The large smokestack at the old Port Dover Brick Yards was pulled down yesterday morning. A Brantford firm has bought the scrapped plant—or what was left of it—and everything usable or saleable is being disposed of. At one time a thriving industry, the old brick and tile yards are now a thing of the past.

Mrs. C. Quamby of Lynn Valley was the lucky holder of thirteen hearts in a recent hand of auction bridge, while playing with a party of friends at Turkey Point. Those playing at the same table with Mrs. Quamby were Mrs. J. H. Bowlby, Mrs. W. W. Howes and Miss Katherine Bullock.

The farmers are busy picking and delivering their apples to the cold storage plant in Simcoe.

All No class is exempt. God permits even His faithful children to mourn. He does not at once lift them out of their sorrows, but comforts them in their sorrow. "Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted" is the record of God's word. The brightest eyes in heaven will not be those that never wept, but those that have been washed with sorrow's tears, and whose tears have been wiped away by the loving Father's hand.

Now the narrative which briefly outlines for us the death and burial of Lazarus also informs us in the words of my text that "Jesus wept." The question that naturally arises is "Why did Jesus weep?" I believe that Jesus wept because a young man had died. Jesus was and is interested in young people. He was most concerned about the boys and girls. Read the first six verses of the 10th chapter of the gospel according to Matthew if you are not certain of this statement. Young people are active in education, business, and religion. They have a place and a responsibility in the kingdom of Christ. Consequently Jesus knew that the world had lost in certain fields of activity the services of Lazarus. And Jesus wept. And since the bible declares that he is the same yesterday, today, and forever, I know He sympathizes today.

He stands today with the bereaved beside the open grave and says: "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in Me. In my father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I am the resurrection and the life; He that believeth in Me, though he were dead yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me, shall never die."

Jesus went to express His sympathy for Mary and Martha. Mark you these sisters had friends but no one was such a friend as Jesus and Christ came when their hearts yearned for consolation. I know you will not disagree with me when I say that love, kindness and service grow out of sympathy. "The human countenance smiles on those who smile and weeps with those who weep. Human sympathy does much to lighten the burdens and assuage the sorrows of life; but who can comfort us like Christ? How significant and how true are the words of the hymn: "There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus, no not one; no not one!" When Jesus saw the multitude, He had compassion on them. Sympathy warms the heart that is cold; it cheers the heart that is despairing; it brings hope and comfort to lift the heart that is downcast. Hence Jesus wept to express love and interest in the welfare of the Bethany home. Today He is the same Jesus, the same son of the same God.

"An ever present help in the time of trouble, He has the same power and the same love and the same sympathy and in the same calm confidence of triumph He says "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." "My peace I give unto you, because I live you shall live also." This is His message of sympathy to those who mourn today.

Jesus wept because the family circle had been broken. Sooner or later all of us will have an interest in the City of the Dead. How many today like to steal away from the busy scenes of life and spend a few hours among the marble slabs. Jesus is speaking from the cloud of sorrow which the bereaved have entered. He has not changed His message. It is one of sympathy expressed in terms of love, mercy, salvation, service and resurrection. He says: "Let not your heart be troubled." Why? "I am the resurrection and the life." I like to speak those words; they bear the trade mark of heaven.

"Sometimes the clouds of trouble, Bedim the sky above; I cannot see my Saviour's face, I doubt His wondrous love. But He from heaven's mercy seat, Beholding my despair, In pity bursts the cloudsbet ween, And shows me He is there. It's just like Jesus to roll the clouds away,

It's just like Jesus all along the way. It's just like his great love. "Jesus wept."

Free Flowing Fertilizers

Here are four big reasons why we recommend C. I. L. Mixed Fertilizers to you:

- First: Dry, free flowing, they end that costly nuisance, drill-clogging! . . . Save labour!
- Second: When you need C. I. L. Mixed Fertilizers—that's when you get them! Drive up and get them—right out of stock!
- Third: This prompt delivery service is less costly than the old-fashioned "order-and-wait" method. . . Saves you actual dollars-and-cents, as well as valuable time!
- Fourth: Made in Canada.
