THIS WEEK ON PARLIAMENT HILL

Ottawa, Aug. 21st.—Clever tactics moves by the leaders of the two main parties, Premier R. B. Bennett and Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, were seen by many veteran political observers in the choice of October 14 as the election date and in Mr. King's reaction to this announcement.

The date came somewhat as a surprise and the reason for its lateness was attributed here partly to a manœuvre on the part of the Premier directed against the Liberal leader. With Mr. King well into the first part of his campaign it was regarded, according to this theory, an advantage to allow him to occupy the political spotlight for another two weeks before the Conservative party opened its appeal to the voters.

The Liberal leader, Mackenzie King, is expected to open his appeal to the voters in the next few days. He is expected to open his appeal to the voters in the next few days.

London.—King and Queen's great peace army. Four thousand British Empire soldiers from the Middle East "hobby" to the barbed-wire fence of a lumber camp.

London.—Lloyd George is revealing in his long fight for the "New Deal" in Great Britain. The stately Manchester Guardian has advanced the opinion that there is no telling how many allies he will literally attract into his camp before the general election comes.

Toronto.—A parade signals the return of the "New Deal" to the attention of 6,000 members of the International Trade Unions in distinctive uniforms will march in the annual parade to the Canadian National Exhibition.

Ottawa.—The Frontier College, renowned for its work in the early 1920's, is being revived. Sending young university men into the bush and frontier construction camps the college is planning to do a fine work in teaching immigrants to speak and write English as well as giving them the rudiments of arithmetic, literature and current events.

London.—The Bachelor Prince has received another "hit". This time Edward Prince of Wales, was presented with a obsequious, the rarest animal in the world, by Belgian Congo admirers. The animal represents a giraffe but has shorter legs and neck. The legs are striped like a zebra and the tail is chestnut brown. It is on display at the London Zoo.

VIEWING THE NEWS

Geneva.—Consideration of the Ethiopian dispute will be resumed by the Council of the League of Nations on September 4th. It has been suggested in League circles that Italy might be designated League financial agent to advise Ethiopia as a possible solution to the controversy.

London.—The British range of mountains in which they are located is the highest in the British Isles. It is generally believed that the mountains were formed by the action of the sea.
