An Artist's View of the Rockies

Cathedral Mountain from the Yoho Valley

Leonard Richmond, R.B.A., R.O.I., the well known British artist is among the latest to succumb to the lure of singing the praises of the Canadian Pacific Rockies. In Apollo, a magazine of the arts, Mr. Richmond writes of the Rocky Mountains as one of the most magnificent sights of the world.

Towards the end of March 1925, the artist made his first journey into the heart of Canada. He writes, "As the train advanced from Calgary, the "Foot-hills" of the Rockies gradually emerged in view, suggesting the appearance of a body-guard, or sentinels, guarding the sterner mountains beyond."

It is not expedient or desirable for me to describe in detail the emotional ascending scale that my feelings experienced as the train approached the actual Rockies themselves. It is enough to state that my highest imaginative thoughts had never visu-alized so much impressive force and dignity as these austere mountains conveyed that late afternoon in March.

The general color on that particular afternoon was monotone in effect. I have not seen any Japanese wood-cut print that equalled the superb draughtsmanship of the finely detailed groups of pine trees which were almost black in tint, contrasting sharply against the virgin snow.

The mountains of Canada suggest many forms of expression for artists.
In that respect they are probably unique. The intellectually endowed modern painter has scope enough to create works of art, based on the innumerable suggestions of dynamic force, grim tragedies of form caused by ancient volcanic eruptions, and occult feelings, too, can be awakened by close contact and communion with the soul of the mountains.

It is impossible for any artist to sketch more than a fraction of such a vast area of varied subjects. Once the artist is situated right in the mountains there is no occasion to seek for subjects or to walk any distance for desirable views. There is something interesting to paint from any angle.

Some of the most interesting pictures that I have seen recently of the Rockies are those where the artist has improvised in colour and form on the original theme in nature.
By this means Nature can be made to look more natural in a picture and the artist's thoughts can be crystallized into positive expression."

Mr. Richmond, who painted a number of beautiful views, states that although Lakes Louise, O'Hara, Moraine, and Emerald are famous in the lake world of Canada, he was intrigued by the smaller sister, Lake Mirror and Lake Agnes, known as the "Lakes in the Clouds," above Louise.

If you want bigger dairy profits-read every word of this advertisement

YOU are anxious to make every dollar you can out of your farm. That's why you can't afford to pass by this advertisment. Every time you skim milk, you are wasting quarts of cream—feeding it to the calves or pouring it into the pig trough—just because you have never found out more about a Melotte Separator. If you are using an old separator that is not skimming clear, you are losing each week pounds of butter fat which a Melotte will save for you. The saving would pay for a Melotte in less than a year, and then for every year after that be extra profits—money almost found.
And it's so easy to save these extra dollars. The first step is to mail the attached coupon. It will bring you full information about the original Melotte Separator. The Melotte is the only separator that has the suspended bowl that is always in balance, ensuring extra cream every milking.

You will find out that thousands of satisfied Canadian farmers have been using their Melotte separators for fifteen to twenty years, and to-day they skim just as thoroughly as the day they bought them. It's a separator that never wears out.
There are additional facts that every man with a herd should know, so fill out the coupon this very minute.
Don't read another word until you have addressed and an envelope to us, for it will mean a tremendous increase in butter profits for you. Act now.
