

ST. VITUS DANCE

A Trouble That Usually Attacks Young Children

St. Vitus dance is the name generally given to a disease described by medical men as chorea. This trouble usually attacks young children, though older people may be afflicted with it. The most common symptoms are a twitching of the face and limbs. As the disease progresses the twitching takes the form of spasms, in which the jerking motion may be confined to the face or all the limbs may be affected. Frequently the patient is unable to hold anything in the hands or walk steadily. In severe cases the speech is often affected. The disease is due to debility of the nerves and relief comes through an enriched blood supply. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been most successful in reaching this trouble through their specific action on the blood, which it enriches and purifies. The following instance proves the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in this trouble. Mrs. Thomas Bowen, Bath, Ont., says:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been in use in my family for years and always with good results. I believe they saved the life of my only son. At ten years of age he grew very nervous and the trouble developed into St. Vitus dance. His legs and arms would jerk and twitch, then his speech was affected, and his condition was pitiable. Just then there came to me a little book telling of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to give them to him. By the time two boxes were used there was an improvement in his condition and by the time six boxes were taken all traces of the trouble had disappeared, and he was well and strong. I have also given the pills to my growing girls, and I know of no better strengthening medicine. I may add that the same applies to grown-ups as well."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

British Firm Aids Workers Who Lose Jobs

£2 a Week Paid Toward Wages of Employees Displaced by Machinery

London—"A North British manufacturing concern, having to reduce staff through the introduction of labor-saving machinery, is prepared to pay £2 per week toward the wages of each displaced worker employed by reputable firms for one year at not less than 55s. per week. This is a splendid opportunity for a new concern to secure labor during early developments."

This advertisement appearing in some of the big provincial dailies has caused a considerable amount of interest in business and industrial concerns.

The firm in question was identified at once by many students of economics, but as the advertisement was a "keyed" one it was impossible to verify the supposition. It is now established that as the managing director of a big confectionery concern and also as chairman of an industrial welfare research committee. Seebohm Rowntree, author of "How the Laborer Lives," etc., is proposing to put into practice his teaching that, while labor-saving machinery in the long run creates productive labor, yet in the creative period those benefiting by the reduction of wage costs are morally bound to find subsistence for the temporarily displaced laborer.

Presuming that the new machines dispose of the work of 50 men, the annual cost to the firm to be paid in wages to some concern over which they will have no managerial control, will be over £5000 a year.

