

Christie's Sultanas
with the real fresh fruit flavor

Packed full of uncrushed sultanas, that's the secret of their tempting flavor. Christie's Sultanas are always exceptionally crisp and fresh.

Christie's Biscuits
"There's a Christie Biscuit for every taste"

THE REMARKABLE ROMANCE OF AN INDUSTRIAL DICTATOR

Velvet and Steel
By PEARL BELLAIRS

Joan Denby of her own rights, to be treated as a social equal of Miss her secretary, she meets Mrs. Hannon, a woman who forces her attention on her. Lord Edwards proposes to Joan.

"Oh, shut up!" said Mr. Denby. "I won't go," sobbed Jimmy. They tried to cheer him, but he went on crying for a long time on his face on the worn linoleum, clutching the front legs of the wireless cabinet.

Jimmy's grief was another black mark against Piers Hannon. If he had not sent the useless girl, Jimmy would now have been happy. And Joan was very uneasy. There stood the wireless set in the corner of the kitchen which was to be her home now that she had left Elton Place; dumbly it seemed to watch her, and its silence reminded her of Piers Hannon himself in his enigmatic moments, when he looked at one and one could not tell what he was thinking. What did it mean, his sending this wireless set?

Perhaps it was as she hoped, just a parting gesture. In which case she was willing to give him his due for it, though to make that blunder over the lack of electric power in Hooley Street made his generosity rather vain.

Maudie was very excited to hear that Joan was going to be a mannequin at the Salon Oisette. Jimmy was somewhat cheered when Joan said that if he wanted a week or two she would certainly get him batteries for the wireless set.

"He ought to thank Mr. Hannon nicely for it," said Mrs. Denby, when Denby had gone out to the public house. She wanted to question Joan, but did not like to, so Joan answered without being asked:

"He won't be coming here again, I'm quite sure."

"That you'll be seeing him, will you, Joan?"

"Not if I can avoid him," Joan said. "I think that's just a little gift, a farewell gift, mother."

"He wouldn't send someone to take it away, you don't think, if we don't thank him?"

"Aghast at her mother's notion of the ruthless ways of the great Joan, said that she thought not. And then suddenly she was back in that red room, up in the hills behind Cannes. She remembered the sprig of daphne—taken and thrown away—as a memento of entertainment for Piers Hannon.

But it would not, she fancied, really entertain him to take a wireless set away from a little boy. And if I were you I would get father to write him a letter of thanks addressed to the office at the works," Joan suggested.

Mrs. Denby was pleased with the suggestion.

When they went to bed, and Joan was lying beside Maudie under the new ceiling in the dark of the attic, Maudie said:

"Mr. Hannon must be sweet on you, Joan, to send that to Jim. It's no good telling me he ain't!"

"He was, Maudie, or rather he fancied he was. But he won't worry about me any more!"

"Have you given him the push?"

"No, but brought him down

U.S. To Spend $19,000,000 In Work On Sports Fields

Washington.—On the theory that outdoor life builds better bodies, the United States Government has agreed to spend more than $19,000,000 in work for sports fields in the next few months.

The works progress administration announced recently that President Roosevelt has approved outlays of $19,000,000 for athletic fields, stadiums, swimming pools, golf courses, armories, and tennis courts in 10 states.

A FASCINATING FLAVOR

WARRIGLE'S JUICY FRUIT CHEWING GUM

KEEPS TEETH SPARKLING

Use Caution in Adding Fruit to Baby's Diet

Applesauce and Prune Pulp May Be Given To Infants; Three-Year-Olds

Stew Berries For Youth At The Wheel

(Editor's Note: In the following article, this well-known Graphologist has some interesting comments on the value of fruit in a baby's diet. Don't experiment with new foods when he is ill. If one of the other and either apple pulp or prune pulp is too laxative stop it. Or reduce the amount. If he cannot take care of it at all, wait until he is older and his natural digestive organs are stronger. The best time to give it, if all goes well, can be having as much as two or three tablespoons a day when the time he is seven or eight months old.

This diet is not usually varied much, except under special order. It is a well-known fact that a well-known baby specialist recommends cooked apples, peaches, pears and other sweet fruits or plums.

