WARNING NOTICE

You are hereby notified that the Corn Borer Act is in force in your county. This means that all corn must either be cut level with the ground and all remnants gathered and burned; or, if cut higher, the stubble must be ploughed under completely either this fall or next spring, and that any stubble or pieces of stalks dragged up again must be gathered and burned.

If you are putting in winter wheat, remember that the field must first be cleared from all corn remnants as outlined above.

SUGGESTIONS FOR LESSENING AMOUNT OF HAND-PICKING AND BURNING

1. Cut the corn low. Low cutting attachments for binders are now available, costing about $20.00. On small plots, cut the corn with a hoe not a sickle.
2. If the stubble is more than two inches high, crush it thoroughly before ploughing by running a heavy roller or planker over it twice, lengthwise the rows; or disc it twice; or lift it out with a plough and level it with the harrow. Crushing the stubble kills many borers.
3. Use a wide-furrow plow, never a narrow. Tractor ploughs should have a roller coupler and skimmer; walking ploughs a skimmer and a fin or high share or a knife coupler. Sometimes a chain or long wire is also necessary.
4. Never plough crosswise, but always lengthwise, of the rows.
5. Plough 6 inches deep, if possible, and run the last furrow before the stubble row as close to it as possible, so that on the next round the stubble will fall flat into the furrow and be buried completely.
6. Never plough when the ground is too dry to do a good job.
7. Spring ploughing usually results in less picking, but fall ploughing, especially after crushing the stubble, saves time for other spring work.
8. When cultivating in spring, use a disc, and in sowing a disc drill. Toothed implements drag up the stubble.
9. Rolling in spring before cultivating often helps to lessen the amount of stubble dragged up.

They nearly all come up to the surface after being ploughed and, if there are no pieces of corn or stubble to hide in, they perish from exposure or are destroyed by birds, ants, beetles or other enemies.

SWEET CORN USUALLY SUFFERS MOST FROM THE BORERS; HENCE DO NOT OVERLOOK EVEN SMALL GARDEN PLOTS.

The best way to deal with them is to leave them until spring and then pull the stalks up by the roots and all coarse weeds and burn them; then plough or spade the ground.

Every person, whether he receives this notice or not, is required to comply with the Act. The inspector has been instructed to enforce the Act without fear or favor. Nothing but thorough work will control the borer.