Peace and Preparedness

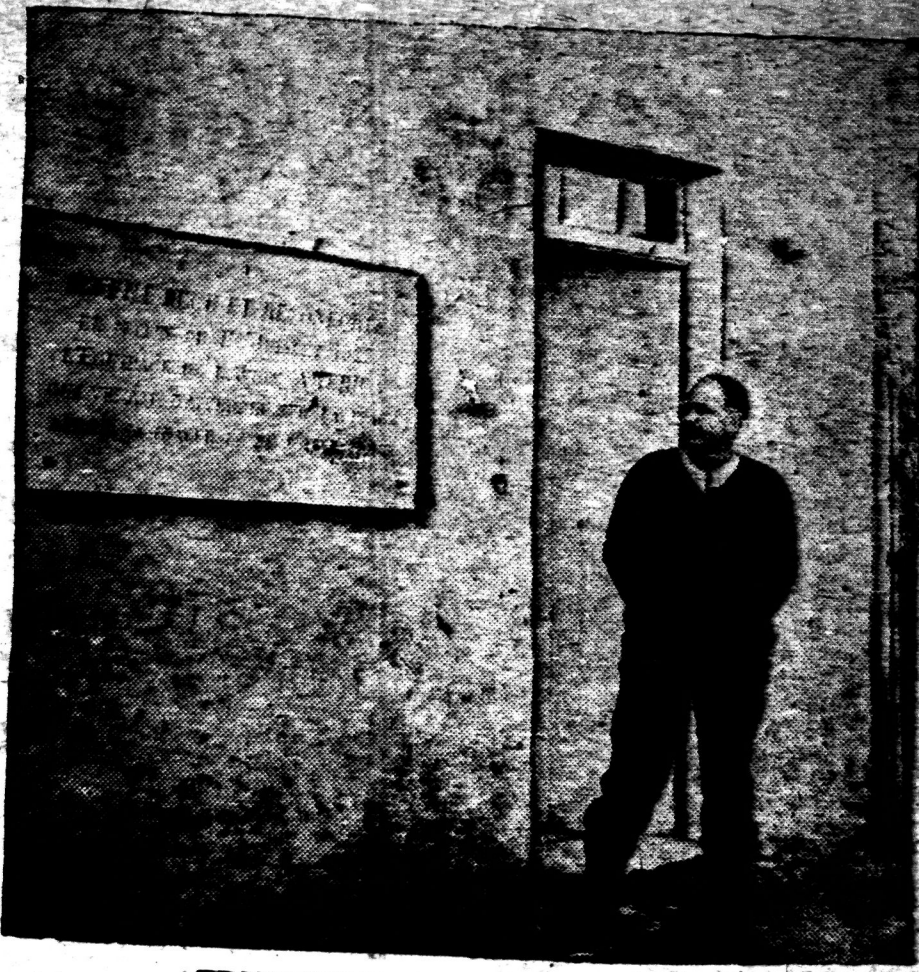

Washington Post: The Kellogg treaty should be promptly approved, but along with it must go prudent naval precautions against possible aggression. Those who look for ratification of the Kellogg treaty and abandonment of naval defence are in for an awakening. The United States will not expose its ships on every sea to the tender mercies of foreign belligerents who have cast off the Kellogg treaty and all other laws of God and man. The spoils of the United States are not available to any foreign pirate disguised as a belligerent. Without waiting for intolerable outrages to spur the Nation to defend itself, defences will be provided now, so that outrages will not be attempted.

Old Customs Still Obtain

New Archbishop Takes Oath in Quaint Function at London

London.—Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang was confirmed as Archbishop of Canterbury in succession to Dr. Randall Thomas Davidson. A picturesque ceremony took place in the Church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, where, as Archbishop-elect, Dr. Lang knelt before the Royal Commission of Bishops to take the oath of allegiance. Then, standing, he pronounced the customary declaration against simony and the declaration of assent, after which he signed the oath and the declarations, using for the first time his new title, Cosmo Cantuar.

The proceedings began in the morning with the investigation in the vestry of a number of protests, which, one by one, were turned down by the Commission of Bishops. It is understood that one of them challenged the election of Archbishop Davidson as canonically invalid. Another, submitted by the Protestant Alliance, objected to Dr. Lang's attitude toward the new Prayerbook proposals, which Parliament rejected last summer, and declared, "He does not seem fitted to be the church's guide in this perilous crisis of its history."

In accordance with time-honored custom, all objections had to be submitted in writing by the previous afternoon. On the previous Monday, Sir John Hanham, Apparitor-General of the Province of Canterbury, duly appeared in wig and gown, read from the steps of the church the proclamation calling "all and singular opposers, if any such there may be," to lay their pleas by the prescribed date.

The church of St. Mary-le-Bow, famous home of Bow bells, was chosen for the ceremony because it is chief of the City of London's 13 "peculiar" churches, that is to say the churches formerly falling under the direct jurisdiction of the Archbishop of Canterbury, though situated in the diocese of London.

The Ecclesiastical Court of the Archbishop of Canterbury has been held there for over 1,000 years. The Royal Commissioners, who confirmed the election, were the Bishops of London, Winchester, Rochester, Norwich, Bristol, Worcester, Lincoln and Salisbury.

The newly elected archbishop is the ninety-seventh of an unbroken line from St. Augustine in A.D. 597, which contains such famous names as Dunstan, Thomas Becket, Stephen Langton, Thomas Cranmer and William Laud. His predecessor has held office from 1903 till his retirement early this month, and his voluntary relinquishment of the post has created a new precedent in English church history.

