FUMIGATION

Not so many years ago, it was generally believed that whatever it was that caused the communicable diseases was blown around in the air. For this reason, when such diseases occurred, a great deal of attention was given to the air of the rooms which were occupied by persons suffering from communicable diseases. Rooms were treated by burning sulphur, by evaporating or spraying formaldehyde or other disinfectants. The idea behind such procedures was to kill the germs in the air.

We know that malaria and yellow fever, a no. of other diseases they are caused by the bite of certain types of mosquitoes which have previously fed on persons suffering from these diseases.

We also know that the germs causing the common communicable diseases die very quickly outside of the human body. Their chance of temporary survival is fairly good if they are deposited in milk or other foods where they can remain moist. We do not include tuberculosis or small-pox in this statement for reasons, the discussion of which is not permitted by the space at our disposal.

We know that in the case of practically all the disease, excluding those spread by water, milk and foods, the communicable diseases are spread from person to person directly and not through inanimate objects. The germs of disease are carried by the droplets expelled by coughing, sneezing, spitting and loud talking. The spread of infection is accounted for by the taking in of these droplets by a second person.

Communicable diseases cannot be controlled by fumigation, by the sterilization of the air and of inanimate things. If a communicable disease occurs in a school room, the proper method of control is to attempt to find the individual responsible for the spread of the germs. The cause must be found and removed. The cause is always a person, not some stool desk or blackboard. It is a waste of time and money to fumigate the room. It is money and time well spent to have the children examined in order to find the source of the infection.

During the course of communicable disease, all body discharges should be carefully collected and disinfected, because these fresh discharges contain the germs in large numbers and so are dangerous. The patient is isolated to prevent others from coming in contact with his body discharges and secretions. If such care is taken, there is no danger. It is the care during the course of the disease, by such concurrent disinfection, that is important. When the patient recovers and the secretions of his body are free of germs, there is no danger either in him or his surroundings, and there is certainly no value in fumigation.

2 MEALS DAY, PLENTY WATER, HELPS STOMACH

"Since I drink plenty water, eat 2 good meals a day and take Adlerika now and then, I've had no trouble with my stomach."—C. DeForest.

Unlike other medicine, Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing poisonous waste which caused gas and other stomach trouble. Just ONE spoonful relieves gas, sour stomach and sick headache. Let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel! Buy it at your local Druggist.—J. M. Alfalfa is away to an excellent start this spring and many growers will await with more than casual interest the prospect of seed. There is a knotty scientific problem involved in the failure of alfalfa to produce seed in worth-while quantities. Seed formed well for a few years but latterly the crop has been a failure. Some trained technical men should be put to work on the job.

We don't understand it at all, but it seems that as a result of all peace conferences and naval parleys, the world is to have peace, parity and more battleships.
