

LOST—An edging trowel for sidewalk. Finder please leave same at the Record office. 1tp

FOR SALE—Sow, due to farrow shortly. Apply R. Hall, Nanticoke, R. R. 1. 22-3tc

WANTED—Temporary Farm Homes for Children. State price per week. Chas. R. Bigger, Children's Aid Society, Dunnville, Ont. 22-3tc

FOUND—Gent's straw hat, size 7 1/4; on Nanticoke side-road. Owner may have same by calling at Record office. 22-3tc

STRAYED—To my premises, a Homer pigeon, banded TWC(2145)A/23. We are anxious to return same to the owner. W.W. Hoebel, Jarvis. 11-3tp

FOR SALE—A double team harness, nearly new, cash or time; also collars and halters. Chas. Campbell, R.R. 1, Nanticoke. 11-3tp

FARMS FOR SALE
FOR SALE—Eleven choice farms in Haldimand and Norfolk Counties. Easy terms. Apply to R. A. McCarter, Jarvis. 8-12tp

FOR SALE—Or trade, 1918 Model Chevrolet truck, for stock of any kind except horses. Alf Inoson, RR 1 Jarvis; Phone 4-36 17-3tp

FOR SALE—Massey-Harris tractor, 12x22, and 3-furrow plow; chopper, 10 1/2 inch. Apply to F. J. Inoson, RR 1, Jarvis. 18-3tp

WANTED—A few private boarders; reasonable rates. Apply Box 302, Jarvis. 21c

FOR SALE—Pure bred rams, Oxford and Shropshire Downs, at reasonable prices; also a few ewes. Will deliver rams to any part of Ontario free. T.H. Peacock, Jarvis, Ont. Telephone 75. 21c

FOR SALE—Little pigs, ready to wean. Apply James Inoson, RR 4 Jarvis. 21r

FERTILIZER—16% acid phosphate $22 ton at car, Villa Nova. R. E. Anderson, Phone 6-31. 21p

FOR SALE—3-Burner coil oil stove, "New Perfection." Apply to Ralph Phibbs, RR 1, Jarvis. 1tc

FOUND—Dog collar with Jarvis license attached. Owner can have same by calling at this office. 1tc

Table with 2 columns: Location and Dates of Fall Fairs. Locations include Abington, Ancaster, Beamsville, Binbrook, Caledonia, Cayuga, Dunnville, Fenwick, Fort Erie, Jarvis, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Oshweken, Rainham Centre, Simcoe, Smithville, Wellandport, Welland.

Harris' Market FRESH MEATS AND VEGETABLES. All kinds of Cured Cooked Meats. Cash Paid for Eggs. Special attention given to phone orders. TELEPHONE NO. 50. Store closes Thursdays at 12 o'clock.

The Record. The Globe. Advertisement in "The Record".

LOCAL & GENERAL

(Continued from Page 1) W. Holmes on Wednesday last. The ladies wish to thank all those who in any way helped and patronized the sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Davey and Master Jack spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson.

Miss Reta Graham, of Brantford, is spending her holidays with Miss Grace Harrison.

Hector Leslie, returned to Detroit on Saturday last after a visit with his brother, Charles.

A number from here attended the Conservative convention held at Cayuga on Thursday last.

Harold Brand joined the local boys on Friday last and went out West on the harvest excursion.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. McCulloch, of Toronto, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. H. Abraham.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Simpson are spending two weeks' holidays in Toronto and other points.

The local team won the soft ball game against Sprinvale here on Wednesday with a score of 11-5.

Miss Clara Cairns, of Hamilton, visited with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Machell, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lambert, of Harrison, N. Y., spent a few days last week with Mrs. Chambers.

Miss Margaret Johnson, nurse in training at the St. Joseph's hospital, Hamilton, was home on Sunday.

Mr. Bud Morrison returned to Buffalo on Wednesday, after spending a week with his friend Mr. T. Wright.

Mrs. Guy Leathong and baby, of Hamilton, are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Snyder.

Glen Hoebel has returned home after spending some holidays with his grandmother, Mrs. H. Deal, at Sanduski.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. E. Davis, of London, spent last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Edson and children and Mrs. L. M. Porter and Melvin motored to Niagara Falls on last Tuesday.

