TOO MUCH STATIC (?)

Another year has rolled around. And yet I have not heard the sound of that great big powerful siren which installed, I am sure, has been. Though yet I've not heard it holler I send along another dollar. Just a trifle toward the truck. With my best wishes for good luck. That plenty donations may be given. And you have less fires in 27 Montreal, P.Q. F. L. Turner.

CONQUERING NATURE

Since man's beginning he has waged an unceasing battle to subject nature to his will and wish. Though the battle has now waged for thousands of years nature is still the master of man.

Victory is not yet in sight for man but his advance, though slow, is unchecked. Nature may never be entirely under the control of man, who is actually a part of nature, but her many elements are being subdued one by one.

Man's greatest struggle has been the prolongation of human life, a thing over which nature for ages held complete and uncontested sway. Science, medicine, education and sanitation as conceived by the genius of the human mind, are successfully driving back the forces of nature toward the lengthening of the average span of life. On the basis of the progress made in the last three decades toward the prolongation of human life we can hope to have an average life span of three-quarters of a century within the next 30 years.

The automobile, the railroad, the airship, the telegraph and the radio are exemplifications of man's conquest of nature. Astronomy and archaeology — man's science — have brought within his ken the universe and the past.

Anything man can think of he can do if he works at it long enough. We have abolished the plagues and devastating epidemics of our early history and we shall abolish diseases which take their toll of human lives today. Nature is surrendering to man inch by inch and is making man greater for the struggle. When the time comes — if it should — when man no longer has to struggle for supremacy the decay of the human mind will be swift and sure.

PLEASURES OF MOTORING

In a multitude of ways man has found the automobile to be a Good Samaritan. In fact, it is generally conceded now that the automobile is indispensable to civilized man.

Among the good things the automobile is credited with doing for humanity are: It provides him with a valuable transportation auxiliary; it places within his reach a constant source of much pleasure and recreation; it enables him to see more of the country and people beyond the horizon of the community in which he lives; it takes the city man to the country and the rural resident to the city. Then there are the economic benefits of the automobile, such as the giving of employment to millions of workmen.

Reversing an ancient adage, it is a good wind that blows no ill. The good that the automobile does is great but, like all things, it has its disadvantages.

People who save their dollars for a year and even longer to buy an automobile find after the car is bought and paid for that they have neither the time nor the money to motor to every place their motor maps and imaginations beckon them. It is an obvious truth that if every automobile owner responded to the call of the open road as often as he hears it calling him the nation's business and production would suffer a serious slump.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER.

Development and wealth do not come unassisted. It may be just around the corner, but some other place will entice it away unless it is gone after. It is going somewhere and should come to Jarvis.

A town must be made attractive to both people and capital before it can be successfully developed. Parks and playgrounds, entertainments for diversion of mind, and the best churches and schools. Opportunities presented such as exceptional musical attraction should not be overlooked. Natural attractions must be augmented and as long as a town is content to remain idle while far less advantageous paces work, development and prosperity will ever be just around the corner or a little further away.

A better understanding and appreciation of the worth to the individual is necessary. With the realization that the town's growth and development means individual growth and development, and more and better opportunities for their children, then will there be greater cooperation. It is difficult to impress too strongly the importance of the work that is necessary to be done.

WEATHER PHILOSOPHY

A jury condemned the philosopher Socrates to death, but it is not recorded that they were influenced in this by his statement, in the course of his defense: "While a soldier in the Greek army I went through the snows of a winter campaign barefoot, and no one ever saw me cross a street of Athens in the summer to get into the shade."

The mind of Socrates was never much on the weather. He believed that one would suffer less and accomplish more if he did not bother his brains about the temperature and what it might do to him.

That is still very good philosophy.

The Chinese used umbrellas 3000 years ago, most of which probably belonged to friends.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

"Hiawatha," a dramatization of Longfellow's masterpiece, is to be presented by the Jarvis Continuation School Literary Society on February 4, 1927.

A Wonderful Record of Growth

1. President Stout congratulating Eddie Hand, the oldest driver in employ at Toronto. 2. Samuel Nightingale and "Babe". 3. Latest type of heavy Express vehicle.

