Gevaert

(Call it Gevaert)
The SPEED FILM

How often it happens—a picture you are particularly anxious to get turns out badly because the film wasn't shining. Don't let this happen to you. Remember ninety per cent of picture failures is due to under-exposure—and Gevaert film is faster.

The safest, most economical and satisfactory way is to keep your camera loaded with Gevaert film. Made to work faster than ordinary film, Gevaert catch the swiftest movement. Clear, sparkling negatives. No wasted time or material. Better pictures—sun or no sun.

Don't fail to try Gevaert film. Write for samples to your dealer. In pills or film packs to fit all cameras.

Sudan Railway Opens Big Area To Development

Land Once Useless Due to Lack of Outlets Ready for Various Crops

London.—The link on the Port Sudan-Kassala railway between Gedaref and Sennar, 144 miles in length, was formally opened by Sir John Maffey, the Governor-General of the Sudan recently. The railway development of the Sudan is thus proceeding apace. From Port Sudan the line runs to Atbara on the Nile and a junction at Hsia leads a branch southward to Kassala.

This latter length of 134 miles has been in operation for some months. At Atbara the line runs north to Cairo and south to Khartoum and Sennar and thence westward to the terminus El Oteid. The great dam at Sennar carries the railway line eastward to link up with the Kassala section at Gedaref.

The railway development of the Sudan cotton area means much, for the heavy rainfall and periodic flooding made real roadmaking a difficult task. The dirt track is all right for bullock carts and possible for motors in the dry season, but the first rains turn these into quagmire. Plenty of good cotton land was useless to sow as there was no outlet to rail or sea.

The circle of railway which is now in operation has altered all this. Cattle, cereals, cotton and gum can now be produced with the knowledge that there is an outlet to the markets, and the inhabitants of this potentially rich area will reap the benefit. It also makes possible what is known as the Gash Delta cotton scheme. It is estimated altogether that some 20,000 square miles will be opened up for development.

Indus Diggings Base Civilization 5,000 Years Old

Excavators Uncover Stones of a People Contemporaneous With Abraham

Cities Found Under Cities

High State of Culture Indicated by Many Relics

Probably the last thing any archaeologist ever imagined was that contemporaries of Abraham would be found in India, and yet H. George II. Frank, member of the Indian historical records commission writes in "The Christian Science Monitor" the recent diggings in the sands of Sind have revealed the secrets of a wonderful civilization hitherto unknown and almost undreamed of, which undoubtedly dates back to the time when Ur of the Chaldees was flourishing.

In view of the latest romantic discoveries in the home of Abraham, the results of the researches at Mohenjo-daro, in the Indus Valley, a little less than 200 miles from Karachi, are of considerable value, especially as they probably give a more intimate picture of the life and civilization of the people who lived about 5,000 years ago than any other archaeological investigations ever made.

By good fortune the workers in India have happened upon the very houses in which these ancient people lived, and as a result of the great variety of relics unearthed from the three top layers of the six cities which have rested for more than two millenniums one on top of the other in silent decay, it is possible to know the appearance of the people, the manner in which they lived, the food they ate, the clothes they wore, the games they played, the extent of their culture, the tools they used, the writing they had evolved, the ornaments they put in their houses, the jewelry they carried on their persons, and the animals they domesticated and hunted. About the only thing we do not know is how they fought their enemies, for no implements of war have been found.

It is too early to ask, perhaps, whether Abraham ever visited this flourishing corner of Northern India and sailed down the mighty Indus, but it is certain that his people were contemporaneous with the Mohenjo-dariens and that fairly intimate relationships had been established. When the full story of the present discoveries is told, and when it is possible to make a closer side-by-side comparison between the antiquities of Ur and those of Sind, it is almost certain that a most romantic tale of early culture will be related.