Make Them Comfortable

Special attention should be taken to make the guest-room a homelike place rather than just a room where the family friend may sleep when visiting. Here are some grievous errors made by unthinking housewives that may be easily corrected.

"Many homes have only one bathroom which must be shared by the family and the guest as well," she says. "I think nothing is more awkward for a guest than to listen and wait, wondering when it will be the best time to make the break for the bathroom," unencountered by some member of the household, or to lie awake for hours in order to awaken early enough to get ahead of the family with their many ablutions. The thoughtful hostess will make this easy for her guest. She will show each guest where the bathroom is located, on which rack are the towels, and then she may easily say, "We have such a large family and only one bathroom, but we ought to be finished with our baths by 7.30. I'll rap at your door at that time, if you desire. It will be perfectly all right for you to have your bath then or, if you prefer, before seven."

An American physician, Dr. Malford, now joins in the expert approval of present-day women's dress, and says that by their healthy habit of scanty clothes women are rapidly becoming the stronger sex. One trembles for the time when they will have attained full strength.

British Premier Opens New Town Hall

PREMIER AND MRS. BALDWIN AT DUDLEY

The Lord Mayor of Dudley entertains the British Prime Minister with old time customs at opening of a war Memorial Town Hall.

It Isn't Your Town—It's Yours

If you want to dwell in a town that's swell, And the kind of a town you like, You need not pack Your clothes on your back, And go for a farewell hike, For you'll only find What you've left behind; There is nothing that's really new, It's a knock at yourself, When you knock your town; It isn't your town—it's you.

Towns are not made By men afraid, Lest someone else get ahead, When everyone works And nobody shirks, You can lift a town from the dead, And if while you make Your personal stake, Your neighbor can make one, too, Your town will be What you want it to be; For it isn't your town—IT'S YOU!

THOUSANDS OF MOTHERS USE NO OTHER MEDICINE

Baby's Own Tablets Are the Ideal Remedy for Babies and Young Children

Canadian mothers are noted for the care they give their little ones—the health of the baby is most jealously guarded and the mother is always on the lookout for a remedy which is efficient and at the same time absolutely safe. Thousands of mothers have found such a remedy in Baby's Own Tablets and many of them use nothing else for the ailments of their little ones. Among them is Mrs. Howard King, of Truro, N.S., who says:—"I can strongly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to mothers of young children as I know of nothing to equal them for little ones."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Radio Controversy

Philadelphia Ledger: (Canada, dissatisfied with the allotment of only six radio channels under the "gentlemen's agreement" is reported to have refused to discuss the allocation of short waves unless it is assured 50 per cent. of the available channels.) Had it not been for the broadcasting controversy, Canada might have been content with from 20 to 25 per cent. of the short waves. Perhaps this change of attitude is a warning that something must be done, and done quickly, about revising the "gentlemen's agreement." It is obvious that a loss of Canadian co-operation would greatly complicate the task of controlling the radio situation in this country.

Mr Hoover and the Waterway

Toronto Star (Ind.): The election of Mr. Hoover brings Canada to the place where a great decision must be made. The President-elect of the United States is under an obligation to provide a cheap outlet by water for the goods of the inland states. At present the favors, with the approval of the nation, the St. Lawrence project which would bring great advantage to Canada. If this country is not interested he will proceed with an alternative plan that will be detrimental to Canada and particularly to the Port of Montreal.

Chinese Women Organizing for Advancement

Girl Sues for Share of Estate—Another Asks Release From Child Betrothal

Peiping (Peking)—With the encouragement of the Nationalist Government, the women of China are now rapidly emerging from their age-old seclusion and are busily organizing themselves for further advancement. The Peiping Women's Rights Association was recently inaugurated here, and at its first meeting a constitution was adopted and 13 departmental chiefs were elected on an organization plan similar to that of the Nationalist Government itself. The association, according to its constitution, is for the purpose of promoting the rights of women, and complete political and social equality with men is to be sought.