Mrs. T. Jaques and son, Albert, of Brantford, are spending a few days with her brothers, Ben and Henry Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson, of Battle Creek, Mich., and children, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Porter.

Miss Helen Bourne, of Grimsby, a granddaughter of Mr. C. E. Bourne, is spending a week's holiday at the latter's home.

A Junior Farmers' meeting will be held on Saturday, Aug. 29th, at 8 p. m. sharp, in Peacock's hall. A good attendance is requested.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith and daughter, Amy, returned to Toronto on Saturday after spending a week with Mrs. Mary Abraham.

Russell Walter, of the Bank of Commerce staff, Gorrie, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Walter.

Mrs. Clara Cairns and family, of Hamilton, visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Machell, the beginning of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Heckman, of Bridgeburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wade, called on their cousin, Mrs. J. Porter, on their way back from a motor trip to St. Thomas.

Harry Bourne and Frank Bourne and family, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. C. E. Bourne during the past two weeks, have returned to their homes in Chicago.

Those visiting at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. J. Butcher last week were: Mrs. J. H. Smith and Mrs. Noble, of Chicago; Mrs. M. Whited, of Topeka.

CLUBBING RATE THE JARVIS RECORD AND... Table with 2 columns: Name and Rate.

Here and There

When General Sir Arthur Chichester, in 1822, he consisted of 120 huts... Here a large Commercial City—Royal to Britain.

Belfast has ample reasons for civic pride, says Herbert Vivian in Tit-Bits. When she was granted by the crown to Sir Arthur Chichester in 1612, she consisted of 120 huts, and a castle roofed in shingle. Until 1840 she was administered almost mediocrally by a "sovereign" or chief magistrate, in consultation with the representatives of the family of Donagall, who were acknowledged as "lords of the soil and patrons of the town."

Though her population had then risen to 100,000, her assizes and county business were relegated to Carrickfergus, which claimed but 8,000 residents. It was not until 1896 that Belfast became a city, and 1892 that she possessed a lord mayor.

The English industrial revolution was slow to reach Belfast and her growing pains were exceptionally acute. Immigrants arrived suddenly like a tidal wave, and the population increased more rapidly than the shortest coast had foreseen. She labored under great disadvantages. She possessed none of the mineral wealth which spurred on Great Britain's activities during the nineteenth century. To this day, every pound of her coal comes from Great Britain, and has to be conveyed by lighters from the harbor to the works. Yet gas costs almost as little in Belfast as in any centre of the United Kingdom, though it is sold as a profit to the rate.

Now Belfast has a population of 430,000, a handsome modern university, a gaudy which has produced distinguished scholars, two cathedrals, besides hospitals, libraries, baths, parks, and markets aplenty. Her chief sights are the City Hall; the Botanic Gardens, with a wonderful fernery and signal paths in a deep ravine; and Royal Avenue, a prosperous, animated thoroughfare that remained a slum until 1880.

Belfast is alone in possessing a municipal commercial air-line, and she leads the way in the motor-traction of Ireland. Her magnificent harbor affords a safe anchorage, has six tidal docks, miles of quays, and an annual trade of three million tons. Her shipbuilding has produced Leviathans, and employs 20,000 hands.

Her distilleries have thrived since 1784, and now export over 24,000,000 worth of whiskey and other spirits. Belfast glass-also is famous all over the world. Ulster butters are popular. Ulster butter has a distinctive flavor, while 29,000 tons of eggs, worth between £2,000,000 and £3,000,000, are exported annually.

But it was the linen industry, a very ancient Irish craft, which contributed chiefly to the riches of Belfast and assured her prosperity. How ancient weaving may be, no man knows. Many cloths have survived in Egypt since 4,000 B.C.—or the reputed date of the Creation—with 152 threads of warp and 71 threads of weft to the square inch, and the Chinese wove wonderful silks in 2620 B.C. The material originally used in Ireland was probably natural grass or rush.

Irish linen manufacture seems to date from Stamford, Charles I's benevolent administrator. He imported Dutch farmers and spinners, sold the finest seed at cost price, and invested large sums out of his own pocket to advance the industry. Further advances were inspired by Huguenot refugees, led by Louis Crommelin, who was "like a stone thrown into a pond whose waves have been spreading and widening ever since."

