The Importance of Swarm Control

At one time the skill of a beekeeper was measured by the number of swarms he obtained from his apiary, but at the present time honey production is the index of success. Natural swarming is the best method of making increase, but coming, as it does, just prior to or during the main honey flow, it greatly lessens the storage capacity of the apiary. Furthermore, there is always the danger of losing bees through absconding swarms. After a colony has made its first preparations for swarming, there is usually a slowing-up of field work, and when the swarm issues this work may cease altogether, for it is the field force of the colony that goes to make up the swarm. Should nectar be coming in at the rate of ten to twenty pounds per day at the time of swarming it will readily be seen that this loss of time on the part of the bees will have an adverse effect on the crop stored. As the colony from which the swarm issues is deprived of its field bees, it can no longer be expected to gather a crop of honey. Should the beekeeper be lucky enough to capture the swarm and return it to the colony from which it came, the loss in honey will not be so great as where the swarm is hived on a new stand, the time lost by the bees in preparing for the swarming, however, means lost honey. Fortunately the bees give ample warning when they are preparing to swarm. A thorough examination once every nine or ten days will enable the beekeeper to forestall natural swarming. The bees will, in the majority of cases, abandon their preparations if sufficient room is given them to store surplus nectar or the queen given more room in the brood nest. Shade and ventilation during the hottest part of the summer also aid in reducing the tendency. For those colonies that insist on swarming, dequeening or separation of queen and brood, will stop them. Two Aberdeen gentlemen were departing from the theatre after a performance of "Hamlet." "Ay," said one in a thoughtful voice. "I'll admit I'm profoundly affected by that play, Weelum. It's as good as a sermon and it makes me think I ought to be done more during my lifetime." The other looked at his friend meaningly. "Ay," he said, "and ye've done a good few in your time, too."

On Ottawa man has invented a brake that will bring a car going sixty miles an hour to a dead stop in twenty feet. He is now working on a device to keep the driver from going through the windshield.

How Much Water Should Baby Get?
A Famous Authority's Rule
By Ruth Brittain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water. Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For the other ill of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a look on Motherhood worth its weight in gold. Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty cent bottles usually thirty-five cents.

The Ban on War

J. L. Garvin in the London Observer (Can.): We know that we speak for the vast majority of people in the Mother Country and the Dominions alike when we repeat that the special and separate diplomatic commitments of France to Poland and the Triple Alliance never can be allowed to prejudice the relations of the English-speaking people amongst themselves nor to impede the broad advance of the American plan for the banning of war.

NEW STRENGTH FOR WEAK STOMACHS

Indigestion Disappears When the Blood is Enriched

The most urgent need of all who suffer from any form of indigestion is a tonic to enrich the blood. Pain and distress after eating is the way the stomach shows that it is too weak to perform the work of digesting the food it takes. New strength is given to weak stomachs by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills because they purify and enrich the blood. This accounts for the speedy relief in stomach disorders that follows the use of this medicine. The value of this medicine in cases of indigestion is shown by the case of Mrs. George W. Johnson, LaGrange, N.S., who says:—"I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was greatly distressed with indigestion. Always after eating I suffered from pains in the stomach and other distressing symptoms. I tried different remedies, but without getting relief. I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I readily did, and I am feeling very grateful ever since to the person who gave me the advice. The very first box helped me and before I had taken a half dozen boxes I was restored to my former good health and all traces of this distressing trouble disappeared. It is now about a year since I took the pills, and I have not been troubled with indigestion since. I have taken every occasion to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to those in need of a medicine and shall continue to do so."

A little booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free to anyone asking for it. You can get the pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Over 1,000 Buffalo Northern Reserve

A further movement of between 1,000 and 1,100 yearling and two-year-old buffalo will be made from the Buffalo national park at Wainwright, Alberta, to Wood Buffalo park near Fort Smith, Northwest Territories, beginning the first week in June. An officer of the North West Territories and Yukon Branch of the Department of the Interior is at present in the West completing arrangements for the first train load of the 1925 shipment. The animals, which were segregated in corrals during the winter, will be placed in specially equipped cars at the siding at Wainwright. They will be shipped by rail to Waterways and then loaded on scoops for the water journey to a point 11 miles south of Fitzgerald, where they will be released into the park. Weekly shipments will be made until this year's quota has been transported which will be some time early in July. This year's movement will bring the total shipped to Wood Buffalo park to over 6,000 and the number of buffalo in the park to an estimated grand total of over 9,000. Wardens report that the buffalo placed in the park since the first movement in 1925 are making satisfactory progress.

