NORFOLK-HALDIMAND W.C.T.U. HELD ANNUAL CONVENTION

(By Rev. H. C. Newcombe, B.A.)

The 25th annual convention of the Norfolk and Haldimand W.C.T.U. was held on May 13th in the Simcoe Baptist church. There was a large and representative attendance from all parts of these two counties, and all the old-time fighting spirit of the temperance enthusiast was present in the busy sessions of the day. The morning session opened with devotional exercises led by Mrs. E. Edmonds, of Simcoe, who also occupied the chair for the conduct of the business which followed. This consisted largely of various reports of the work now being accomplished and planned for by the various unions of the district.

An interesting feature brought out in these reports is the attitude taken toward the women in increasing numbers toward those who are likely to handle a beer in connection with their business. In certain localities petitions have already been largely signed by the women voters, and in at least one Norfolk town have been presented to the grocers, fruit dealers, etc., with the option of their choosing between sure loss of patronage and the sale of 44 beer. That the women of Ontario mean business in their ceaseless fight for prohibition is indicated by the fact that this procedure on their part is likely to become general throughout the province.

With the presentation of reports and appointment of necessary committees, the session closed with a short morning prayer service, conducted by Mrs. E. M. Kitchen of Waterloo.

Mrs. (Rev.) A. J. Loveday opened the afternoon session with brief devotional exercises, reading the 40th chapter of Isaiah and making brief comments. In a bright, snappy address, Mrs. J. Alex. Wallace, president of the Simcoe W.C.T.U., extended a most cordial welcome to the visiting delegates. This was responded to in a happy manner by Mrs. E. Heath of Delhi, who urged the closest co-operation of all in the fight against 44 beer and all other intoxicants as a deadly menace to our homes.

Mrs. Wm. Pugsley of Toronto, provincial president of the W.C.T.U., was called to the chair and proceeded with the program of the session. The election of officers came first and resulted as follows:

Hon. Presidents—Mrs. E. M. Kitchen, Waterloo; Mrs. McKinnon, Caledonia; Mrs. E. Edmonds, Simcoe.
President—Mrs. J. A. Wallace, Simcoe.
Vice-Presidents—Mrs. E. Heath, of Delhi; Mrs. W. G. H. Gilpin, Dunnville.
Cor.-Sec.—Mrs. S. Laidlaw, Hagersville.
Rec.-Sec.—Mrs. J. B. Jackson, Simcoe.

Treas.—Mrs. R. Edmonds, Simcoe.
Y. Sec.—Mrs. L. Smith, Hagersville.

"The Travellers' Aid Work," which consists of having W.C.T.U. representatives engaged at city railway stations in looking after women and girls who may be strangers and alone, was introduced by Mrs. Leslie Smith (Continued on last page)

REGAL THEATRE

"TOMORROW'S LOVE" A MATRIMONIAL MIX-UP

"Tomorrow's Love," Paul Bern's second Paramount production starring Agnes Ayres, adapted from Charles Brackett's Saturday Evening Post story, "Interlocutory," will be the feature at the Regal Theatre on May 26th and 27. Pat O'Malley is leading man in the picture which was written for the screen by Howard Higgin. O'Malley, as the young groom, goes from one matrimonial mix-up to another. The trouble starts when, as he is signing the hotel register on his wedding night, a former "fame" appears and chides him for having neglected her during the preceding weeks. His efforts to prove himself a perfect husband lead to further complications which endure to the end, humorous situations intermingling with tense drama.

After a year of storm and strife, punctuated with tears and kisses, Miss Ayres and O'Malley come to the parting of the ways. The end comes when the young bride finds her husband in the apartment of the same flame who bobbed up on their wedding night.

The picture secures an interlocutory decree of divorce to be made final at the end of a year. The second twelve months prove more exciting than the first to both Miss Ayres and O'Malley.

