A bishop recently addressed a large assembly of Sunday-school children, and wound up by asking, in a very paternal way: "And now, is there any little boy of any little girl who would like to ask me a question?" A thin, shril voice at the back of the room called out, "Please, sir, why did the angles walk up and down Jacob's ladder when they had wings?" "Oh, ah, yes I see," said the bishop. "And now, is there any little girl who would like to answer that question?"