Perhaps the most spectacular and most interesting of all the finds are the pictographic seals—little engraved tablets with animals and queer signs running all over them. Many of the symbols occur again and again in the thousand or more seals, thus suggesting that the art of writing, even in pictures, had been well systematized although in the absence of any large stones or tablets containing lengthy inscriptions, it is doubtful whether these seals will ever give up any other secrets than the names of their owners.

The children appeared to have a good time, for, in addition to a delightful series of figurines and painted clay models which would equal any modern equipment of a toy Noah's ark, there have been found some very interesting mechanical toys, one being a horse which moved its head by the pulling of a string, and another being a fully equipped chariot with driver and gabled roof.

Various flint and bronze tools and implements have been unearthed with which many of the household utensils were made. The knowledge of saws, chisels, razors and knives reveals a high state of culture and more or less explains the liberal discoveries of the carvings, the polishings and the designs of the different ornaments. The jewelry, for example, would do credit to many a modern craftsman of the West, and if only the necklaces, beads, bangles and earrings could be put up for sale in these times, they would have as great value for the excellence of their workmanship and for being unique. In addition to graceful common pots, there was an amazing variety of ware decorated with designs of swastika, flowers and animals which would stir modern designers to a high pitch of admiration, for while many of the shapes re-echo old Elam and Mesopotamia, others recall fine old jars and bowls of Greece and Etruria.

Watch your growing children

WATCH the health of your growing children! See that they have the health and energy necessary for their school work and play. For growing children a rich supply of red blood is essential. Languor, nervousness, depression, sickle appetite or pallor indicate anemia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood, prevent anemia and build healthy bone and tissue. Thousands of mothers have proved this.

"My twelve-year-old girl," writes Mrs. Robert Devitt of Brougham, Ontario, "became so pale, so ill and nervous that we had to take her out of school. I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and she gained in weight and strength. She is now the picture of health."

Buy a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at all drug stores and dealers in medicine or, post-paid, by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario.

Saves Airplane By Quick Action

Quick action by an aviation enthusiast who has never been off the ground was responsible for a "happy landing" at the East Boston Airport.

Army officers at the airport received a telephone message from West Barnstable. Their informant said he had just seen an airplane flying overhead with a broken landing gear. He added that he recognized it as an army plane and that it was headed for Boston.

Airport officials immediately rolled a landing wheel and strut into the centre of the field to warn the approaching flier, and an airplane was sent up to signal them. As the heavy Douglas observation plane appeared, observers saw that one of the struts was broken, so that one wheel dangled below the other.

The pilot, Lieut. Russell Randall, was oblivious of the condition of his landing gear until he received the warning over the airport, as he had apparently made a good takeoff at Mitchell Field, L.I.

He succeeded in making a safe landing, with comparatively little damage to the airplane.

Dean Inge Rhymes Value Of Women's Short Skirts

In Bit of Verse He Extolls Benefits of Sunlight

London.—The value of sunlight on the human frame has been proclaimed by Dean Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral with the following bit of verse which he recited at the opening meeting of the Sunlight League:

"Half an inch shorter, half an inch shorter,
Same skirts for mother and daughter,
When the wind blows,
Everything shows,
Both what should and what didn't oughter."

He praised the woman's revolt from the extensive covering they indulged in forty or fifty years ago, saying that the movement of the Sunlight League was carrying on further the salutary effects of miliary's discard of heavy clothes.

"However we have to beware of admitting cranks and freaks," he said. "There is a certain sect on the Continent and particularly in Germany which believes in walking about nude. In Germany it is possible to see bands of young enthusiasts of both sexes going about without clothes. There is nothing objectionable in that. But clothes are a matter of convention, and it is necessary to hold at arms' length certain unwholesome people."

SAVE THE CHILDREN

In Summer When Childhood Ailments Are Most Dangerous.