Order from chaos is achieved in an ingenious way but not before wildly exciting situations are evolved. Paul Bern, who directed the picture, introduces many left touches and typical Bern subtleties. Raymond A. Tonson is featured with Pat O'Malley in support of Agnes Ayres. The cast also includes Jane Winton, Ruby Lafayette, Dale Fuller and "Spec" O'Donnell.

FERRY TO CONVEY THIRSTY CONTINGENT TO PORT DOVER

Colonial of Western Reserve Transportation Co., to Make First Trip on May 23—Moonlight Ride and "Good Beer" Hinted

Erie promoters have purchased the Western Reserve Transportation Co.'s palatial steamer, the Colonial, and every Monday, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday after May 29th, thirsty citizens of Erie can run across to Port Dover and buy 4.4 per cent beer.

The Colonial, which has been plying between Cleveland and Port Stanley, is a 200-footer, accommodating eight hundred passengers and 60 automobiles, and is fitted with 60 staterooms. She was entirely rebuilt in 1922. The sale price of the Colonial is said to be $150,000, but her present owners say she could not be duplicated in this day and age for less than $500,000. The Colonial does 12 knots in ordinary steaming, but can push it up to 15 under forced draught. It is expected that she will make the trip from Erie to Port Dover in from three to three and a half hours. She draws seven feet and can easily negotiate the Port Dover harbor.

The owners of the Colonial have figured that it will cost $177 a day to operate her in the Erie-Port Dover trade, and the fare will be $2.50 for the round trip. Moonlight excursions will be made nightly from Erie into Canadian waters across the imaginary boundary line. This may allow lighters or tugs to haul alongside and provide thirsty dancers with amber brew.

We're on our way to Dover, -We'll surely be in clover, For beer's 4.4, the price is 5, Will we drink it?—Man alive!

Chorus:
Here's to dear old Erie, Drink her down, drink her down. Second Chorus (Close Harmony)
Oh, life boat men are we, We plough the raging sea, And we're ready when there's danger nigh.

We hear the captain call, Man the lifeboat one and all, There's a vessel in distress So we've been told-d-d (hold her Newt).

Ah, come on, let's sing Sweet Adeline.

"Half of you stews get over on the starboard side. We've got a list a-port of 45 degrees. Wanna tip this boat over?"

Mebbe so, and mebbe not. But it's quite easy to conjecture such a scene in the sweltering summer days to come.

STORES CLOSED ON MAY 25

All places of business in Jarvis will be closed on Monday, May 25th, on account of Victoria Day.

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING OF TRUE CANADIAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the Nanticoke True Canadian Y. P. O. held in the town hall Friday evening, May 15th, was one of the largest and most interesting ever held by the club.

The following are the important motions brought before the business meeting: That Mr. Main be asked to bring his lantern slides to our next meeting. Harold Marshall was appointed community song leader. A motion to hold a garden party was defeated. Miss Helen Miller was appointed editor of the paper for the next meeting.

Miss Ethel Marshall was appointed chairlady and the following numbers were rendered: A piano duet by Miss Cora Henning and Miss Stella Pratt. Piano solo by Miss Helen Lindsay. Harold Lindsay gave a cornet solo. The "Eye Opener," read and prepared by Harry Pratten, was keen-edged and amusing. Mr. Lionel Thompson sang a solo.

The feature of the program was the presentation of a debate, "That the Pioneer Woman Has Contributed More to the Welfare of the Home and the Community Than Does the Modern Woman." The winners, Miss Jean Oakes and Miss Minnie Gamble upheld the affirmative side. Miss Hazel Ward and Miss Kathleen Snowden upheld the negative side. These young ladies certainly reflect great credit on themselves and the club as well.

for the able manner in which they prepared and delivered this debate. Rev. Mr. Lamb kindly acted in the capacity of judge and critic. Misses Annie and Helen Miller played a piano duet after the close of the debate.

The next meeting will be held on Friday evening, June 12th.
