

ANCIENT GREEKS WERE FOUNDERS OF CIVILIZATION, SAYS PREMIER BALDWIN

London.—But for the ancient Greeks, Europe not only would have had no civilization such as is known to-day, but "we would all of us have been dark-skinned people with long noses," Premier Baldwin believes.

Addressing the annual meeting here of the British School at Athens, the Premier said he thought that the Battle of Marathon constituted a more decisive factor than the outcome of the late war, in that it prevented the Orientalization of Europe.

He feared, however, that in the England of A.D. 5000 there would be no treasures for the archaeologists such as those the British School had found in Greece. The excavations of London 3,000 years from now, he thought, were more likely to find "hidden heaps of safety razor blades and coils of gas pipe."

KING OF ROUMANIA IN SERIOUS BAD HEALTH

Grandson Michael Will Succeed to Throne According to Recent Law.

Paris.—King Ferdinand of Rumania is dying. Reports of his recent relapse which were sent to Queen Marie were, it is stated here by those in close touch with the Rumanian court, a warning that the blood disease from which he has been suffering for years is giving signs of being a fatal issue within no long lapse of time. The King suffers constantly from high fever and his mental vigor has been greatly impaired.

When the King dies the legal successor to the Throne will be his grandson Michael, son of Prince Carol and Princess Helen of Greece. That succession is fixed by the law of Jan. 4, which accepted Carol's renunciation of his rights and named Michael as heir. Thus, despite all rumors of reconciliation between Carol and his mother, Queen Marie, and despite rumors of possible coupe d'etat, one must, in dealing with the possibilities, remember always this legal situation.

During the past month, with the King ill and the Queen absent, discussion of succession has occurred in every political party of Rumania. There have been meetings of party leaders which have led to various missions being sent to Prince Carol here. These missions, however, have been so far largely without result. The general impression among party leaders is that Prince Carol is not entirely desirable as King if the somewhat tottering dynasty is to be preserved.

Almost unanimously party leaders have decided to adhere to the law of last January and give the Throne to Michael. There, however, arises the question of who is to be Regent, and the almost unanimous decision has been given in favor of Princess Helen of Greece, Carol's deserted wife, who almost alone in Rumania has the respect of all parties and the people.

HISTORIC CHURCHES SAVED BY COMMONS

Decision to Wreck Nineteen of London's Famous Edifices is Reversed.

London.—Nineteen famous old churches of London, with architectural beauty and historic interest, are to be saved for posterity by the House of Commons' rejection of a motion in favor of demolishing them. The vote was 124 to 27.

The disappearance of the resident population from the centre of the city in recent years left the churches virtually without congregations. They occupy valuable sites in the heart of the metropolis. Two years ago the National Assembly of the Church of England voted in favor of demolishing them, the money derived from the sale to be used for building new churches where they are needed. The House of Lords four months ago endorsed this decision, and the House of Commons was called upon to have what in effect, was the final say.

Strong efforts were brought to bear upon the Commons by lovers of Old London to save the ancient edifices, many of which were designed by the late Sir Christopher Wren, noted British architect.

NINE SILVER FOXES SLAIN BY MARAUDERS

Three Men Captured With Pelts Are Sentenced to Penitentiary.

Port Arthur.—After making a trip of 23 miles over frozen trails to the Silver Islet, famous for its silver mines in the seventies, three men cut through the wire fence surrounding the Cross Brothers fox farm and captured and killed nine silver foxes. The pelts of the dead foxes are valued at about $5,000, but alive as breeders their value was estimated to be about $12,000. The Cross Brothers had been warned of the presence of suspicious

When Winter Comes.

The advent of the winter months of the year always brings misery to those chilly mortals who seem to "feel the cold" far more than their fellows.

Hot-water bottles at night, numerous blankets, and every door and window shut tight and fast seem to afford them little relief, and they shiver their miserable way from November to March.

But the truth of the matter is that such superficial remedies as the above do more than good, the root of that "stone cold" feeling being a faulty circulation. Internal warmth, engendered by means of heat-giving foods, is much more effective than any increase in clothing. Far from closing all doors and windows in the bed-rooms, a good supply of fresh air is most important in winter, for people who breathe impure air get out of condition very quickly and this is at the bottom of half our winter ailments.

Finally, don't fall into that very common error of dropping all outdoor exercise when winter comes. Skating, hockey, etc., can always be indulged in, while, for the elderly who do not feel up to the exertion of games, walking will do wonders. Exercise, in the fresh cold air, warmly but lightly clad, does more than anything else to ward off that unpleasant feeling that comes from always being half frozen.

Mr. Massey's Appointment Approved by His Majesty

Ottawa.—A cable from the Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs to the Government through His Excellency the Governor-General, announces that His Majesty the King has approved of the appointment of Hon. Vincent Massey to the post of Minister at Washington. The language of the message makes it clear for the first time the exact title of the new Minister. "The King has been graciously pleased to approve the appointment of the Honorable Charles Vincent Massey as His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Washington to represent the interests of the Dominion of Canada."

Canada's Sea Fish Catch Increased in October

Ottawa.—There were 79,389,000 pounds of sea fish landed on both coasts of the Dominion during the month of October, valued at $2,274,839. During the same period last year 59,526,900 pounds were taken with a value of $1,796,018, this value being what the fishermen received at the boat's side and not the marketed value.

Boy Loses Sight and Arm Exploding Blasting Caps

Welland.—Securing a box of 100 blasting caps, and setting a match to them, Frank Malkavick, aged 7, of Melrose Park, Crowland, was so badly injured about the face and eyes that he will probably be blinded for life. He also sustained other injuries that necessitated the amputation of his left hand. His two companions, Frank and Mik. Sokolowski, were uninjured.

Queen Mary "Adopts" Waif.

London.—Queen Mary, whose practical interest in children's welfare is well known, has "adopted" a little boy from one of the Church of England Waifs and Strays Society's homes. The Queen will be responsible for the boy's education, and see he is properly brought up.

Tax on Bobbed Hair.

Paris.—The Swiss Town of Aitdorf has the honor of being the first community in Europe to put a tax on bobbed hair. Fifty centimes is the amount assessable against shorn locks. Since the amount embarrasses no one, a woman of the town says it is well worth it, considering the advantages of short hair.

British Royalty Sets Pace in Christmas Shopping

London.—King George and Queen Mary have set the pace for early Christmas shopping. Close on their heels are Stanley Bruce, of Australia; J. G. Coates, of New Zealand; General Hertzog, South Africa, and Mackenzie King, Canada, prime ministers of their respective countries, attending the Imperial conference here, who began buying Christmas presents for relatives and friends at home early in November and posting them so they would arrive in time.

The King's first Christmas purchase this year was a South African jumping-jack for little Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York.
