A GREAT MONTH

For three things are we grateful to the month of September. They are Fall, football and oysters. A more popular trio is difficult to imagine and as the good things in life usually come singly we are thrice thankful for the providence of September.

There is an axiom that oysters are in season in the eight months of the year having the letter "R" in their names. We are not informed whether there is an affinity between these months and oysters because the letter "R" is also in the word oyster or it is just a coincidence. Neither do we know the discoverer of the circumstance and the author of the axiom. However, it is neither axiom nor secret that we are glad September has an "R" somewhere among her nine letters and we are not particular in what style the first oysters are served.

To September also are we indebted for fair autumn. Where the summer is hot and the winter cold there is no season quite so delightful as autumn. It is without the extremes of temperature, is comfortably warm by day and somniferously cool at night, is an aid to efficient work and an irresistible urge to recreation. In all it is a season in which to live to the utmost.

Thirdly September hears the first sound of the pigskin and the first shrill blast of the referee's whistle. The Dominion in September turns its eyes away from vacations and baseball to feast them upon the gridiron. Recent development of football in the colleges, universities, public schools and athletic clubs has made it a national sport where once it was strictly a college game. When football season opens the whole nation is kin, class barriers erected by education are dropped and player and spectator play the game for all there is in it.

Every month of the year's twelve has something which makes life worth while but September seems most beautifully endowed with the "better attractions."

THE FIREPLACE

Those who are supplied with fireplaces in their homes feel no resentment as the chilly evenings of the early fall arrive, with their promise of colder evenings and the winter not far away. The chill of fall can be welcomed because it provides good reason for a blaze in the fireplace with the joy and good cheer possible as the fire crackles and develops, the ashes drop and the fire burns itself out.

The family gathers about the fire, as the lute is strong and there is promise of a happy hour. It is a proper place to visit, or read, or smoke, to relax and dream. The glow of the fireplace is cheerful, companionable and inviting. One may watch the curling smoke, the jets of flame, the ruddy glow and find ever a new picture always interesting.

Fireplaces are domestic, belong in the home where a family is found. The selfish man and the miser might refuse them, certainly could not hope to see their charm, glimpse the picture or feel the spell. The hour of peace, kindly contemplation and retrospection comes as the evening wears away and the fire burns low, the hour with its soothing and sweetening effect on life. Those hours come only in the home. They are for the generous, the kindly, the helpful to know and enjoy.

STRAW HATS

The well-sustained effort of the Weather Man to make us believe it is still July has kept a few straw hats still on public display; but in the main Canadian men are bowing to the dictates of Dame Fashion and are donning felt headgear.

"What helomes of the straw hat?"

asks an inquiring reporter.

A national publication says thousands find their way to the vaudeville stage to be smashed one a day, two a day or three a day; depending upon the number of times the hat-wrecking comedian performs. Which may or may not be true; but this much is apparent, that man is quite as much a slave to style as woman.

"Man yields to custom as he bows to fate; In all things ruled; mind, body and estate."

When September 15 comes he puts away his straw hat; though tropical weather prevails.

Love is blind. Help the blind.

Necessity is the mother of tax invention.

Love is easy to make but hard to keep.

Live so you can write a $5 check without worrying.

A nice thing about freckles is you know they are real.

Some people can give until it hurts without giving much.

Showmen find wild men don't draw as big a crowd as wild women.

A good looking girl who can cook doesn't have to pick a career.

A diplomatic gesture is something that makes you think maybe you will get your money.

The line of least resistance leads downward and the line of most persistence leads upward.

Nations are beginning to see a relationship between a keen moral sense and keen common sense.

A Superb Dive Against Superb Scenery

One of the most remarkable photographs ever taken in the Canadian Rockies, a work of art that blends in equal proportions beauty, grace, poise, in one unique effect against a background of noble mountain scenery, is shown here where Miss Lydia Pulcher, fancy diver, is portrayed high in air poised like a bird as though flying over Saddleback Mountain in the infinitesimal fraction of a second before she strikes to cleave the waters of the pool.

The swimming pool where she is staging her great act is the newly constructed one of Lake Louise, about 90 feet long and 8 feet deep. There are springboards at different heights to suit the expert or amateur diver and the water is warm enough to attract those who are chary of attempting the cooler swimming in Lake Louise itself.

Miss Pulcher champion of the Calgary Swimming Club is a true mermaid of the Canadian West. She learned to swim in the Canadian Government's great pool, "The Cave and Basin", at Banff when she was a mere child. She became a champion last year at the Banff Winter Carnival when swimmers were diving into the Cave and Basin filled with hot sulphur water from Sulphur Mountain, when the temperature outside was hovering around the zero mark, while the water of the pool was well within summer temperatures.

The first great step in establishing respect for authority was the invention of the uniform.

It is savage to sacrifice children in the name of religion; we do it only in the name of speed.

There was enlightened self interest in the time of Jesse James; But people didn't call it that.

There are two kinds of men: Those who think the world is going to the dogs, and those who are too busy to worry.
