JARVIS FALL FAIR - OCTOBER SIX & SEVEN

Here and There

The first batch of last winter's furs brought from the Far North by the steamer "Distributor," from Ak-lavik, has arrived at Edmonton, Alta., and is valued at approximately $1,000,000. Good catches of furs were reported throughout the north.

Sockeye salmon fishing around Vancouver, B.C., for the first three weeks of the current season, while not as active as last year, has, so far, resulted in fairly good catches. The latest reports indicate a catch to date of 55,000 cases, which is 2,000 cases less than last year.

While the members of Dean Sinclair Laird's party of school teachers from Ontario is returning East from their tour of the country the party of British teachers, who landed in Canada recently, is now travelling through the West on a special Canadiana Pacific train to gain knowledge of the country and information concerning its resources.

Construction of the half million dollar storage and power dam on the Muskoka River, authorized at its last session by the Ontario Legislature, has been commenced. The proposed work is designed to control the flow from the Muskoka Lakes basin and will enable the linking up of power development in that district with the Eugenia-Severn system.

HOW SMOKING BEGAN.

Institute of Medical Botany, England. Gives Brief History.

A little publication entitled "Herbs for Health and Healing" published by the Institute of Medical Botany, Brighton, Eng., remarks that:—"It seems strange that the words for worship are in all primitive tongues connected with a perfumed cloud and of an acceptable offering it was said: 'And the God smelt the sweet smell of His sacrifice and was pleased.'"

"The desire to foreknow the future and to prognosticate the outcome of events made men even in their primitive stages to consult the oracles of the Gods. Soon Temple-sleep became an institution. To render the enquiries duly susceptible and amenable to suggestion resort was had to Auras (or draughts) and to fumus (or inhalations) or to both combined. These auras or alt-wines and these fumus were drugged with narcotics. Among the nobles rich who were the chief enquirers after oracular answers, the habit of fumus smoking soon was established.

"This habit once formed soon came to be modified by the discard of the narcotic for the more healthful fumus made of incense-bearing leaves. All ancient literature Acadean, Hittite, and Phalioan agree in the fact that the most highly esteemed of these fumus smokes were compound of the three pulch woods, of Bafr Root and Gum Oba. Fumus-smoking was common in the times of Arphrasad, the great ancestor of Abraham, throughout the lands of Sumar, Persia, Afghanistan, the Rivered-plains of the Indus-Ganges and Tibet.

"We know that Zoroastu laid an interdiction upon Fumus smoking and that this interdiction still prevents the strict Bybarrites and Parseses from smoking. On the other hand we know that King Asoka encouraged the habit and the same given throughout the East to the Sacred leaf being Evikra was a shortened form of the vernacular name of this monarch, i.e., Evickra-Mardit-Tyah. As the common-people found out the advantages of Fumus-smoking various counterfeits of these health giving Fumus came into existence. The disciples of Mohamed who conquered these lands soon acquired the smoking habit, and the Saracenic invasion of Europe soon spread it throughout all the countries of the Holy Roman Empire.

"In the year 1559 the Spanish monk, Dom Pedro de Torres, brought from Tabaca in St. Domingo, a packet of leaves which from their place of origin were called Tabacos leaves. As at this time Nicot was the French Ambassador at Lisbon he was able to procure some of these leaves and send them to Paris as a contribution to the herbal mixture then smoked. Soon this new leaf usurped the first place in popular favour and luxury-smoke gradually displacing and ejecting from the field all the other herbal ingredients."

An Old-Fashioned Industry.

There is at least one industry which remains unaffected by scientific progress. It is carried on in the beech woods of Buckinghamshire, Eng., and still employs for its work—the turning of chair-legs—exactly the same type of tools used hundreds of years ago when the industry began.

A primitive pole-lathe is used, the peculiarity of which is that it requires no flywheel or crank to drive it. A spring pole, or even a young sapling, is bent over the head of the worker, and a cord connects this to the lathe. On its way from the pole to the trestle the cord is wrapped once or twice round the piece of wood being turned in the lathe. Thus, when the trestle is pressed down the piece of wood revolves, and the sharp turning tool held in the hand of the worker rapidly cuts away the superfluous material.

When the trestle is released, the pole pulls the cord up again, and the work revolves backwardly. The tool is withdrawn during this period, as it cuts only while the work is running in a forward direction.

The lathe—and the hut which covers it—is moved to the place where the most suitable trees are to be found, and although modern power-lathes have been tried, their work has not been satisfactory, and they have been discarded.

History of Parliament Carpet.

Even the strips of carpet which run along the floor of the Imperial House of Commons in England have a history and a reason. These strips are located near the front benches and were placed there originally to prevent the danger of members fighting with each other. The carpets were introduced in the days when members wore their swords, and a rule was made that no member was to stray beyond the edge of the carpet on his side of the House when speaking. The carpets were placed two sword lengths apart, so that an excited speaker could not reach the members opposite if he flourished his sword. The carpets are still placed the old distance apart.

