LAD DROWNS IN SANDUSK CREEK

Bennie Birk, aged 16, son of Amos Birk, a farmer residing near Fisherville, was drowned on Sunday afternoon at the mouth of Sandusk Creek, near Woodlawn Park, Lake Erie. He was attempting to drive a horse and buggy across the creek. A chum, Geo. List, of Kohler, who was with him, escaped.

It appears that the lads were driving across the creek, although warned of the danger, toward the park. The horse, on reaching the other side of the stream, was unable to get a footing, there being a steep step-off of about 12 feet at that point. The animal turned around to swim back, and while doing so List jumped out of the buggy and landed in shallow water. Birk jumped out of the other side of the vehicle and landed in the deep hole, and being unable to swim, sank to the bottom. The horse returned to the starting point with the buggy. Immediate steps were taken to search for the body and it was over an hour before efforts were successful. The father and mother were immediately communicated with and arrived on the scene shortly before the body was brought to the surface. After the arrival of the coroner the body was taken to Fisherville.

The Wool Industry in South Africa

Letter from H. S. Bartlett, B.Sc., M.Sc., D.P.S., A.C.

The Union of South Africa is rightly classed among the great wool producing countries of the world.

Climatic conditions there are admirably adapted to breeding and raising of the Merino type of sheep with a strong, staple wool.

A large part of this country is suitable only for the raising of sheep, and the government is making progressive and intelligent efforts to improve both the sheep and the manner of preparing the wool for market.

Jacksals being a strong menace in South Africa, long-time government loans are extended to sheep owners for the erection of jackal-proof fencing. Government sheep experts are maintained permanently in allotted districts so that their services and advice may be assured at a nominal fee.

The mutton sheep of South Africa is the fat-tailed, black-headed Cape—a non-wooled sheep. As no cross-breeding for mutton lambs is done, the wools are purely Merino in character.

Progress in this South African industry is particularly noticeable in the harvesting. Despite the fact that the equivalent of $2.50 per month, there is a trend towards the modern shearing machine as against the age-old hand blades, which, even on this continent, have not been discarded by many otherwise entirely progressive wool raisers.

A study of this fact, however, readily reveals the reason for it. While there is a first cost for the machine, the unskilled black adapts himself to its use much more readily than to the hand blades, and soon does a remarkably smooth job of shearing with the machine.

Once adapted to the use of the machine, its economic value is demonstrated in the materially greater number of sheep shorn daily, the better market value of the wool, the fewer maimed sheep, and not least important, the additional 5% to 12% more wool obtained with the machine over and above the amount of wool secured with the hand blades. As a consequence, the machine resolves itself into a small investment with certain and big returns.

Steadily, the science of wool-marketing in South Africa is fast approaching the scientific efficiency of the Australian marketing plan, which is, without doubt, the most practical and efficient in existence to-day.

Considering that the four provinces, Natal, Transvaal, Orange Free State and Cape Province, which comprise the Union of South Africa, have over a million square miles less of territory than the populated Provinces of Canada, it is surprising to note that they contain over two times as many sheep as the whole of Canada. The Union of South Africa ranks about fourth among the countries of the world in sheep population. These points alone put that country in line as a strong contender for future leadership in the wool industry.

It is interesting to note, however, that the great bulk of their progressiveness is due to quickness in observing the advantages of modern implements and machinery and up-to-date methods and discarding the old ideas that are not nearly so profitable.

In view of the wonderful progress the wool industry has made in South Africa in a comparatively short time, that industry is surely destined to take a large and important place in the economic progress of the far distant Union of South Africa.

THE HALDIMAND BACON HOG FAIR

TO BE HELD AT NELLE'S CORNERS ON TUES., OCTOBER 12

This Bacon Hog Fair, which is to be held under the auspices of the Dominion Live Stock Branch and the Provincial Department of Agriculture, is being put on with a view to interesting farmers of the district in the production of Select Bacon Hogs. The market classes will be graded as they are brought in to the Fair. This will give an opportunity of seeing the actual grading, also for asking questions and getting the fullest possible information about grading and what the market is asking for.

Breeding is to a great extent the basis of improvement and quality. Quality and thriftiness in the type of hogs the market is demanding is essential to the profitable production of hogs. The judges will give reasons for the placing of all classes which will give the farmer an opportunity to learn the type of hog that is in demand and the indication of quality and thriftiness.

Community effort to produce all Selects will bring more dollars and cents to every farmer in the district. This can be accomplished only by the keeping of Bacon Type Brood Sows, breeding to the best boars and by using good methods in feeding and finishing. Animals shown in the market classes in this Fair can be purchased from the Committee of Management at Market Prices. This will give farmers a splendid opportunity of purchasing good breeding stock without going to excessive expense or trouble.