Ready With An Answer.

Pat was hired in a lumber office. The proprietor was a young man and he decided to have some fun with the new hand, so Pat was left in charge of the office, with instructions to take all orders which might come in. Going to a nearby store, the proprietor called up the office:

"Hello! Is this the East Side Lumber Company?"

"Yes, Sir."

"Send me up a thousand knot holes."

"What's that?"

"One thousand knot holes."

"Well, now, an' ain't that a shame! We are just out of them. Sold them all to the brewery."

"To the brewery? What do they want with them?"

"They use them for bungholes in barrels."

The Beautiful Green Lake

The adventures who first visited Jasper National Park, Canada's great national playground in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, were concerned less with the marvellous scenic beauties of the Region than they were with finding a pathway through the mountain ranges which seemed to bar their further progress. However, those who followed in their footsteps realized the beauties of the territory now included in the 5,300 square miles of Jasper National Park and in naming the lakes, rivers and peaks of this area, used names which were expressive of their characteristics. Thus, in the case of the lake on the shore of which was later located Jasper Park Lodge, the magnificent log cabin bungalow hotel of the Canadian National Railway, the name Lac Beauvert (Beautiful Green Lake) was applied. That no more fitting name could have been chosen for this beautiful body of water is evident to every visitor to Jasper. Clear, green water, reflecting the glory of the surrounding parks, greets the tourist when he straggles from his cabin at Jasper Park Lodge to the shore of this lake, and so free of vegetable matter is this icy cold water that he can easily read a newspaper which has been weighted and sunk under several feet of water. Canoes and boats are available for those who would paddle or row over its glassy surface, and a swimming tank with heated water, has been constructed on the shore of the lake. Jasper Park Lodge will be visited this year by members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association at the conclusion of their Annual Convention at the Macdonald Hotel, Edmonton, Alta.

Chihli Province "Flanders Field" of Warring China

Bore Brunt of Savage War During Hostilities of 1924 Between North and South

Washington.—Chihli Province, China, scene of recent clashes between the Chinese warring factions, is the "Flanders Field" of China, says a bulletin from the headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "During the hostilities of 1924 southern Chihli bore the brunt of Chinese civil war in the north, and, recently Hokeien, 100 miles south of Peking, was retaken by the northern armies after a brisk battle. The capture of Hokeien re-establishes one of Peking's main lines of defense, which stretches across Chihli from Pootingful to Tsangchow. "Without Manchuria, which surrounds China's northeastern corner, Chihli would not only occupy the position of New England in the United States, but its similarity to Yankee America also extends to its shape, climate and topography. Chihli even has a Cape Cod Bay formed by the Gulf of Chihli with the blunted peninsula of Shantung Province forming the cape. The Chinese province, however, covers nearly twice the area of the New England States and has a fourth the population of the entire United States, most of which is concentrated in the plain country extending for about 100 miles from the coast. Nearly every square foot of this area is occupied by cities, villages, orchards, grazing land and small farms. "Travelers in Chihli are astonished by the large production of agricultural products in the province with the crude methods and devices used by the farmers. In many sections grain is winnowed in the manner employed in Egypt in ancient times. Threshing machines consist of many biased paddles, with which the grain is beaten, or large rough roller stones drawn over the grain by plowing bullocks. It is a common sight in the remote districts to see women squatting beside large stone troughs pounding wheat for daily consumption, and now and then one sees a blindfolded horse trotting around in a circle hitched to a huge grinding stone. In some sections of the province the work of the women and the horse is done by windmills with enormous blades or crude waterpower machinery. "As in Massachusetts, many of Chihli's industrial cities are situated up the various rivers away from the sea. Tientsin, which ranks next to Peking among the cities of the province, sends a large bulk of goods to Europe and the United States, including such articles as feathers, goats' beards, fox-tails, licorice, human hair, pig bristles and lanterns. When hats were more fashionable Chihli hats were sold in our markets. "Queer people with queer customs are encountered in the broad expanse of Chihli Province, but perhaps more queer, is the pronunciation of its name, which is not like that of the famous Mexican stew, but as if it was spelled 'Jexhleee'."