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child they prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed to be absolutely harmless even to the new-born babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"SO PLEASANT"

Many years ago, in walking among the graves at Mount Auburn, I came upon a plain white marble slab which bore an epitaph of only four words, but to my mind they meant more than any of the labored descriptions on other monuments: "She was so pleasant." That one note revealed the music of a life of which I know nothing more. How much good can be done in church, home and society by just being pleasant; how many acerbities it will sweeten; how many obstacles it will brush away! All our virtues must not be of the heroic and strenuous type; we need also the gentler, finer graces. The Bible has much to say in praise of pleasantness.—O. W. Holmes.

A PILGRIMAGE

If you would live out the cycle of your years and keep the wolves of doubt from your soul, you must look on life with clear and courageous eyes. You must see it as a pilgrimage in which character grows stronger as the body wears. You must see existence as a trusteeship to be held for generations to follow. You must believe in the supremacy of goodness and the indestructibility of the human soul. Tune your thoughts to these beliefs and a deaf will sink away into the shadows.

RESTLESSNESS

The vexation, restlessness, and impatience which small trials cause arise wholly from our ignorance and want of self-control.—De Renty.

Sincerity is never ludicrous; it is always respectable.

Priceless Relics Going To States

Professor Tells of Discoveries in Palaces of Assyrian Kings

Chicago.—University of Chicago scientists, excavating in the Tigris river area have discovered the palaces of Sennacherib and Sargon II, who as successive Assyrian kings, conquered Jerusalem 700 years before Christ, it was announced today by Prof. Edward Chiera, who has returned from Iraq. Examples of Assyrian arts, painting, sculpture and architecture, regarded by officials of the university's Oriental Institute as priceless, were recovered by the expedition, altogether 250 tons of material was collected and 125 tons are en route to the university, British officials receiving half of the find.

Included in the collection is a massive stone bull which guarded the gates of Sennacherib's palace. The piece measures 17 by 20 feet and weighs 20 tons.

Prof. Chiera believes the site of the excavations covers several Assyrian villages and work on the main palace and grounds alone will require perhaps several years.

The King

G. K. Chesterton in the Illustrated London News: In the things that matter most at the moment, King George has most definitely had a policy—a policy of despising fantastic luxury and indiscriminate innovation; of preserving the old social sanity which used to be counted specially English. It has been his fate to live at exactly the moment in history when the ruin or restoration of this particular normal and national habit will certainly be accomplished. It has probably made a visit difference that the first family in the nation has been so firmly fixed on that foundation. It has made it impossible for moderation and modesty, and common sense in custom and costume, to die out in the lower middle classes as things entirely dowdy and discredited. A mere aristocracy is always ready for the newest thing. The aristocracy, whatever its other virtues and vices, has been quite ready to go the pace and to set the pace. Monarchy has taken on again something of its ancient leadership in matters that were once counted light and trivial, but which have become in this strange season and in the eyes of all the wise, very weighty.

"Jacques Cartier Bridge?"

Le Devoir (Ind.): It would be appropriate, on the eve of the fourth centenary of the discovery of the St. Lawrence River by Jacques Cartier to give the bridge the name of that famous St. Malo navigator. The ceremony of placing the last girder took place last week in the presence of invited guests, who were almost all English-speaking, although the construction of the bridge is far from being an exclusively English enterprise and the Harbour Commission ought to be predominantly French, if it represented the ethnic formation of the population. If the bridge does not receive a name worthy of our French-Canadian history, the fault will be with an maorpus and unintelligent population who do not know how to make use of their predominant strength.

If one does not take chances he must take what's left by those who do.

LONG SLEEP MAKES BABY HAPPY AGAIN

"Our baby kept waking us several times a night, until we started giving him a little Castoria after his last nursing," says an Iowa mother. "He slept soundly from the first night and it made him look and feel worlds better." Baby specialists endorse Fletcher's Castoria; and millions of mothers know how this purely-vegetable, harmless preparation helps babies and children, with colic, constipation, colds, diarrhoea, etc. The Fletcher signature is always on the wrapper of genuine Castoria. Avoid imitations.

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.
