The monthly meeting of the Varency W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. S. F. Saunders on Thursday, September 25th, with an attendance of 23.

The meeting opened in regular form. The roll call, "A beautiful thought from prose or poetry" or "Hollowen Legends, customs and superstitions" were well responded to. After the correspondence was read a report of the Annual Meeting held in Hagersville was given by Mrs. G. Saunders, and a report of the Officers Conference held in Selkirk was given by Mrs. D. After the business part of the meeting was disposed of an interesting programme was enjoyed by all.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which lunch was served.

EDITOR CELEBRATES DOUBLE ANNIVERSARY

Dunnville Gazette Owner 50 Years In Journalism and 70 years old

Fifty years in journalism and his 70th birthday will be celebrated today by David Hastings of Dunnville, owner and editor of the Gazette, the oldest paper in Haldimand, established in 1852. Mr. Hastings has been connected with many phrases of newspaper life in Ontario, as well as having held public posts.

Born in Toronto in 1860, the son of John and Mary Hastings, he was educated at Toronto and Hamilton public Schools and the Hamilton Collegiate Institute. He began his early career as a printer in the Mail. At that time the News was printed in the Mail building. When, about 1884, the News moved to Yonge Street, Mr. Hastings went as printer under H. C. Hocken, who was at that time foreman of the News composing room. Two years after he joined the reporting staff of the News and became city hall reporter. In 1889 he resigned to become city editor of the Hamilton Herald and served in that capacity until 1906 when he purchased the Gazette, a Conservative journal published at Dunnville.

In February, 1915, Mr. Hastings was appointed police magistrate for the town of Dunnville and adjoining townships in succession to the late Dr. S. W. Brown. He was succeeded in that position by Col. J. C. Massie, who was appointed under the present act requiring a magistrate to give full time to his duties of office.

Mr. Hastings, who is a member of the typographical union, was a member of the shorter work day committee which was instrumental in formulating and bringing to a conclusion the plans whereby the eight-hour day for printers became effective. He is a member of the Masonic Order, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Independent Order of Foresters and of the Orange Order, in religion Mr. Hastings is an Anglican.

The Record takes this opportunity of wishing the veteran Editor many happy returns, and it is our earnest wish that Mr. Hastings may long be spared to wield his fearless pen in the cause of honest journalism.

JARVIS BRETHREN VISIT ENNISKILLEN MASONS

Last Monday evening about fifteen members of King Solomon Lodge, Jarvis, journeyed to York on the invitation of the Enniskillen Lodge, to join them in welcoming the D.D. G.M., of Hamilton District 'B', in the person of R. W. Bro. Dr. O. J. Newell an esteemed P.M. of King Solomon Lodge.

After the work of the evening was over in the lodge room, adjournment was made to the Parish Hall, where the ladies of the district had prepared an elaborate banquet for the brethren, and over one hundred and fifty brethren of the Hamilton district along with the Jarvis contingent feasted themselves immensely. After the banquet many speeches of an entertaining nature were delivered by R. W. Bro. Jas. McGregor of St. Andrews Lodge, Caledonia, who proposed the toast to Grand Lodge, which was replied to by R. W. Bro. Dr. O. J. Newell, D.D.G.M., and in the opinion of those who were privileged to listen to the reply of the representative of the Grand Master, it is safe to say, that our former townsman did credit to himself and also to the craft, by his masterly and educative address along the lines of Masonic ideals and benevolence. The toast to the visitors was very ably proposed by R. W. Bro. M. C. Senn, M.P. and responded to by many of the Hamilton brethren, including the District Chaplain, Rev. Bro. Thompson.

The Walpole Council meets this Friday in the Walpole Fire Insurance Hall for the transaction of general business.

Tragic Death of John G. Watson Stirrs Community

Port Dover Maple Leaf

Sunday afternoon the town was shocked to learn of the tragic fate that befel seventeen-year-old John Gardner Watson, eldest son of Capt. John Salter and Lillian Watson, well-known citizens of the village. The unfortunate lad was walking along the docks at the fish houses on Sunday afternoon, he returning to his father's shanty after having taken a buoy over to the tug Bolinda, when it is surmised he stubbed his foot and fell into the water. The alarm was raised by Dan. MacDonald and John Holland (familiarily known around the creek as "Happy") and immediately Frank McBride and John Taylor rushed to his rescue. McBride did not wait to relieve himself of any of his heavy clothing; and pluckily dived into the water at about the spot indicated, but he had to give up his valiant attempt at rescue owing to severe cramps. By this time—almost in the interval of a split second—John Taylor had divested himself of his superfluous apparel, and he, too, dived into the icy waters. Grooping his way a short distance along the bed of the creek—at that point about fifteen feet deep—he managed to grapple hold of young Watson's feet and then made for the surface where willing hands raised the lad to the docks. Jacob Johansen at once applied resuscitation methods, and he held the spark of life while other men rushed to summon medical aid. Drs. L. A. Clarke and J. D. Struthers were soon upon the scene and at once ordered Watson's removal to his home, where the efforts of resuscitation were continued with some slight effect, but two hours later the spark of life had fled and the young man died without having regained consciousness.