Apple-Green Tint Explained.

Opposite Buckingham Palace is to be found the Victoria Memorial. This beautiful piece of workmanship is particularly remarkable for the clear, delicate green of the water in its marble basins. The secret of its coloring and translucency was revealed recently when two workmen were observed solemnly drawing a large sack to and fro through the water. They explained to an interested onlooker that the sack was filled with a certain substance which, while preventing the growth of weeds, gave the water its delicate apple-green tint.

A Costly Job.

The honor of being London's chief magistrate costs each Lord Mayor something like $75,000 out of his own money.

SEPTEMBER ROD AND GUN

In "Rod and Gun in Canada" for September, a new series of British Columbia sporting articles from the pen of A. Bryan Williams commences.

Bringing the West to the East

1—Banquet Hotel, Victoria, with dome of Houses of Parliament on right; 2—Aerial view of Lake Louise and Chateau; 3—Viewing the Wapiti Falls in the Rockies; 4—Trail Riders in the Yoho Valley.

Not the smallest part of the education of a Canadian Teacher should be a knowledge of the Dominion, derived from personal contact with its vast areas. When in addition the West is brought home to the East by a tour covering most of the former's points of interest, commercial, agricultural and scenic, then a very valuable addition to one's knowledge of one's own country has been consummated.

This is the object of the 21-day tour of Canada which is now being arranged by the Canadian Teacher's Federation in repetition of their very successful similar trip last summer. The party will leave Toronto west-bound July 20 and will be back in that city August 10. It will be under the personal direction of Professor Sinclair Laird, Dean of the School for Teachers, MacDonald College, Quebec. The journey out and return will be over Canadian Pacific Railway lines, motor and boat and stopovers will be arranged at points of interest.

Starting from Toronto in the afternoon, the train passes through a land of beautiful lakes, the Muskoka region, reaching Sudbury and continuing through the big game district of Northern Ontario and skirting the shores of Lake Superior for many miles before arriving at Port Arthur and Fort William, the twin cities where most of the western grain is stored. A day is spent in Winnipeg, the centre of the greatest grain marketing and inspection point in the Empire. Half a day is spent in Regina and Moose Jaw is reached the same day.

Then on to Calgary where the last of the prairie country is covered and the foot hills of the Rockies commence. Passing next day through the Gap, the gateway of the Rockies, where the roadway is hewn through the solid rock, Banff is reached on the first Saturday of the trip. At this point the traveller enters fairland. Banff is the headquarters of the Rocky Mountains Park, a region of 2,751 square miles, covering rivers, lakes and mountain scenery of unsurpassed grandeur. The weekend is spent in this district. Drives and automobile trips here make a pleasant contrast with the train journey and the wonderful sights will live long in memory. There is Lake Louise, an exquisitely colored limpid mirror of glaciers and snow-crowned peaks and the brilliant blue of the sky with its argosies of fleecy clouds. Mounts Stephen, Chancellor and Sir Donald rise into view as the Great Divide is traversed. The marvelous Yoho Park is traversed. Canyons, caves, valleys, deep gorges, passes twinkle past the train in its journey which is sometimes slowed up to admit of a more lasting impression. The scenery is so perfect that to avoid missing any the train does not travel at night and continues its journey at dawn. For 250 miles it passes through the Great Canyons of the Thompson and Fraser Rivers and the long day of fifteen hours is one unbroken pasture of delight. Vancouver is at last reached and a short but interesting boat trip is made across the straits of Georgia to Victoria with a panoramic view of beautiful islands, bays and rocky headlands and the snow-capped mountains of the Coast range and the Olympics as a background. The return journey takes us through the Cascade Mountains and the Kelowna Valley to Nelson, commercial centre of the Kootenay district. An overnight journey ends at Lake Windermere where after a trip to the Camp there is a motor run of 104 miles over the newly completed Banff-Windermere Highway through awe-inspiring scenery. Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—four full days—are taken up with the above. Then commences the trip across the prairies to the head of the lakes which is reached via Edmonton and Saskatoon to Lake of the Woods district. A full 24 hours is spent among the sights of this wonderful Lake district and then the trip goes on to Fort William. From this point the journey is continued by boat through Lakes Superior and Huron to Port McNicoll whence Toronto is reached four hours later, and the trip completed.

It is difficult to conceive of a more healthy or a more diversified holiday than the one outlined above. In addition it brings home to the participant the story of Canada in a way that is unequalled in so short a time. No one can take such a trip and not return from it wiser, more conscious of Canadian nationhood. And such an experience must of necessity be invaluable for those whose profession it is to teach the next generation of Canadians.
