RIVERS EATING AWAY THE LAND
Mississippi Carries Tons of Sediment Into the Ocean.

The sketch shows the interior of a cave in Somersetshire, England, known as Cox's Cave. Note the stalactites hanging from the roof and the stalagmites growing up from the floor. These are the results of water saturated with carbonate of lime dripping through the roof.

Secrets of Science.
By David Dietz.

The sun shining down upon the ocean, heats the surface. Some of the water is evaporated and passes into the atmosphere as water vapor.

Winds blow the water vapor over the land, upon which it falls in the form of rain.

Part of the rain soaks into the ground. The rest runs down the slope of the land forming rills in the depressions in the land. These unite to form larger streams. When they reach the valleys, they form still larger streams, known as creeks and brooks when small, and rivers when large.

Rivers are among the chief agents which wear away the land.

The flowing water wears away the sides and bottom of the valley through which it flows. The sediment thus formed and the sediment washed into the river by the rain, increases its power to wear away the valley since each particle of sediment acts as a cutting tool against the river's bed.

Rivers are the great transportation agent. The current carries along the sediment in the river.

It is estimated that the Mississippi River annually carries enough silt material into the Gulf of Mexico to make a column one mile square and 288 feet high.

Not all the material which a river carries in suspension reaches the ocean. Streams which overflow their banks at times of the year, such as the Nile, deposit much sediment upon the banks of the river as the flood recedes. These deposits are known as flood plains.

Many rivers, such as the Mississippi, deposit much material at their mouths.

These deposits are known as deltas. As already noted, part of the rain-fall soaks into the ground. This underground water is also an important geological agent.

The fact that wells can be sunk in almost every section of the land and the great abundance of springs issuing from the slopes of mountains and valleys bear testimony to the great amount of underground water.

Geologists believe that it probably extends down to a depth of five or six miles.

This makes the rock formations a sort of chemical laboratory in which certain reactions are going on continuously.

Where minerals which are soluble in water occur, they are slowly dissolved, leaving the rock in a porous condition. Other reactions also take place. Water which has dissolved one mineral will come in contact with other rocks. Here a reaction may take place, which causes the water to precipitate or lose the mineral which it has in solution. This brings about the formation of new types of rocks.

Sometimes a very complex action takes place, the water precipitating one mineral and at the same time dissolving a second.

Sometimes the underground water will dissolve out large portions of rock in their entirety. This causes the rock formations of caves.

One of the best known regions of caves is in Kentucky and southern Indiana.

When the roof of a cave becomes thin and weak, it frequently collapses, causing the surface of the ground to sink.

After Rain.

O wayside puddles, boasting of the sky,
How you repeat a great All-seeing Eye!

All little flooded gutter-creeks, you, too,
Are stuffed with sky and hoarding Heaven's blue.

Branched trees that strike such flame in air,
How you exult to vie with sunlight there!

Flagstones, imbedded in the sunlight awe,
You imitate the Tablets of the Law.

Lawn-flowers, tingling tip-toe in the sod—
Eavesdropping, have you been again, on God?

—Louis Ginsberg.

Kept Her Self-Respect.

The cost of self-respect is a thing that few of us consider as often as we should. Years ago a scrub woman in a New York office building took out an insurance policy on the life of her thirteen-year-old daughter. There were three other children, and the mother's earnings were so small that five cents a week was all she could devote to the policy. In time the daughter married—a worthless man; and the other day she died. Through all the years the mother had kept up her payments of a nickel a week, and when the bill for the funeral expenses came she had $218.40 with which to pay it. Her daughter had had a decent burial, and her mother had preserved her self-respect. That is character.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED

This Was the Condition of a P.E.I. Woman Before Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"My illness began," says Mrs. M. J. Ahern, R. R. No. 2, Alberton, P.E.I., "when my husband went overseas and I was left with the care of a farm and stock, with no help but that of a young boy, with health broke down and for the first time in my life I became utterly discouraged. I lost my appetite, had no strength, and was ready to have a crying spell any moment of the day, as the work loomed up ahead of me. A friend happened to speak one day of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done her and urged me to try them. I had not energy enough, or perhaps confidence enough, to try them, but she would not be denied and sent me three boxes, and by the time I had taken them I knew they were helping me and was anxious for more. I continued taking the pills for nearly six months and by that time I had safely passed a critical period in my life, and regained my usual good health. To all overworked, nerve-racked women—and there are a great many of them—I still say, and at all times, take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I know you will regain your energy."