The industry now employs over 15 per cent of the population and exports every year linen worth £70,000,000. There was a considerable setback during the war, but recovery seems assured and unemployment is no longer a serious trouble.

The salt industry of Ulster also possesses fascinating. It was discovered by accident in 1851, when Lord Downshire was engaged in boring for coal on his estate near Carrickfergus. The workmen came suddenly upon a great deposit of rock salt, the first ever found in Ireland, and said to be inexhaustible.

Ropes, cord, and twine are also highly important to Belfast. The Ropework Company is the largest concern of its kind in the world. Its works cover more than forty acres and contain powerful automatic machinery, with a driving-force of over 5,000 horse-power and an output of some 16,000 tons a year.

The delicate twines demand the greatest amount of strength in the smallest possible compass and weight. Fishing-lines, for instance, require the finest material and the most careful treatment. A binder twine is also produced, which has become almost indispensable in all the great grain-producing countries.

Belfast is proud of her natural beauties. But above her natural glories and her fine linen and the nectar of her distilleries, and all the riches and energies of her citizens, she rejoices in her fidelity to Britain, in her mandate as a self-governing province of the Empire.

Leghul. At a small country school the scholars were having a lesson on nouns. The teacher had asked a number of questions which were easily answered. At length, she said: "Why does a dog hang out his tongue when running?" A lad who had not answered before held up his hand.

"Yes, Tommy, what is it?" she inquired. "To balance his tail," was the reply. —Public Telegraph.

BEHIND A BUSY PLACE

When General Sir Arthur Chichester, in 1822, he consisted of 120 huts... Here a large Commercial City—Royal to Britain.

Belfast has ample reasons for civic pride, says Herbert Vivian in Tit-Bits. When she was granted by the crown to Sir Arthur Chichester in 1612, she consisted of 120 huts, and a castle roofed in shingle. Until 1840 she was administered almost mediocrally by a "sovereign" or chief magistrate, in consultation with the representatives of the family of Donagall, who were acknowledged as "lords of the soil and patrons of the town."

Though her population had then risen to 100,000, her assizes and county business were relegated to Carrickfergus, which claimed but 8,000 residents. It was not until 1896 that Belfast became a city, and 1892 that she possessed a lord mayor.

The English industrial revolution was slow to reach Belfast and her growing pains were exceptionally acute. Immigrants arrived suddenly like a tidal wave, and the population increased more rapidly than the shortest coast had foreseen. She labored under great disadvantages. She possessed none of the mineral wealth which spurred on Great Britain's activities during the nineteenth century. To this day, every pound of her coal comes from Great Britain, and has to be conveyed by lighters from the harbor to the works. Yet gas costs almost as little in Belfast as in any centre of the United Kingdom, though it is sold as a profit to the rate.

Now Belfast has a population of 430,000, a handsome modern university, a gaudy which has produced distinguished scholars, two cathedrals, besides hospitals, libraries, baths, parks, and markets aplenty. Her chief sights are the City Hall; the Botanic Gardens, with a wonderful fernery and signal paths in a deep ravine; and Royal Avenue, a prosperous, animated thoroughfare that remained a slum until 1880.

Belfast is alone in possessing a municipal commercial air-line, and she leads the way in the motor-traction of Ireland. Her magnificent harbor affords a safe anchorage, has six tidal docks, miles of quays, and an annual trade of three million tons. Her shipbuilding has produced Leviathans, and employs 20,000 hands.

Her distilleries have thrived since 1784, and now export over 24,000,000 worth of whiskey and other spirits. Belfast glass-also is famous all over the world. Ulster butters are popular. Ulster butter has a distinctive flavor, while 29,000 tons of eggs, worth between £2,000,000 and £3,000,000, are exported annually.

But it was the linen industry, a very ancient Irish craft, which contributed chiefly to the riches of Belfast and assured her prosperity. How ancient weaving may be, no man knows. Many cloths have survived in Egypt since 4,000 B.C.—or the reputed date of the Creation—with 152 threads of warp and 71 threads of weft to the square inch, and the Chinese wove wonderful silks in 2620 B.C. The material originally used in Ireland was probably natural grass or rush.

Irish linen manufacture seems to date from Stamford, Charles I's benevolent administrator. He imported Dutch farmers and spinners, sold the finest seed at cost price, and invested large sums out of his own pocket to advance the industry. Further advances were inspired by Huguenot refugees, led by Louis Crommelin, who was "like a stone thrown into a pond whose waves have been spreading and widening ever since."