The Peiping International Women's Club, which was organized here a few years ago to introduce women of various nationalities to one another in this cosmopolitan city, has had great success with its series of meetings. The election this year of a native of the city as president of the organization is expected to insure continuity of its programs hereafter. Chinese women are also becoming increasingly prominent this season in other clubs which were originally for foreigners. The Mothers' Club, the College Women's Club, the Things Chinese Society, and the Institute of Fine Arts all have Chinese women now as active members.

Ho Chi-kung, the new mayor of Peiping, is particularly interested in improving the status of women. He has prohibited the old traffic in children, whereby the daughters of poor men were sold as servants to wealthy families, and he is enforcing the order against foot binding. He has also attacked the ancient system of concubinage and has forbidden men to take secondary wives hereafter. Marriages from now on must be contracted only with the consent of the bride and groom and unions between strangers are forbidden.

In this connection the women of Peiping are watching with interest two novel law suits now before Shanghai courts. In one case, a girl is suing her brother for an equal share of her father's rich estate, which is contrary to old Chinese law, by which a daughter received a dowry, but had no legal ranking with her brothers. In the other case, a girl is seeking release on the eve of her wedding from a betrothal arranged for her when she was only 12 years old.

Big Navy Propaganda

Saint John Telegraph-Journal (Ind.): Is the building program of the United States Navy to be competitive or is it to be based solely on the needs of the Republic to protect its seaborne trade? From Great Britain one has definite assurance that naval construction unrestricted by the Washington treaty will be in accordance with Great Britain's needs to protect British commerce, and will not compete with the United States. The United States has a perfect right to build as many cruisers as she desires, and Great Britain does not intend to let that affect her own judgment of her needs. So let the United States go ahead and build whatever she can convince her people is necessary, but her big navy people should not confuse the issue by attempting to convey the idea that there is an agreement between the nation to limit any but capital ships, and that the United States is lagging behind on a non-existent ratio.

If you want to succeed in the world you must make your own opportunities as you go on. The man who waits for some seventh wave to toss him on dry land will find that the seventh wave is a long time coming. You can commit no greater folly than to sit on the roadside until someone comes along and invites you to ride with him to wealth and influence.—John B. Gough.

Life would be very dull if all the newspapers said the same thing, but it is not often that one finds such a conflict of testimony as is here offered.—Where the lava has once passed the ruin is eternal as it is complete. No living thing that yields food for man or beast will grow in its fall path. The destroying lava, when cooled, is a great fertilizing agent. The most fertile vines, the richest fruit trees flourish just below the barren slopes of the mountains.

Punjab Sample Train Starts On Six-Month Trip

Exhibits Display Objects of Art and Utility Produced in India Similar to Our Ontario Train

Bombay—The Punjab sample train, which was a great success last year, has again been equipped and will undertake another journey of six months, visiting 85 stations in different parts of the Punjab. Besides a cinema car, two bogie carriages are being run under the auspices of the Industries Department, two under that of the Agricultural Department, and another under the Veterinary Department of the Punjab Government. Each will exhibit samples of work done by the various institutions under Government.

The Industries Department's cars contain the latest hand-worked shuttle looms which are eminently suitable for the cottage industry purposes, to replace the primitive loom. Hosiery, dyeing, calico-printing and leather working machinery and appliances will be operated in the car and a boy will show how basket and cane-work can be a remunerative occupation to supplement the incomes of the labor classes.

Among other exhibits will be lacquered and inlaid objects, elegant furniture, beautiful vases and ornaments of brass and ivory. These are arranged side by side with cases containing articles of greater utilitarian value, such as dispatch boxes, sports paraphernalia, carpets, scientific apparatus and household necessities. Then there are textile goods, such as tapestries, damask, silk suitings, etc., some produced by the Government industrial schools for women and girls and others in factories or in the home of weavers. The agricultural cars are a complete museum of up-to-date equipment.

A band of musicians accompanies the train. They will entertain the villages with vocal and instrumental music, the subject of their song being the uplift of the rural community.
