FAIRY TALES RETOLD FOR MODERN CHILDREN

Little Red Riding Hood

Once upon a time there was a little girl whose grandmother lived in the woods. Her home was only a hut but it had every convenience of a city flat, including bill collectors and neighbors who played the same phone on Sunday mornings when you wanted to sleep. The little girl's name was Alice but her friends called her Little Red Riding Hood, for short. She loved to visit her Grandma because Grandma was a pretty good scout and often took her to the movies and read the subtitles out loud to her.

One day Little Red Riding Hood was asked to visit Grandma, so she took the new roadster and sped to the woods as carefree as a columnist.
A wolf spied her and his actions were so much like those of a traffic cop that she put on a burst of speed and eluded him. The wolf decided to follow her inasmuch as he was yearning for chicken dinner.

When Little Red Riding Hood reached her destination, the wolf had gotten there ahead of her and had already devoured Grandma as well as the butler; but since the butler used to get Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays off anyhow, his loss was n't really much.

"Hello, Little Red Riding Hood," said the wolf in a husky voice, as he lay in bed dressed in Grandma's striped crepe de Chine pajamas.

"Oh, hello yourself!" returned Little Red Riding Hood. "My, what big ears you have, Granny!"

"Oh," blushed the wolf. "I just got off a party line and I had to stretch them a little to hear all the dirt!"

"And what big eyes you have, Granny!"

"I've been reading some snappy stories," apologized the wolf, "and I strained them trying to decipher the asterisks! Won't you come over here and listen to a bedtime story on the radio, my dear?"

"Naw, Granny, I'm off those foo-ish kid yarns for good. But what big teeth you have!"

"The better to eat you with, my dear!" roared the wolf.

But Little Red Riding Hood was too fast for him.

"Stand back or I'll fire!" she commanded, whipping out a gun. "What do you think this is—a Sunday school picnic? Shucks, I could see through your disguise in a minute. Remember, Brother Wolf, the little girls of today are not like the little girls of yesterday!"

"This is going to be a lesson to me," sobbed the wolf as Little Red Riding Hood led him away. "The road of the transgressor leads but to a cage in the zoo!"

CANADIAN FILM OF ROYAL POLICE NEARLY FINISHED

Vancouver, Oct. 31—With a Vancouver author, a Vancouver director, a Vancouver leading woman and a British Columbia leading man, the film of R. G. McBeth's history of the Mounted Police, "Policing the Plains," will be an all-British production with a strongly British Columbia flavor.
A. D. (Cowboy) Kean, of the Western Pictures Company of Vancouver, is director, and he had his forces in Toronto early this month for the "shooting" of several scenes on their authentic historical spots at old Fort and Stanley Barracks, which figured in the organization of the old Royal Northwest Mounted Police.

New Oil Burners For Pacific Coast.

At the launching of the "Princess Kathleen." Left to right—Lord Aberconway, chairman of John Brown and Co., Clyde Shipbuilders; Lady McLaren Brown, Mrs. Troup; Lady Mount Stephen, sponsor; Captain Troup, C. P. Coastal Service, and Sir George McLaren Brown, European general manager of the Canadian Pacific.

It is a long way from Alaska to the Clyde, but the recent launching of the Canadian Pacific Coastal S.S.
"Princess Kathleen" from the Clydebank yards of John Brown and Company illustrates how the increasing business, traffic and industry of the one has affected the industry of the other. The launching of another vessel, the Princess Marguerite, will further illustrate this, shortly. During the past few years the thousand mile trip to the "land of the Midnight Sun" and return to Vancouver has attracted thousands of tourists from all parts of the world. Many of these, appreciating the vast natural resources, as much as the scenic splendours, have established themselves there and have drawn others round them, each of whom plays a part in the further development of the land. The same thing applies to the Yukon, so that, especially in the Summer, and in the Fall when the big game and fish are fair sport, there is a constant coming and going on the Princess steamers that ply the "Inland Passage".

Next Year there will, it is expected, be a demand for a still more frequent service. In response the Canadian Pacific will recruit from its "Triangular" service, and the new steamers will take up the service thus relieved between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle. This route is also becoming increasingly popular, the present call being for vessels which are able to transport the automobiles of those hundreds of tourists who are finding the glories of Vancouver Island well worth while.

The new vessels, twin screw and oil-burning, will be, when completed, the largest and fastest ships operating between the three ports, being capable of sustaining a speed of 22 1/2 knots. Altogether there are five decks, four of which are given over to the use of the passengers, while a large space on the main deck has been provided for the transport of motor cars and other freight. Accommodation is arranged for 325 first-class night passengers in two and three berth cabins, and for over one thousand day passengers. A special feature of the accommodation is the provision of 17 large rooms on the promenade and upper decks, having private bathrooms attached and 22 two berth cabins, on the boat deck, having private shower baths. The accommodation throughout has been arranged with the greatest care for the safety and comfort of the passengers and is of a uniform standard throughout, while the accommodation for the officers and crew is substantially better than is required by regulations.
Both vessels will be placed in service early in 1925.
