THE JULY ROD AND GUN and Canadian Silver Fox News

Full of stories of interests to all sportsmen, "Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News" for July has just been issued. Among the many interesting stories of outdoor life is a very fine salmon fishing story by A.
Williams, a well known British Columbia authority. Another interesting feature is the first of a short series of unusual stories Canadian wanderings by Robert James, appearing under the general title of "Tales from the Wardroom Mess."

Samuel Alexander White contributes another of his fine fish stories of the old Northwest fur trade rivalry, "The Gantlet Runners." Bonaparte Dale, well known outdoor author, writes of trout fishing in the Tabasintac River, N.B.

Great Pier Dedicated to Empire Service

1. New C.P.R. Pier at Vancouver. 2. Income plaque unveiled by Mayor Taylor of Vancouver. 3. The C.P.R. Dock as they appeared in the early days of this port.

One notable feature of Greater Vancouver's celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation — and one that no other city in the Dominion can boast of duplicating — was the dedication and official opening of the new $6,000,000 Canadian Pacific Pier B-C.

The new mammoth pier is the second longest in the world, and was planned with an eye to a prosperous future when Vancouver will be one of, if not the biggest, port on the Pacific coast, and designed to accommodate at least two of the greatest liners built.

It is a far cry from the first wooded ocean docks built by the Canadian Pacific in the early spring of 1887 when Vancouver was a city of stumps and possibilities to the present pier with nearly 3,000 feet of berthing space available and accommodation for the cargoes of a dozen of even the most modern ocean greyhounds. Representing the last word in modern machine construction, the new pier is also notable for the pleasing manner in which the practical has been combined with the artistic.

The Canadian Pacific is interested chiefly in the trade with the Orient, Australia and New Zealand. Although imports and exports are of a mixed character, the most valuable single article is silk. Silk shipments must be transferred from boat to rail with the least possible delay. Facilities embodied in the construction of this pier ensure the rapid and careful handling of all cargoes.

While designed primarily for the use of its own ships, the C.P.R. will allow pier B-C to be used by the ships of other lines. Its length of 1,140 feet permits the docking of nearly the largest of the present day trans-Pacific boats — the Empress of Canada, 640 feet in length — with a smaller vessel. Its width of 331 feet permits a moderate sized boat to be docked at the off-shore end at the same time that either or both sides of the pier are in use.

A special feature of the construction of the pier is that a promenade is constructed down each side of the pier leading from the head-house over the roofs of the freight sheds. Conna-ded to the ships by a long gangway so that passengers may embark or disembark without hindering the freight handling on the lower pier.
In officially opening the pier Mayor Taylor unveiled a magnificent income plaque, a gift of private citizens of Vancouver, which bears the following inscription: "Piers B and C. Formally Opened and Dedicated to the Canadian Pacific Empire Service during Greater Vancouver's Celebration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee of Confederation by Louis D. Taylor Mayor of Vancouver."
