ANOTHER WORD OF WARNING ABOUT RADIO SETS

As predicted last year, radio without batteries, chemicals, chargers, attachments, etc., are now the standard. In another year or so battery-operated sets will be obsolete, almost worthless, wherever current is available.

Those considering the purchase of a radio operating without batteries should bear this in mind: There are two types of "electric" radio—(1) those that are built to operate direct from a light socket, made in one factory, complete in one cabinet—all ready to operate, and—(2) ordinary electric sets that can be "adapted" to light-socket operation by installing a so-called power unit, which power unit generally consists of a 'B' Eliminator, a storage battery and a charger. You still have the "A" battery; you still have chemicals, but the charger is connected to a light socket, and so they are termed "socket-power." This latter type serves very well for those who already have a battery operated set, but cannot afford to turn it in for a new genuine Batteryless Model, but when buying a new radio supposedly "Batteryless," be sure to get the type that is completely batteryless and built to be so.

Of this type the "Rogers Batteryless" is the only one with any record of proven performance behind it. Conceived in 1923 and introduced in 1925, it is the first and only time-tested radio set, complete in one cabinet, made in one factory and operating direct from any alternating current socket (and in most cases it needs no aerial).

Moreover the Rogers was conceived, developed, perfected and made right in Canada and was the world's first Batteriess A/C radio set.

Producing such a set that will give uniform performance in all localities under all conditions is not easy. The first year or two brings grief. Now, in its third year, with thousands of sets in active operation from coast to coast the Rogers has proven its merit.

Don't experiment. It may cost you dearly. Look for the name "Rogers;" look for the Rogers A/C Tubes with the top clips and be sure then you'll have no regrets later.—Advt.

RUN DOWN IN HEALTH

Why Many Men and Women Are Badly Handicapped

When you are so run down in health that it impairs the efficiency of your work as well as your power to enjoy your leisure hours, or obtain rest, it is time you looked to the cause. If you do not, a serious breakdown is almost sure to result. In nearly all cases this condition, which doctors usually describe as general debility, is due to poor blood—blood that is deficient in red corpuscles. When the blood is thin and weak your whole system suffers. You lose appetite, have no energy, your nerves trouble you and you feel restless.

What you need is help to build up your blood and you should begin at once to make your blood rich and red by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. you will soon notice the difference in your health by a better appetite and increased vigor. The reason is that the new blood created by Dr Williams' Pink Pills stimulates all the organs of the body to healthy activity and so the system gains nourishment and strength. If you are weak or out of sorts, begin gaining new strength to-day by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. "I was in a badly run down condition," says Mrs. J. Potter, of Winnifred, Alta., "when I began using Williams' Pink Pills and they fully restored my health. I strongly recommend this medicine to all weak people."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Col. Lindbergh Says Credit Due Plane, Not Him

Better Than It Was When New, He Declares, At End of 22,350-Mile Tour

New York.—Back at the starting point of his flight to world fame and his 22,350 mile tour of the country, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was welcomed by 2000 persons, including Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, under the auspices of which Colonel Lindbergh made his tour.

The Colonel shifted the conversation of interviewers from himself to the merits of the plane that had carried him through 355 hours of flying since he left San Diego, Calif., previous to his hop to Paris. "The Spirit of St. Louis is in fine shape," he asserted. "It gives more revolutions per minute now than when it was new. But this looks like a good time to do it, so I'm going to have it completely overhauled. That's never been done since it was built, you know. No, it isn't destined for a museum yet. Eventually, but not now."

He said the tour had proved the reliability of modern equipment. "Others will have to say whether the tour was successful," he declared.

The "others" did. Statements by Mr. Guggenheim, William P. McCracken, Jr., Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aviation and Harry S. New, Postmaster-General, told how the tour had stimulated interest in flying, in the air mail and in construction of airports."

GUARD THE CHILDREN FROM AUTUMN COLDS

The Fall is the most severe season of the year for colds—one day is warm, the next cold and wet, and unless the mother is on her guard, the little ones are seized with colds that may hang on all winter. Baby's Own Tablets are mothers' best friend in preventing or banishing colds. They act as a gentle laxative, keeping the bowels and stomach free and sweet. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent colds, or if it does come on suddenly their prompt use will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cts. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

New Zealand's Apples in Favor

Shipments May Be Made Direct to Continent, Not Via England

Auckland, N.Z.—Fruit growing for export is quite a minor industry in New Zealand, but a good deal of capital is involved, the quality of the product is high, and strenuous efforts are being made to put the business on a better footing. Export is strictly controlled by a board, and great pains are taken to insure a high level of quality, and uniformity.

The report of the Fruit Export Control Board for the season ended May 1 refers to the poorness of the season in England. The only satisfactory feature was that the position of New Zealand fruit on the English market was retained, and though New Zealand's realizions were poor, those of its competitors were worse.

During the season 449,000 cases were shipped to Britain, and 67,000 to South America. Sturmer Pippin was the predominating variety of apple sent to Britain, but Delicious accounted for more than half the shipments to South America.

At present trade with European centers is dealt with through English ports, and the board notes the increasing Continental demand as a very satisfactory feature, and thinks it may be necessary to ship direct to the Continent. A scheme by which persons in New Zealand can send fruit to friends in England has been a success, and is considered valuable as a means of advertising the New Zealand product.

