INTERFERENCE

Ever since the beginning of time there has always been that one obstacle to battle against, Interference. We find it in every phase of life, where there is action and progress. The architect of a building, lays out his plans in perfect form and according to them, everything should be constructed and erected without any trouble. But there are very few buildings ever erected that there is not a lot of interference, of some kind to cause delay. While they were building a large three-story sky scraper, in Chicago, known as the Bell building, the contractor faced a great obstacle of interference. His contract called for a certain date that the building was to be finished. Strong winds and many other unforeseen problems caused the workmen to work slowly. At the rate they were going, the contractor would lose several thousand dollars a day. For two weeks he urged his men to battle against the interference with more speed. The result was disastrous. A man a day was killed. Too much speed caused the men to be careless. Finally the news came to the authorities ears and they stopped all operations for a time. The price of battling against this interference, cost fourteen lives. But interference does not only cost the price of lives and thousands of dollars, but also costs many people the price of honor.

So many people in their quiet moments of meditation, plan great things for the future. If their should be no interference their future would be a grand success, but the many different obstacles come across their pathway. Discouraging problems — resisting forces to hold them back from attaining their great objective. Take the leading politician of to-day—Candidates are running for Parliamentary offices. They are no doubt conscientious men with all intentions of doing all they promise to do, but when they arrive at headquarters and get among men of experience, among men who have plans made that mean a wall of interference so great that the newly arrived member at once feels his insignificance. He realizes that to keep his promises to the voters who elected him he would have to break through this wall of interference and the result of so doing would be fatal to his superiors. He would hardly make one move before he would be squashed and put in his place at the back of the room. But if the candidate can prove that he is a real man, no wall of interference is going to stop him. If he is the production of a family tree that has always stood for honor and principle he will turn the house upside down to accomplish his objective. Can we produce such men today? Has the stock and quality of our forefathers, completely died out?

The evidence before us looks that way. The conditions of the times tell us own story. We need to-day more men of strong calibre—men who are not afraid to fight for principle and honor—men who cannot be bribed by the price of gold. In the great crisis of the World War, England produced a man who was known as "The Man of the Hour" Lloyd George handled that vital crisis as no other man could have done. He battled against mighty obstacles, great forces of interference met him everywhere, but he was a man of strong determination. He fought continuously to gain his objective, and did. Many other great men in history have fought and battled against great interference and won, leaving on the pages of history records of great honorable deeds, attained by resisting temptation, giving the best and all they had to fight this problem of interference. If the men who are leaders of our country cannot overcome it, how can they expect the public at large to do so.

So let us all do our part to build up a nation that will be a credit to the country we live in. Canada our own, our native land. Raise your standard of morals. Forget not that our forefathers prided themselves on the principle and honor they possessed and died for.

NANTICOKE

I was asked to write a poem on the deplorable condition our sidewalks have been in for the last five years. You all know how they have been neglected, which is a shame and a disgrace. There is money in the Bank, a Committee elected to see that the walks are repaired, but there has been nothing done.

The president has been appealed to several times, to call a public meeting, to remove the old sidewalk Committee and elect a new one. So far it has not been done, and now I think we had better keep quiet and let the money stay in the Bank, or join the angels and sing the—

NANTICOKE ANTHEM

God Save our spacious town,
May the tourists never frown,
On our side-walks.

May we victorious be,
Light hearted good and free,
And may we all agree,
On our side-walk.

May we exalted be,
With a good strong committee,
On our side-walk.

May we ever take the stand,
And make a strong demand,
For some one to command,
On our side-walk.

May we one and all rejoice,
And lift our gentle voice,
For our side-walk.

May the tourist ever pray,
Take all my sins away,
As they fall and lay,
On our sidewalks.

Help us stop the travel,
Of tourists picking gravel,
From our side-walks.

May they not give us a slam,
And call us a big sham,
When they fall on their ham,
On our sidewalks.

And when you cross the bridge,
Before you reach the ridge,
You have dirt walk,
And if you happen to fall,
And go down with an awful sprawl,
Don't get up and curse us all,
For our bad walks.

T. Butler.

After being absent from his home town for forty years, Mr. Joseph C. Manuel, a member of the Grand Trunk Office staff, Detroit, is renewing old acquaintances, and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Evans, Nanticoke.