The industry now employs over 15 per cent of the population and exports every year linen worth £70,000,000. There was a considerable setback during the war, but recovery seems assured and unemployment is no longer a serious trouble.

The salt industry of Ulster also possesses fascinating. It was discovered by accident in 1851, when Lord Downshire was engaged in boring for coal on his estate near Carrickfergus. The workmen came suddenly upon a great deposit of rock salt, the first ever found in Ireland, and said to be inexhaustible.

Ropes, cord, and twine are also highly important to Belfast. The Ropework Company is the largest concern of its kind in the world. Its works cover more than forty acres and contain powerful automatic machinery, with a driving-force of over 5,000 horse-power and an output of some 16,000 tons a year.

The delicate twines demand the greatest amount of strength in the smallest possible compass and weight. Fishing-lines, for instance, require the finest material and the most careful treatment. A binder twine is also produced, which has become almost indispensable in all the great grain-producing countries.

Belfast is proud of her natural beauties. But above her natural glories and her fine linen and the nectar of her distilleries, and all the riches and energies of her citizens, she rejoices in her fidelity to Britain, in her mandate as a self-governing province of the Empire.

Leghul. At a small country school the scholars were having a lesson on nouns. The teacher had asked a number of questions which were easily answered. At length, she said: "Why does a dog hang out his tongue when running?" A lad who had not answered before held up his hand.

"Yes, Tommy, what is it?" she inquired. "To balance his tail," was the reply. —Public Telegraph.

Falls' Great August Furniture Sale and Summer Clearance

Is Now Entering the Last Lap IT HAS JUST SO MANY DAYYS TO RUN — AND THE NEARER IT GETS TO THE END THE MORE ITS GREAT OPPORTUNITIES STAND OUT.

A further large consignment of NEW Chesterfield Suites, Bedroom and Diningroom Suites will be unpacked and ready for sale Saturday and Monday, the last days of our greatest August Sale.

By NEW we mean Chesterfield Suites and Bedroom and Diningroom Suites that have not been shown before—and all marked at a saving of 25' to 35 per cent.

Furniture Department, 3rd Floor

BETTER CHOOSE BEDDING RIGHT AWAY

The whole stock of Beds, Mattresses, Feather Pillows, Bolsters and Bed Springs is open for selection at reduced prices in Falls' August Sale. Recent large shipments make the choice as good in every way now as it was on the opening day, but time is running short.

Falls' August Sale of Fine Dinnerware Is a Merchandise Achievement

Nothing like them at the prices in years. To realize just what kind of Dinner Sets are on sale one must come in and see them.

Display in Basement Store

A Great Month-end and Season-end Clearance SATURDAY AND MONDAY of Summer Merchandise, with special purchases of New Autumn Fashions for the season ahead. Almost every section of Falls' Daylight Department Store is represented. Look for the Price Tickets.

WOMEN'S, MISSES' AND LARGER WOMEN'S DRESSES

You will be pleased to get one of these surprisingly good Bargains

- Flannels
—Georgette Crepe
—Crepe de chene
—Silk Broadcloth
—Tub Silks
—Broadcloths
—Linsens
—Voices

Just about every style and color. Dresses for wear now and late in the fall—one and two of a kind. Women and Girls can get two, three and as many as four Frocks Saturday and Monday for the price of one.

IN THE AUGUST CLEARANCE

Ginghams—In the wide, fine cloth—a large choice of best designs. On Sale Saturday and Monday. Yard 17c

Striped Broadcloth—Fine quality, wide width—choice of twenty colorings. Saturday and Monday. Yard 33c

Flannelette Blankets—Best quality—largest size—white or grey. Pair $2.27

Fine Bed Springs—Only one hundred of them to offer—large size, $3.50 quality, Saturday and Monday. $2.35 each

"You know the Store"

First large showing of Autumn Millinery on Saturday — Wonderful choice of Exclusive Hats. Miss Eleanor McCool in charge.

Falls' Daylight Department Store

Simcoe, Ont. THE FALLS' DAYLIGHT STORE "A CITY STORE IN A TOWN— BUT NOT CITY PRICES"