Principal Gives Parents a Shock

The tables are turned. Here's a school that isn't satisfied to stand defenceless against the attacks of critics; it strikes back and hits hard, too.

Recently the principal of a school in Toronto sent out a questionnaire to the parents of the pupils in his charge and considering the number who fumbled, it was generally admitted that the schoolmaster had set the parents a stiffer test than he had given the children in the June examinations. Here is what he asked them:

1. Do you visit the school to inquire about your child's progress and deportment and to see if you can help the teacher to help the child?
2. Do you encourage your child in respect for teachers and others in authority?
3. Do you send your child to bed in time so that he will be rested and fit for study?
4. Do you provide plain, nourishing food and see that your child is up in time to eat a good breakfast?
5. Do you teach your child to read the papers and find out the best in them, and do you encourage an interest in public affairs?
6. Do you avoid gossip and telling of incidents which may be misinterpreted by your children?
7. Do you interest yourself in conversation at the table?
8. Do you interest yourself in the school?
9. Do you encourage helpful com-

your child's sports and amusements and friendships?

9. Do you comply with the rules of public health in your home, and do you keep in mind the fact that while the school may do much to instil the right principles, your children are handicapped if you do not support it by instilling obedience and high ideals of patriotism and personal life?

There's been a regular epidemic lately of blaming the schools for everything from a young person's bad social behavior to the amount that college graduates don't know. But how about asking the home to at least share the responsibility with the school? It sounds like a pretty good idea.

DECEMBER ROD AND GUN

Brimful of interest to every sportsman is the December issue of "Rod and Gun in Canada." Two especially good stories appear in the first section. "I've Wandered in the Village, Tom," by George R. Belton, will touch a chord of sympathy in everyone who has returned to the home town after years of absence. "The Yellow Mink" is a thrilling mystery story in Phil H. Moore's best style. Bonnycastle Dale upholds his reputation as a writer of very interesting wild animal and wild bird stories in "The Canada Grouse." "Queer Ducks," by J. W. Winson, the last of his series of duck stories, is decidedly one of the best. It contains information on the subject of these wild fowl not often available. F. V. Williams and Martin Hunter, other regular contributors, have stories that are worthy successors of their previous ones. Besides other interesting and instructive articles, the regular department are all up to the mark. Guns and Ammunition comprises a number of extremely interesting articles on a variety of subjects. In addition to these features, the winners in the $500 Photo Contest, which has aroused such universal interest, are announced in this issue.
