Scoop, our reporter has disappeared since the holidays and a wide search is being made to locate him. Below is a snapshot taken from the Goodyear airship "Puritan" this morning, while over Lake Erie enroute to the Hamilton Airport opening, which was sent to Constable McCarter. From all appearances its the missing man.

The Leaping Lena arolling goes Down to one of Selkirk's shows And on her carcass bravely sat Braden, Wilfred and Hank the fat The calthumpian parade it seems Was the goal for this limousine; Their hearts all set on making gay In celebrating the King's birthday

Hank, the captain of the craft, Seemed exhausted with his task In changing all the gears and things: On this unruly limousine.

Bradden on the lookout stood; Holding down the engine hood, Afraid, it seems, that it might rear And toss him up into the air.

Upon the rear of Lena sat Brave Samson although in a sweat Wondering how the thing could ere Pe righted when on such a tear.

Their troubles weren't all for nought, Winning the prize so eagerly sought Hank's a-going to treat the staff With the 25 bucks received by craft.
