Crosses the Atlantic

First, N.J.—The Graf Zeppelin left for Germany at 1.54 (Monday).

Left first from the hangar, the greatest of all airships, into a moonlight night, on but a vanishing smudge of stars.

It started this morning it to follow the northern course and, with the aid of winds, to complete the trip in fifty hours.

Back the passengers were aboard and the ground crew the ship.

At that the wind was only an hour and down hanging the ship to be safely east doors.

Many, however, who conviction that there take-off this morning, doors grasped the cables to the great bag and propped the Zeppelin from the eastern doors into the night.

Why Did London Carry Mond Up to 43

The buying that carried Mond Nickel up to 43 when the big rush in the market was on is attributed to have come from London. In view of this, the puzzle remains unsolved, as to why the stock has sold off to 31, with international at around 17.5. The apparent answer is that Mond and International Nickel will get share and share alike in the new company to be formed, after International Nickel shares have been split 6 for 1. This would mean, of course, that international shares should sell at a price six times that of Mond.

While international shares are holding today around 17.5, Mond shares have been moving up gradually and went above 33 recently. If London interests, and they were important, were not entirely fooled, there may be something left unsaid.

Suppose that when the basis of the merger is announced it was found that Mond shareholders would be given 1 1/2 shares in the holding company for each share held and International shareholders 1 split share. This would mean that Mond shares should have a valuation of something better than 43.

The matter of a basis for the merger raises another question. Is International Nickel as it stands today worth 6 times as much as Mond Nickel, having regard to physical assets, earning power net current assets, plant and capital, etc.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Turning an Elephant Charge

One large elephant in a rage is enough to paralyze the bravest hunter, but when seven of the monsters charge two lone hunters it is only a miracle that saves the men. W. S. Chadwick recites his one and only elephant charge encounter in the November issue of "Field and Stream."

"Then the native behind us carelessly trod upon a rotten stick," says this article, "and at the sound the two bulls and five cows came into line, facing us. A moment they stood with lifted trunks searching for our scent, and then with screams of rage they started toward us."

"Stand steady," I heard Ben say. "Aim at the centre bull and give him all you've got! Work your bolt like hell!"

"From behind us I heard the native call: 'Look out, master. They're going to fight!' and the sound of running feet showed his effort to efface himself."

"The next two minutes are rather blurred in my recollection. I felt as a beetle might in the shadow of a great boot, or a man bound to the rails in front of an express train. It seemed impossible to stop that mighty coming force. But I worked my rifle bolt desperately and placed shot after shot in the chest of the centre animal of the line, while beside me Ben's express roared unceasingly."

At perhaps thirty yards, the two centre animals—a young bull and a cow—leaned drunkenly against the animals on their right. The two on the outside left closed in, and like a troop of soldiers on parade they wheeled to the right into the forest, the left flank animals passing within twenty-five paces of us!"

TO THE MOTHERS OF ALL PALE GIRLS

If Your Daughter Shows Signs of Anemia a Tonic is Needed.

Anemia is simply a lack of blood. It is one of the most common and at the same time most dangerous troubles from which growing girls suffer. It is common because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development, when girls often overwork and overstudy. It is dangerous because of the stealthiness of its approach and because of its tendency to grow steadily worse. Every growing girl should occasionally take a tonic to ward off this insidious trouble. It is because of their powerful action in rebuilding the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made a world-wide reputation. The case of Miss Claire Sullivan, Pincher Creek, Alta., amply proves the value of this medicine. Miss Sullivan says: "During my school days I suffered a great deal from thin and watery blood. I was continually weak and tired; my appetite was poor, my sleep unrefreshing and I was troubled with backaches. To make matters worse I was attacked with acute appendicitis and the operation left me in a very weakened state. My mother, learning of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, had me take them and after using them for some time I can say the result was simply wonderful, as they completely restored my health, and now when opportunity occurs I always recommend these pills to weak, pale girls suffering as I did."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Use Water to Remove Rust

It's a fact. Gun dope from a marksman. Edward H. Proudman ran across an old Ballard rifle. It was in a terribly rusty condition, the action would not work. He proposed to soak it in kerosene, but Joe said no: "Water put him on, water take him off; soak him in water for three days."

Fool advice, but Joe knew his business. So, after removing the stock, Mr. Proudman soaked the barrel in water for three days. He was surprised at the amount of rust that came off. The action worked as well as ever. He then oiled it up and now declares it works O.K.—From The American Rifleman.

The city is the inspiration of King Asmullah, who recently visited European countries and is ambitious of transplanting Western ideas, culture and methods of living to his mountain kingdom.

The nucleus of the new city is the central quarter. This will consist of a modern palace, equipped with the latest facilities, and a number of new government buildings which will house all state departments.

A GREAT PUZZLE TO CAREFUL PARENTS

One of the greatest puzzles to the careful parent is to know just what medicine to give the little ones. When the child falls ill with gripping colic, is seized with cold or fever, refuses food or vomits what he has taken, when he cries a great deal and cannot get the sleep so necessary to the growing child, the parent is in a quandary. What is to be done on such occasions? As often as not there is not a suitable medicine in the house. The puzzle is what to give him to set him right quickly.

It is to meet such emergencies that Baby's Own Tablets were designed. These pleasant little Tablets quickly reduce fever, break up colds, relieve constipation and indigestion and allay teething pains. They quiet the nerves and promote restful health-restoring sleep. They are guaranteed absolutely harmless and safe for even the youngest and most delicate baby.

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Boy and His Dog

A boy and his dog make a glorious pair: No better friendship is found anywhere. For they talk and they walk and they run and they play. And they have their deep secrets for many a day; And that boy has a comrade who thinks and who feels. Who walks down the road with a dog at his heels. He may go where he will and his dog will be there. May revel in mud and his dog will not care; Faithful he'll stay for the slightest command And bark with delight at the touch of his hand; Oh, he owns a treasure which nobody steals. Who walks down the road with a dog at his heels. No other can lure him away from his side; He's proof against riches and station and pride; Fine dress does not charm him, and flattery's breath is lost on the dog, for he's faithful to death; He sees the great soul which the body conceals— Oh, it's great to be young with a dog at your heels! —Edgar A. Guest in "When Days is Done."

Mistakes

There are about three things a fellow can do when he makes a mistake. He can resolve that he will never make another, which is fine, but impracticable. He may let that mistake make a coward of him, which is foolish; or he can make up his mind that he will let it be his teacher and so profit by the experience that if the situation comes his way again, he will know just how to meet it. There is a real wisdom in this attitude. Think it over.

Each of us must decide whether he will let his mistakes remain his enemies or become his friends. Why should we let a mistake, or even two or three, brake our spirit and sap our fighting strength?

A lad who showed that kind of disposition on the cricket field or on the football ground would never make the team. We all make mistakes, but if we let them be our teachers, counselling us, advising us, admonishing us, in due time we shall acquit ourselves all the better in the school of life.

Empire Settlement

Gabriel Wells in the Spectator (London): (In a letter headed "Unemployment and Emigration.") New enterprise is an essential element of the problem. Employers are needed before employment can be had. To increase the number of employers is part of the transfer of labor. What I would suggest, then (speaking with deference—not being an Englishman), is that the English Government turn itself into an agricultural and industrial employer on an extensive and diversified scale, both in Canada and the other Dependencies. Let the English Government in those places buy up tracts of uncultivated lands, and establish thereon farms, mills and cognate industries, even to the setting up of new centres of populations. The Government, like a father to his children, ought to take its sons and daughters by the hand and effectively help them to help themselves; and not set them adrift upon the uncharted seas of potentialities.
