THE JARVIS FALL FAIR POSTPONED ONE WEEK

WILL HOLD ONE DAY FAIR ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 7TH—A CONCERT AT NIGHT

A drizzling rain, which set in early on Sunday last and which continued for three days, spelled disappointment to a large number of residents in this district. But one decision could be arrived at by the directors—to postpone the fair.

It has therefore been decided to hold a one-day fair on Tuesday, October 7th, and the program, as advertised, will be carried out. The grand concert will also be held in the arena in the evening.

Everybody turn out and make Tuesday, October 7th, a banner day and thus show your appreciation of the untiring efforts of the various committees, who regret very much the turn of events caused by the unfavorable weather.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD

REV. D. E. FOSTER, LATE OF SIMCOE, SPECIAL SPEAKER AT CHALMERS CHURCH

The inclement weather on Sunday last marred to a great extent the Anniversary Services which were held at Chalmers Church, Walpole, on that date. In spite of the threatening appearance of the day there was a very good congregation in the morning, but the downpour in the afternoon evening had the effect of greatly reducing the attendance at the night service.

The church was very tastefully decorated with flowers. The special speaker was the Rev. D. E. Foster, late of Simcoe. Speaking in the morning from Genesis 2:7, Mr. Foster said, there are two ways of looking at the creation of man. One could consider it either as one definite sudden act, or as having occurred through an age long process of evolution. But which way we consider it, it makes no difference to our acceptance of the Bible truth, that God made man out of the dust and he became a living soul. There is no conflict between the Genesis truth and the theory of evolution. Genesis gives us a history of man as it defines him, as a living soul. The great question is—Is man a living soul, or is he a physical body with a soul. That is the starting point of the most fundamental and far-reaching heresy of all time. Much of the difficulty about the person of Jesus arises because we have not yet settled the question about man. Is man essentially spirit or animal? That there is a material side which is very important there can be no doubt—the body is not an illusion—Science today recognizes that body and spirit are mutually dependent. The Bible tells us that in this union the spirit is the head, but there is a constant tendency to exalt the body. There are several reasons for this. (1) The law of gravity—the body keeps coming to the top, while the spirit sinks out of sight. We must constantly cultivate the spiritual side. (2) The economic theory of history which explains everything on the principle of money; a certain

Two cameramen and an assistant director were sent to Russia and then to Japan, making a complete circuit of the globe for scenes for Maurice Tourneur's "Torment," the First National picture showing at the Regal Theatre, Hagersville, next week.

The story, an international crook drama, is laid in Russia, America and Japan—and on the high seas. While Mr. Tourneur was directing the intensive action of the picture at the United Studios in Hollywood, his trio of assistants were filming extensive scenes of ruin and havoc abroad.

MEETS DEATH UNDER SAD CIRCUMSTANCES

The death occurred, under tragic circumstances, on Thursday, September 25th, of Miss Lucretia Bousfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bousfield, of Sanduski.

The deceased, who for several months had not been in good health and who was under medical care, was missed from her home early Thursday morning. On a search being made, her body was discovered in the cistern adjoining the house. Dr. Quance was immediately communicated with, but under the circumstances did not consider an inquest necessary.

Miss Bousfield was a general favorite throughout the whole community, and her death has been greatly felt by her many friends, who sympathize very much indeed with her sorrowing parents.

Rev. H. Brand, of Jarvis, conducted the funeral service, which was held on Saturday afternoon.

ASSAULT AGED VIENNA COUPLE

HENRY MARLETT AND BOB MCGRAW BLAME EACH OTHER FOR THE ASSAULT

St. Thomas, Sept. 19.—Henry Marlett and Bob McGraw, brought here from Port Burwell at noon today to answer a charge of assaulting and robbing Mrs. Catharine Palmer and her brother, aged residents of Vienna, on Saturday night last, have made partial confessions of the crime, city police state.

Marlett gave his age as 20 years and his home as Port Burwell, while McGraw said he was 18 and lived a short distance west of Griffin's corners, north of Vienna.

They were brought to St. Thomas in custody of Detective Graham of the C.P.R. Investigation department, County Constable Ney Chute, and P. C. Milne of Port Burwell.

