,000 salmon trout eggs has been collected during the last season by the Department of Marine and Fisheries in Lake Huron, Georgian Bay and Lake Superior. The total number obtained compares favorably with the average collections of recent years and is sufficient to fill all the hatcheries on the Great Lakes engaged in the propagation of salmon trout.

TO BUILD BRIDGE OVER GOLDEN GATE

WILL BE LARGEST SUSPENSION
BRIDGE IN WORLD—PLANS
AWAIT APPROVAL

Bridges and tunnels across San Francisco Bay, under construction or contemplated, call for estimated expenditures of approximately $100,000,000. Engineers say that before the completion of the various programs for connecting San Francisco peninsula with the mainland opposite, the investments may reach $200,000,000.

The largest projects planned are the proposed tunnel and bridge between San Francisco and Oakland and a bridge across the Golden Gate where the bay, between high, steep bluffs, merges with the Pacific Ocean. The Oakland subway and bridge still are in a nebulous stage, though engineers declare them feasible and a matter of necessity sooner or later. Plans for the Golden Gate span have been drawn, however, and submitted to the war department for approval.

According to the plans the Golden Gate bridge, connecting San Francisco with a tier of Northern California coast counties, which are now accessible only by ferry or by a roundabout overland journey, will be the longest single-span suspension bridge in the world. Engineers say it will be longer by 1,040 feet than any other suspension bridge. For 4,010 feet of the total distance of 6,700 feet the water is 300 feet deep, on an average, with a swift current and a scouring action that is held to preclude the building of piers.

It is planned to make the floor of the bridge 200 feet above high tide, thus giving shipping ample space to pass underneath. The cost of the structure is estimated at $20,000,000. San Francisco County and other counties in the bridge district have voted approval of the project and the state legislature, at its last session, passed a bill approving such a bridge. Eastern financial interests are reported to have promised capital for the undertaking with the scheme of a toll system whereby the bridge would be paid for in a short term of years and then turned back to the state.

Three smaller bridges over narrow portions of San Francisco Bay, all at points some distance from the city are under construction. They are the Coyote Point, Dumbarton and Carquinez Straits bridges. They are designed to help relieve the congestion of transbay traffic. Thousands of persons commute daily from their homes in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley to their work in San Francisco. These cities, clustered directly across the bay, two and a half miles in width along this shore line, represent a population approaching the half million mark. Thus the commuters tax the capacity of the numerous ferries and the plea for bridge and subway has been general. The Golden Gate bridge would not be of direct benefit to these people; the site is several miles distant and not easily accessible.

JUNE "ROD AND GUN"

The beauties and advantages of Ontario are stressed in the special Tourist June issue of "Rod and Gun in Canada." In addition to a rescription of Ontario's tourist attractions and various points of beauty in the province, with suggestions for summer camps and trips, the stories in the magazine, deal with fishing and camping in Alouquin Park, with timber surveying in northern Ontario and hunting and out-of-door stories in other parts of the province. Of special interest this month will be the story of the Le Fas Dog Derby, which has been written by M. U. Bates, who was "Rod and Gun in Canada's" special representative at this picturesque event. A large number of unusually fine photographs illustrate this description. The June number of "Rod and Gun in Canada" contains eight—eight pages brimful of stories
