London.—A gigantic disarmament declaration, launched in all five continents by the Women's International League, is gathering momentum as the day for the world conference on this great question approaches.
London is supplying 4,000 signatures daily to the document, which is designed to provide sufficient head of steam to drive the statesmen of the world forward on the path of peace. Every adult in a village in Montgomeryshire, Wales, has signed. So has the entire population of several fronther villages in France.

The league section in Tunis has rendered the document into Arabic and its hard at work collecting signatures among the natives. India, Japan, Indocchina, among the eastern countries, are participating.

In Canada the goal of 500,000 signatures appears in sight. A transcontinental caravan tour which traversed the United States has visited 125 cities in 25 states and collected 125,000 signatures.

Holland, where the press has circulated a slightly different petition, has quickly amassed 2,500,000 signatures. The whole population only numbers $,000,000.

With less than two months before the Disarmament Conference is due to begin, the league is redoubling its energies throughout the 45 countries in which the petition has been circulated. The declaration on disarmament which the friends of peace are asked to sign came into being at meeting of the Women's International League at Prague in August, 1929, 17 runs as follows:

The underestigned men and women, treatment which the petition has been circulated as allockly and the special world and the providing certain predactions of fire, providing certain predactionary measures are carried on the special world will practically climinate the danger of fire, providing certain predactionary measures are carried on the special world will practically climinate the danger of fire, providing certain predactionary measures are