There are many troubles due to weak, watery blood easily overcome by a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to purify and enrich the blood, and when that is done all the varied symptoms of anaemia disappear and good health returns. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Children's Orchestras.

Is the junior orchestra worth while? The hours of individual drilling, the days and weeks of practice at each different part and on each instrument separately, and the incessant labor of weak rehearsals with the entire orchestra—is all this worth while? Undoubtedly the scientist would call the junior orchestra an ideal machine with an efficiency of 100 per cent.; for the splendid results obtained for outweigh the effort put in, and so the junior orchestra can not be too highly recommended nor too strongly encouraged. If the practice of diet and the playing is so valuable an asset to the pupil, it is obvious that a larger unit offers equal, if not greater advantages. Besides developing the very essentials of musical requirements, it proves a valuable aid in the formation of the pupil's character, and promotes a desirable sociability.

Old Shoes Are Bad for Indoor Wear.

Nine women out of ten believe themselves thrifty and economical when they "wear out" their old, run-down, misshapen shoes "round the house" where few notice what they have on, and many tasks inevitably dim the shine and spoil the appearance of any shoes. The tenth housekeeper perhaps realizes that when she wears comfortable, well-fitted shoes with broad, low heels and roomy toes, at her work, she can get through the day without a backache or tired feet, that she can stand straighter and for a longer time if necessary, and in fact, be generally more efficient.

MOTHERS WHO HAVE USED BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Always Strongly Recommend Them to Other Mothers.

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use nothing else—actual experience teaches her that there is no other medicine to equal them for any of the minor ailments from which her baby or little ones suffer. Having found the value of the Tablets in her own home, she is always anxious that other mothers should share her knowledge. That is why Mrs. Creighton White, North Noel Road, N.H., writes the following:—"I have a baby seventeen months old and have given him nothing but Baby's Own Tablets ever since he was a week old. I know of no other medicine to equal them, and it is certainly a pleasure to recommend them to other mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative that regulates the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the sickly baby well and happy again. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Oh, Mother! What Can I Do?

How many times a day do your babies ask you that question? And how often are you able to suggest some interesting game for them to play, some amusing occupation for a rainy day? If you'd like always to have a practical, helpful suggestion for them, read this snappy new feature.

While I wash in the big tub, you can have the dish pan for your doll clothes, if you'll promise not to get any water on the floor. And when they're washed nice and clean I'll give you a little starch for them.

A hen will drink twenty times her weight in water in a year.

My experience is that those who look for trouble can always get it.—Mr. J. H. Thomas, M.P.

Coughs Are Not Necessary Evils

Observance of One Fundamental Rule of Health Protects Against Them

Whether one catches cold easily is largely a question of physical condition. If the general vitality is low, resistance to disease is weak and at such a time a cold is easy to contract and difficult to check.

Constipation is frequently the cause of such a state of health, with its attendant listlessness, biliousness, headaches and a general lack of vitality. Poisons from the waste matter that remains behind after improper, irregular bowel elimination are picked up by the blood and carried to every part of the body. They weaken your resistance to disease.

Thousands of people who have suffered from self-poisoning in this way have found that Nujol, the internal lubricant makes bowel elimination sure and easy.

Nujol softens the waste matter and permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles. Nujol can be taken for any length of time with no ill effects.

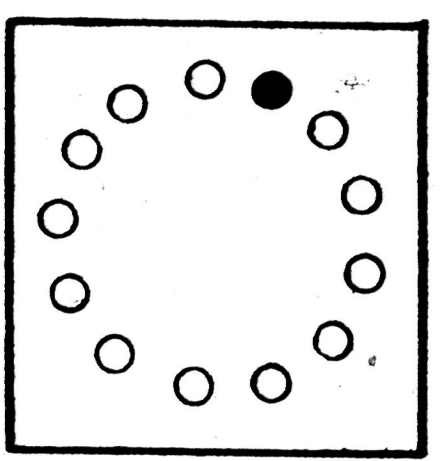

If you take cold easily, ask your druggist for Nujol to-day—and remember, look for the name "Nujol" in red on both bottle and package.

EASY TRICKS
Thirteen Circles

Here are thirteen circles, one of them a black one. The problem is to start anywhere you like and cross off every thirteenth circle until all are crossed off, the black one to be crossed off last.

Call the black circle No. 1 and count to the seventh circle. Begin with this circle and go around, striking out every thirteenth circle. This will enable you to strike out the black circle, after having struck out all of the others. When a circle has been struck out it is not counted.