The industry, however, is still working under a government guarantee, and a result of last season's low prices was that the State had to foot a heavy bill. It is believed that there is little or no likelihood of the State having to pay out this year, but the industry will not be in a really healthy condition until it is able to do without this government help.

They say that this football season is full of upsets. Also, we should say, of setups.

South African Flag Dispute Now Settled

Draft Agreement Provides for Continuation of the Use of Union Jack

Cape Town.—There is reason to believe flag controversy is now practically settled. A provisional agreement has been drafted, and except for one small point is generally approved. The agreement provides that the Union Jack shall always fly officially alongside the national flag and be recognized as one of South Africa's flags. The proposed new design for the national flag follows the design embodied in the Flag Bill, but the shield is removed and in its place the Union Jack and the two old republican flags are placed side by side in the center panel. The three miniatures occupy one-ninth of the whole surface.

Tielman Roos, Minister of Justice, says the country is indebted to General Hertzog for the agreement, though the feeling outside parliament is that General Smuts and Mr. Roos also deserve much credit.

Since the South African Government at the beginning of the special session of Parliament agreed not to proceed with the Flag Bill until a final effort had been made to reach a peaceful settlement, private discussions between the Prime Minister, General Hertzog, and General Smuts, the leader of the South African Party, have been held daily. The country awaited the result with anxiety, the issue being regarded as of the gravest importance.

The Flag Bill of the Government proposed that South Africa should have a flag consisting of a red vertical stripe next the staff and horizontal stripes of green, yellow and blue, entirely excluding the Union Jack. This proposal was met with opposition from a large portion of the South African population and many attempts have been made to reach an amicable agreement on what is a vital question. One proposal made was that the Union Jack should be flown on a few special occasions, as an evidence of the country's connection with the British Empire, and that the South African should include the cross of St. George.

Then followed another proposal to the effect that the flag should combine the Union Jack with the old republican flags in a shield in the middle of the household flag of the old Dutch House of Orange. The Senate refused to pass the Flag Bill and a deadlock has continued ever since, with an attempt on the part of both leaders, as stated in the above cable, to reach a modus vivendi.

Soviet Executes Three as Spies for Britain; Final Appeals for Ex-Millionaires Fail

Moscow.—Two brothers, Vladimir and Cyril Prove, and their brother-in-law, M. Korepanoff, once rated as millionaires, with high social connections, and one of them, Cyril, a noted sportsman, went to their death by order of the Soviet court. They paid the supreme penalty for alleged espionage in behalf of Great Britain.

The Soviet Government moved swiftly, both in the apprehension and execution of those who would betray the secrets of the State, the army and the navy to the Soviet's enemies. The trial of those whose activities are ferreted out by the police is usually concluded with all speed and no time is lost in carrying out the sentence of the Court.

Cyril Prove, weeping bitterly, begged for mercy. Vladimir tried as best he might to hold up his drooping shoulders when the head of the military tribunal of the Supreme Court ended all hope of appeal by declaring that the death sentence would stand.

The case, however, was appealed, but the All-Russian Executive rejected the plea, declining to grant clemency to the convicted men, who had hoped to benefit by the amnesty which will come into effect with the commencement of the tenth anniversary celebration of the founding of the Soviet Republic.

Attorneys of the men held out hope until the last minute, but their efforts failed. The Executive ruling was that their offense was among the gravest of all offenses against the Soviet Government.

The two brothers turned State's evidence, thus hoping their lives would be spared, and M. Korepanoff pleaded that he was not aware of the "espionage character" of questions put to him by Edward Charnock, First Secretary of the British Mission at Moscow. At the time, Korepanoff, though counsel to the War Commissariat, transacted mainly civil matters and he declared he knew few military secrets.

Pirates Kill or Wound 60

Chinese Freebooters Rob Passengers on Ship on the Yangtse

Shanghai.—Sixty persons were killed or wounded in a pirate attack on the steamer Kianghsin on the Yangtse River, says a semi-official Japanese statement.

The attack took place soon after the steamer had left Ichang. Thirty Chinese pirates traveling as passengers, seized the vessel after a fierce fight with the crew and a dozen guards attached to the Governor Kwaichow. The fight lasted an hour and resulted in a victory for the pirates.

The bodies of those killed in the fight were thrown overboard and the passengers and crew were robbed of their money and belongings. The pirates then left the steamer and made a landing with their booty.

CARRIED WIFE TO BED

Suffered So She Could Not Walk. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minesing, Ontario. — "I am a practical nurse and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to suffering women. For three months I was almost helpless and could not sit at the table long enough to drink a cup of tea. Many a time my husband carried me to bed, I would be so weak. Then he read in the paper of a woman suffering as I did who got better after taking the Vegetable Compound, so he went and got it for me. When I had taken three bottles I was just like a new woman and have had splendid health ever since. When I feel any bearing-down pains I always take it; sometimes a half bottle or whatever I need. It is my only medicine and I have told many a one about it. Any one wanting to know more about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I will gladly write to her. I do all I can to recommend it for I feel I owe my life and strength to it." — Mrs. NEAL BOWERS, R.R. 1, Minesing, Ontario.

Do you feel broken-down, nervous, and weak sometimes? Do you have this horrid feeling of fear which sometimes comes to women when they are not well? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent to take at such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently will relieve this condition.