John Gardner Watson was born at Cellardyke, Scotland, coming to this country in August, 1927. He was the eldest son of Capt. and Mrs. J. S. Watson. Surviving are also one brother and two sisters: Alex. Gardner Watson, and Phemie and Betty Watson.

THE FUNERAL

The funeral on Wednesday afternoon was attended by a large number of sympathizing friends. The Rev. C. A. Perkins, pastor of Grace Church, had charge of the service. The pallbearers were: the lad's Father, and Captain Bob Davidson, Robert Davidson jr., Alex. Davidson, Jimmy Davidson and Capt. John Wood.

Taking for his brief address the two words: "Jesus Wept," the Rev. C. A. Perkins, pastor of Grace United Church, said: "We have come together on this sad occasion to bring our final tribute of love for one who has been called upon to lay down the tools of this life. How helpless and dependent we feel as we stand by the casket, surrounded by flowers, containing the mortal remains of one whom the angel of death has suddenly and so tragically called from our midst. How naturally and instinctively we hurry to the precious and unfailing word of God for strength and comfort. To what other book can we go for comfort for the sorrowing but the word of God? Who understands the broken as does Jesus Christ whose own heart was pierced and broken on the "Old Rugged Cross?" In all our sorrows and troubles, we have no such comforter as Jesus, our compassionate Lord and Master, who wept with Mary and Martha at the passing of Lazarus. "Jesus Wept." These two words record the most touching episode in sacred story. Let us not forget the fact that Jesus was human as well as divine. He brought divinity down to humanity and lifted humanity up to divinity. The greatest thought in divine revelation is "that somewhere on a common plane, the spirit of Christ and the spirit of man can meet in mutual fellowship." The fountains of abiding satisfaction and peace ere to be found in Jesus.

Now in the text we have a sad picture. We can easily fancy the scene surrounding the home of Mary and Martha. Their only brother had died and been laid away in the tomb. His sisters were weeping over their great loss. They had sent for Jesus. This home in Bethany was an abiding place for Him. He was a frequent visitor and a close friend of the family. The Master at last arrives. What could be done? He endeavors by a few words to have these sisters see Him as the resurrection and the life. "Thy brother," says Jesus to Martha, shall rise again." And the same comfort that Jesus brought to those bereaved sisters in the long ago, He brings today to those who are in the grip of sorrow. "Thy son shall rise again."

Now sorrow is the common lot of

DOUGHTY — STALLWOOD

A very pretty autumn wedding took place at 3 o'clock, Saturday, Oct. 4th, in Wesley United Church, Jarvis, when Norma E., youngest daughter of Mr. Chas. Stallwood of Jarvis was united in marriage to Allan Clifford, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Doughty of Nanticoke. Rev. P. E. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in two tone autumn brown chiffon velvet trimmed with ermine, with hat and shoes to match and wore a corsage bouquet of Johanna roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Gladys Stallwood, who was attired in French chiffon velvet and wore a corsage bouquet of Sweet-heart roses. Mr. Harvey Lindsay supported the groom and Messrs. Kenneth Vokes and Harold Johnson assisted as ushers. During the signing of the register, Dr. J. B. Stallwood of Beamsville sang "Because".

Following a reception at the parsonage, the happy couple left on a motor trip to Montreal and Quebec City. On their return they will reside in Nanticoke.

GREENBURY — FESS.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Grace United Church parsonage, Port Dover, by Rev. Charles A. Perkins, at 3 p.m. Saturday, October 4, when Edith Mae Fess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fess, of Jarvis, became the bride of B. Grant Greenbury, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Greenbury of Port Dover. Mr. and Mrs. Greenbury will reside in Jarvis.

Boost The Boosters

The Jarvis Booster Club have made an honest effort during the past few months to keep in the village some place of amusement for the younger people, and it is safe to say their efforts have been successful, but the support of the citizens in general has not offered too much encouragement. They are now holding a series of dances in the arena for the purpose of trying to raise funds to assist in installing a large water tank for fire purposes. This is a very worthy and commendable effort on their part and should be supported by every citizen, and whatever this paper can do to boost, or assist the ladies in this worthy cause will be our pleasure. The first of these dances will be held in the Arena on Friday evening, Oct. 17th.