The romance of the early history of the Dominion Express Company, which started to serve the Canadian public in 1882 with one horse and a second-hand wagon, and the wonderful progress that has been made during the forty-four years of its existence, was recalled last week by the striking parades that were held simultaneously in the four biggest cities of Canada to celebrate the Company's change of name to the "Canadian Pacific Express Co."

Whole fleets of motor express vehicles of all types, including the new trailer, bearing in shining letters their newly assumed name made their way through the streets of Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, on September first, when the change of name became effective.

But the horse-drawn wagons and ancient servants of the Company were not forgotten; in Montreal the parade was led through the principal streets of the city by Samuel Nightingale, who is completing his 30th year in the service, driving "Babe," a remarkable little horse that has served the Company for 19 years and can still take the steepest hills on high. The wagon in which Mr. Nightingale was seated was put into the service in 1890 and is still on daily route.

The Vancouver procession was led by the oldest pensioner of the company in this district, Robert Mason, of North Vancouver, who joined on July 17, 1889, and included the oldest double team wagon in regular use in the company's business in Canada, driven by P. J. Everett, himself an old-timer of 25 years.

Eddie Hand, leader of the parade at Toronto, was personally congratulated by W. S. Stout, President of the Canadian Pacific Express Company, on his 41 years of continuous active service.

Mr. Stout, who has been president for many years, was appointed superintendent of the Dominion Express Company when it was incorporated, almost a half century ago with seven agencies and a territory of 445 miles. To-day the service extends over the breadth of Canada and to all parts of the world with something over 4700 agencies.

In assuming a name that is more closely identified with the parent transportation system, it is thought that the Canadian Pacific Express Co. will reap increased business in both Canada and in other countries.

Here and There

During 1926, the Canada Colonization Association set 731 families on 168,094 acres in Western Canada, 59,678 acres of which were in the province of Manitoba.

Plans have been completed for the World's Poultry Congress, to be held in Ottawa from July 27th to August 1st. More than thirty countries will be represented and the number of delegates is expected to reach 6,000.

Shanghai is at the present time operating more trolley buses, carrying more passengers per mile of route, and charging a lower fare in terms of gold wards, than any other system in the world.

The champion Jersey cow of the world, an out and out British Columbia product, is to go on tour according to the directors of David Spencer Limited of Vancouver, who stated the champion would arrive at the Canadian Pacific Express yards shortly.

Reports indicate that the many dairy companies in Nova Scotia have had a most successful year. One company reports that they manufactured well over 100,000 pounds more butter than in 1925. This increased production was valued at over $50,000.

Developments in bacon-hog raising in Nova Scotia and particularly in the Annapolis Valley, as a by-product of the dairy industry, is already an assured success. In 1926, 21 swine clubs were functioning successfully in the Province. Of these eight operated in the Dominion Atlantic Railway territory.

The first fish net factory to operate in Canada is being started here by the Canadian Fish Net Co., Ltd., financed by Canadian capital and

The first automatic or "remote" control power plant on the North American continent is to be built at the Slave Lake side of the tunnel connecting that body of water with Alouette Lake. The contract has been let by the British Columbia Electric Railway to a Vancouver construction company at a price of $500,000. The total cost of constructing a dam across the Alouette River, building a tunnel connecting the lake with Slave Lake and erecting a new power house will be approximately $2,800,000.

SEVERAL NEW BOARDS PLACED

at Selkirk, Eriedale farm, is the fourth to be placed there and this point is made the starting point of the new blood in the county.

With these fine boards available and a number of Government boards at other points, there is no longer any necessity of patronizing the grade or cross bred boards, of which there are still a few left in the county, and, with pure bred sows so easy to get, it will be no longer profitable to keep the runt of the litter of one of the pigs from the old sow.

APPLICATION TO PARLIAMENT

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made by the Trustees and Managers of Knox Church of the Village of Jarvis, in the County of Haldimand, to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next session thereof, for an Act to provide that the congregation of Knox Church in the Village of Jarvis shall hold their property solely for their own benefit and free from any connection with or control of any religious body.
