Here is the Summer Home of Mister Jack Frost Himself

THIS is the Ice Cave in Mount Sir Donald, near Glacier, B.C. The light of the sun streams in through the opening at the far end causing the frozen walls to glisten as though oiled of a thousand times ten thousand diamonds. It is rumored that this is the official summer residence of Jack Frost himself, to which the Chilly Marcher retires for his annual nap from spring time to autumn.

And this is a scene from Mr. Frost's private grounds, on the roof of the world in the Canadian Pacific Rockies. It is here, so we understand, that Mr. Frost spends most of his time when not asleep in his Cave. For a pastime he enjoys most of all riding around on chunks of floating ice and his favourite food is a good, deep crackly glacier which he prefers coated with a generous frosting of newly fallen snow. When the winter comes and the nights are long and dreary he lets out a wild whoop of joy (so we are told), jumps on a passing snow cloud and sails away over the continent, pushing down mercuries and heaping up snow drifts wherever he goes.

But after all, nobody takes him very seriously these days, for it would be a tiresome old world to live in if Friend Frost didn't come along once in a while and give us something to contrast with the summer.

OCTOBER ROD A

What promises to be and, most interesting study series commences her issue of "Rod and G." The series is a well-known naturalist Thompson, and the first lengthy and very interesting of the beaver. Judging material contained in the rest of the series should be able and interesting for the lover of wild life.

Appropriate to the number of hunting stories of this fall number, articles and departing birds, dogs, out-door and fishing, seem even than usual. This is a of Fishing Notes, which addition to the articles of Lincoln stories by G. Toronto, goes to make section for the angler.
