

AGONY OF NEURITIS

A Story of Intense Suffering and Relief.

"Do I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills? You may believe I do," says Mr. John H. Jamieson, of Wallaceburg, Ont.

"For five years I suffered day and night from neuritis. The agony was terrible. I lost control of my arm and shoulder and my hand became shriveled. Nothing helped me till I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Even then the improvement was slow and I took ten boxes before I was on the way to recovery. After that, though, relief was rapid. My hand gradually filled out; the pain left me and I could sleep in peace. That was two years ago and I have not had a twinge of the trouble since."

Sufferers from neuritis, neuralgia or rheumatism should try the common-sense method of banishing these troubles by enriching the blood and strengthening the nerves with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Says Pluto's Size Is That of Mars

Dr. Slipher, Flagstaff Director, Declares Observations Show No Cometary Features

Flagstaff, Ariz.—Dr. V. M. Slipher, director of Lowell Observatory, said recently that the new planet, Pluto, discovered by the observatory last January is about the size of Mars and that further study had revealed no cometary features.

"The preliminary orbit of Planet X," Dr. Slipher reported, "has been computed by the Lowell Observatory staff, with the collaboration of Dr. John A. Miller, director of Spruill Observatory, using positions of Jan. 13, Feb. 23 and March 23, determined from the Lowell plates of Dr. C. O. Lampland, and yielded the following elements referred to mean equinox 1930.0.

"Node, 109 degrees 21 minutes; inclination, 17 degrees 21 minutes; log semi-major axis, 2.3559; eccentricity, 0.090; longitude perihelion, 12 degrees, 52 minutes; mean daily motion, 1.112; mean anomaly, 1930.0, 3 degrees 20 minutes 47 seconds. Distance from sun, 41.3 astronomical units.

"Our knowledge of the orbit's shape and size, its eccentricity and semi-major axis, must be regarded as probably subject to considerable modification when more extended positions are available, but the plane of the orbit—its inclination and the line of nodes—and the present distance of the object are fairly reliably known in the present orbital data.

Planet Has Yellowish Hue

"Color tests of Planet X indicated this body is yellowish and very different from the blue planets Uranus and Neptune. This suggests an albedo and density more like those of the inner planets."

King Edward's Life Revealed in Book

Once Slapped His Aunt Instead of Kissing Her, Book by Late Sir Lionel Cust Declares

London—That Sir Lionel Cust who was a friend of King Edward VII. in his book just published entitled "King Edward VII. and His Court," makes some notable comments and tells many interesting anecdotes.

Sir Lionel writes: "I am disposed to think since my acquaintance with King Edward, that the great misfortune of his life—a misfortune which was shared by the country was that his mother lived too long, not in the general sense of the word, but from the point of view of the welfare of her son and successor.

"In the last 20 years of Queen Victoria's reign, the Prince of Wales had not enough to do. Ministers neglected and even despised him as a possible factor in politics and the higher aristocracy gave him the cold shoulder.

No Advantage

"He should have reigned earlier but not a day later. Ten years longer would have been no advantage and might have been a disaster, but had he reigned ten years earlier, the face of European history might have been changed. Had Queen Victoria taken her son into partnership she would have found him a zealous worker loyal deferential to her authority and a shrewd and useful successor to her husband as a private adviser on politics in general."

Intimate Stories

Sir Lionel Cust tells intimate anecdotes of King Edward's life such as when Queen Alexandra asked who the marble bust of the "babe" was and Edward's reply, "Don't you know? If he had lived we should not be here."

The bust was of Princess Elizabeth, daughter of King William IV. Another story tells how the King experimented dyeing marble busts with tea in order to prevent their clashing with the wall panelling and his surprise at finding the bust of the Prince Consort wearing a chestnut colored wig.

He tells how the then Prince Henry being asked to kiss his aunt, the Grand Duchess Augusta Mecklenburg Strelitz, promptly slapped her. How the Queen of Portugal flustered the King by planting resounding kisses on both cheeks at Windsor.

The best story is of the small child who was a guest at one of the royal parties at the Palace on being asked by His Majesty what he would like, replied, "More jam King."

Trees

Each poplar is a steeple; Birches are fairy people; The Firs are brave and strong. They join the wild storm's song.

The Oaks are wise and staid; The Hedges in the glade. Are golden in the spring. Each tree's a living thing.

And where the water flows By pools and tumbling streams The stooping Willows spread Their arms, and overhang.

The Birch sing all day long. And sometimes in their song They tell the hedges how They love the thought of trees.

When Pain Comes

What a wretched and apostate state is this! To be offended with excellence, and to hate a man because we approve him! The condition of the civilized man is the most emphatically miserable, he is not only incapable of nobility, he is unable to merit or to earn, but lives in a world wherein all his efforts are in a vain against his quiet, stolid, their own happiness and abundance.