Women and Wool

The Committee on (British) Industry and Trade report that wool is less formerly, but that "the population as a whole is (at least in appearance) better clothed than before the war." With all proper respect to the susceptibilities of woolen manufacturers, we must contend that our people are better clothed, not only in appearance, but in fact. No social phenomenon of recent years is so remarkable as the high standard of dress attained by all classes of society. Indeed, the classes are not readily distinguishable at sight. Since sumptuary laws no longer require, as they did in the Middle Ages, that women are to be dressed according to the position of their fathers or husbands, there is often little enough to mark the outward difference between a marchioness and a milliner. Life is made up of getting and giving and forgetting and forgiving.

Indigestion

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude help. Use what your doctor would advise. The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume of acid. The results are instantaneous, and no bad after-effects. Once you know this fact you will never feel with excess acid in the stomach again. Learn now why this method is supreme. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting stomach acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drug store.

Dominion Is Ready for Tourist Army of United States

Small Hamlets as Well as Big Centers Prepare to Meet Vacationists' Demands

Summer tourist travel from the United States to Canada commences gradually. By June most of the holiday resorts are open, ready to receive the steadily increasing flow of travelers from across the border. Traffic on trains running to such spots as Minaki, in northern Ontario, Jasper Park Lodge, in Jasper National Park, Alberta, and Pictou Lodge, near Pictou, N.S., becomes heavier. American license plates are becoming usual sights. Later one will see more of them, until in the eastern provinces and especially in British Columbia in the Far West, they will compose almost 40 per cent. of the total to be seen on streets and highways.

It is expected by Montreal municipal authorities that that city will be host to nearly 2,000,000 foreign visitors this summer. The peak of this influx will be reached during July and August, particularly during the final six weeks of that period. From this centre it will spread west and east, diffusing itself over the countryside. Obscure hamlets will blossom forth in sudden splendor; inns deserted during the winter will clamor at their doors; camp smoke will curl up from valleys remote and secluded for the greater part of the year. From Halifax in the east to Vancouver in the west an air of gaiety and holiday-making will prevail.

GREAT PRAISE FOR BABY'S OWN TABLETS

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. have received the following letter from Mrs. Griffith, of 21 Merchison Ave., East Hamilton, Ont., concerning her experience with Baby's Own Tablets:

Dear Sirs,—I wish to thank you for the handy little booklet you sent me on the Care of Children. My baby boy was six weeks old when I first used Baby's Own Tablets, being new to Canada, but since the first proof of their many uses in bringing up a family, I have never been without them, for they are worth their weight in gold. There is no trouble in getting the little ones to take them and they often prevent an illness if taken in time. My first baby is now, at the age of four and a half years, a picture of health, and my nine-months-old baby is also well and happy. They are both a real good sample of what Baby's Own Tablets can do, for I have never yet needed a doctor for either of them."

A Cool Lad

A woman leaped into the bay recently at Ninety-fifth Street, Brooklyn, N.Y., and was slowly carried out, her body bobbing up occasionally and then disappearing. Letterers raised a shout, and Edward A. Bush, fifteen-year-old Manual High School pupil, came on the run. He stripped his clothes as he ran and plunged over the sea-wall, fingertips stretched gracefully ahead. In a few seconds the boy came up within a few feet of the woman, shook his tousled head and took hold. The woman tried to grab Bush around the neck, but the boy dodged and calmly turned for the shore with his burden. A policeman patted Bush on the back, but the boy trotted off. "It's nothing," he said. "I can swim." Reporters told the news to Mrs. Edward Bush, the rescuer's mother. "He didn't tell me anything about it," she said. Her son is an excellent swimmer, indeed. He has won several medals in amateur contests.
