New $5,000,000 Cold Storage Plant

Negotiations have been completed for the erection of a terminal warehouse and cold storage plant in the neighborhood of five million dollars and to be located just below the Place Viger Station on Clark Street, Montreal, according to information given out at Canadian Pacific Railway headquarters. The plant will be built by the Montreal Rail and Harbor Trust, Limited. It will have a space area of 600,000 square feet, of which one-third will be devoted to refrigerated storage, the balance to be used as dry storage for large freight and other merchandise. It will be of the most modern construction of concrete throughout.

The building, which will be ten stories in height, and the roof will be on before frosts commence. The Montreal plant will be built on property purchased from the Canadian Pacific Railway and will serve the tracks and shipping facilities of that company. It will be in no sense competitive with any other concern of a similar nature in Montreal, but will develop and expand its own business, handling in particular butter, cheese, eggs and other dairy produce cargoes, so far as its cold storage end is concerned, while its dry storage space will be amply taken up with package freight and other merchandise.