Police say that each admits participation in the assault and robbery but blame each other for the actual deed. The confessions have been placed in the hands of the crown attorney and they are expected to be arraigned here some time this afternoon.

The pair appeared in Port Burwell court yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Maxwell to answer to a charge of breaking into the C.P.R. station at that place Saturday night and stealing certain articles. Marlett pleaded guilty without hesitation and, according to P. C. Chute, McGraw confessed when his mother confronted him in his cell some minutes later.

According to officers who made the arrest, the youthful prisoners related that they set out from Port Burwell about 8:30 Saturday night and walked up the railway track to a point where the Palmer home is within 20 feet of the right-of-way.

Here they broke a wooden rail from the fence and cut off a section, which was subsequently used as a weapon in the attack.

Police assert that the rail is coated with blood and will be submitted as evidence.

When the weapon was procured the house was entered and the assault and robbery committed.

The stories of the prisoners coincide up to the point where the rail was broken from the fence, but neither admitted the actual crime, each alleging the deed was committed by the other.

When they quit the Palmer home, Miss Palmer and her brother were lying unconscious on the floor, the confession says.

The youths returned to Vienna at once, and after playing pool for an hour robbed the C. P. R. station. The outer door was open and entrance was gained to the inner office by prying the door with a steel bar. The till was also forced open, but nothing of value was found. Tobacco and other articles comprised the loot.

Police found their first clue to the assault at the place where the fence rail was broken off. Footprints at the spot fit the shoes of Marlett and McGraw, they claim.

OPENING OF COURTHOUSE

THE FORMAL OPENING TOOK PLACE ON WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON LAST

Haldimand County's splendid new courthouse at Cayuga was formally opened on Wednesday afternoon last, although it had been in use for some time. An interested audience gathered in the spacious courtroom, attracted by the list of eminent orators announced by the committee. Unfortunately everyone on the list sent regrets, which were produced by the chairman, Warden Montgomery, at the opening of the proceedings, but later Judge Colter arrived, having found it possible to come at the last moment. Before the meeting opened most of those present took the opportunity to go through the building, and universal appreciation was expressed of its fine appearance and the beauty and completeness of all its appointments.

Warden Montgomery, in his opening remarks, expressed his pleasure at the large attendance, and especially at seeing so many ladies in the audience. It showed that the people of the county are interested in the things that are their own. The citizens no longer view the courthouse solely as a place where prisoners are kept, but recognize it as the meeting place of their representatives and the building in which justice is administered. It is admitted to be one of the finest courthouses in the province, and the officials whose duties are discharged in it are deserving of the best there is.

Mr. Mark C. Senn, M.P., said the citizens should feel proud of a building in which reflects credit upon the county, and on the men who were responsible for its erection. The people of a community are frequently judged by the character of their public buildings, and by this test Haldimand would take a high rank. Though largely a rural county, it is rapidly becoming one of the banner counties of the province, improving in methods of production, in wealth, and in its social status. Its roads are not perfect yet, but they are being improved, and he hoped this week will not cease till every highway has been made fit for traffic. The old building was rich in tradition, and its use had been administered fairly and equitably, a condition he felt assured would be repeated in the new building.

Mr. Thomas Marshall, ex-M.P., congratulated the men responsible for the erection of so fine a building, as the success that had attended their efforts, and felt sure the citizens were pleased and gratified with the result. In accommodation, interior design and equipment he knew of no courthouse in the province that is superior to it, and he expected to hear very few comments at the meeting. He noted the enlarged courtroom, the commodious waiting rooms, the political gatherings such as had been held so often in the old building.

Mr. Harrison Arroll, K.C., County Attorney and County Clerk, recalled that the old courthouse was built 73 years ago, and in an interesting way he drew comparisons between the conditions then and now. At that time Rainham and Walpole were in the Talbot district, whose representatives met at Vittoria, while the rest of the county was in the Niagara district, with headquarters at Niagara. He dwelt on the changes in roads and in the means of transportation, the county councillors who, 73 years ago, would have spent two days making the trip to the meeting by ox.
