SAFETY FOR BATHERS.

Outdoor bathing is healthful. Swimming is a fine exercise since it brings into use all the large muscles of the body. In addition to the refreshing effect of the swim, there is also the advantage of the sun bath. Unfortunately, every summer there are a number of tragedies resulting from outdoor bathing. Carelessness and over-confidence are the cause of these tragedies. It is not so often the person who cannot swim who is the victim as it is the swimmer who attempts to swim too far.

We do not suggest that a timid, fearful attitude is what we should have. We do think, however, that a common-sense moderation is required in regard to swimming as it is with other things in life. You should not go into the water right after a meal. Wait until the food you have eaten has had time to be digested. Exhaustion is always dangerous. It is never wise to strain the body by pushing it too far, to the point of exhaustion, and if this is done in swimming, it simply invites trouble. Always stop before you are tired out. It is a mistake to go in bathing alone. Someone should be within call in case of an accident. Anyone who suffers from fainting spells, or epileptic seizures should keep out of the water, or, at least, out of anything excepting very shallow water, and, in the latter case only in company of a friend. Persons with heart disease, kidney disease, and those who have a high blood pressure should not go in bathing, excepting upon the advice of their physician and only then under the conditions and for the length of time he recommends.

Everyone should know how to swim and unless you can swim, it is simply folly to take chances in canoes. The canoe is safe when properly handled, but so often it is in the hands of someone who is unskilled, or else some foolish passenger decides that it is fun to change seats or to rock the boat.

We would advise everyone to learn how to swim. It is fine exercise and provides a desirable form of recreation. Swimming may be the means of saving your own life or that of another. Inability to swim cuts you out of many pleasant hours during the summer. If you cannot swim, don't take chances; learn to swim. If you can swim a little bit, do not get the idea that you are a channel swimmer, and try to prove it. Be moderate in your swimming; make it a pleasure and not a harmful gamble with fate.

CREAMERY MONOXIDE

The Buttermakers commenced saving daylight last week, but that does not prove they are Scotch.

Stewie says if there wasn't so much water wasted in taking baths, he wouldn't have to wait so long to get his chummings out.

When Jim gets back from his trip up north we expect to hear some very large fish stories.

George, who is engineer during Jim's absence, says he never before had such a soft job.

Owing to the slump in the butter market, Stoney's department has been having an exceptionally easy time.

PUBLIC LIBRARY DANCE

The Euchre and Dance held in the Arena for the benefit of the public Library was a very enjoyable affair although there was not as large an attendance as was expected considering that it was for the benefit of one of the oldest Public Institutions in the village. The thanks of the Library Board is extended to the Booster Club for the free use of the arena, and to all those who so generously assisted in donations of money, cakes, and other things for the evening and to the Committee in charge who so freely gave of their time and energy to make the evening a pleasant one. Proceeds amounted to $57.00.