LEAVE SOUR FRUITS ALONE

Any fruit that is sour and requires too much sugar is bad. Rhubarb, for instance, he seldom suggests eat account. He says that dried fruit is good, too. Skins are best removed; then crush the fruit dry and strain it. Or three or four tablespoons may be given with the supper at five o'clock. He also varies this with a little ripe banana, mashed, or a child this age is given a few drops of lemon juice.

Raw fruit is allowed most babies at a year and a half if they are well and other diet changes are not impending. As usual it must be started in very small amounts and gradually increased. It may be given alternately with the cooked fruit, if desired. Begin with a tablespoonful of the raw fruit and gradually increase the amount until the baby is used to it. The specialist now adds grapes, which must be seeded, skinned and crushed. If it tends to stimulate the bowels too much give up this fruit until later.

FRUIT MUST BE RIPE

At three years cooked or raw fruit may be given up to five tablespoons. Pineapple is good but the pulp is too fibrous. You may add to the fruit diet now grapefruit juice and apricots. But any fruit must be ripe and sweet. The things to avoid for the child of this age are raw berries and melons, all types of raspberries, peaches and strawberries and blueberries are all right, too. Never use sugar in cooked fruit for young children.

Canned fruit, unless specially prepared for babies, contains too much sugar to be suitable. Older children can take care of a great variety of fruit. But in hot weather watch that they don't "stuff" it when they are too hot and the fruit is too green.

Prairie Flowers Painted for London

Winnifred Walker Adds To Famous Records Now

Regina.—Winnifred Walker, international known painter of wild flowers, while on a tour through Saskatchewan put on canvas the colorful blooms which grow on the prairie. Later in the year the paintings will be exhibited in England.

She has been awarded medals at exhibitions held in London, Paris, Philadelphia and in the year the paintings have been hung in Paris salons and the Royal Academy in London. Miss Walker is the official artist for the Royal Horticultural Society in London.

"I was simply drunk with delight," said Miss Walker. "When I went into the Yosemite Valley in California before coming here and found so many flowers that have never been painted before." She painted 150 varieties in California since her arrival there in March. She explained her prize is a picture of a wild rose and snow plant that grows at the line where the snow melts in California.

She painted 120 different kinds of Canadian wild flowers from Montreal to Vancouver when I was here in 1925," the visiting artist said. "Canadian flowers have a wonderful beauty and grow very well in England. Lady Byng has a Canadian garden in which she grows dozens of native plants that grow at the foot of her fingers. "My pictures must be exact reproductions of the flowers, for size, color and distinctive markings so they can be recognized by flower growers to what they are," she said.

A Hat To Wear If You Have The Mumps

New York.—At last it has been created: a hat "to wear when you have the mumps, and want to go out at night."

This long-needed bit of headgear—a turban with a gold veil that shades the ears and throat—was brought forth at a fall hat show. The designer (John-Fredericks) also launched this style hint:

Spash some ink in your new fall hat if you would be smart, and match it with a ink-stained scarf.

The ink splashes, red and blue, appeared on a white wool scarf and white insets of a sapphire blue velvet hat.

Hats of imitation beaver were shown—its new, it hasn't been done since grandmother's day.

Unmarried Women Preferred As Teachers

Windsor Locks, Conn.—Married women school teachers who had to look elsewhere besides Windsor Locks for jobs hereafter.

In explanation for re-engaging unmarried teachers, a report from a veteran of 21 years' service, the Board of Education announced its policy in the future will be to engage only unmarried women.

HEALTH MEANS CHARM AND HAPPINESS

Sparkling eyes and smiling lips speak of health and vitality. Clear skin attracts. The healthy active girl is both happy and popular.

Perhaps you are not really fit yet? It's when the Vancouver Island Contest at San Antonio, B. C., and have scored 1948.7 points for 1275 eggs. Right place is held by a pen of White Leghorns in the Canadian Contest at Ottawa, owned by G. S. Taylor of Bloomfield, Ontario, with a score of 2013.3 points for 1349 eggs.

The sixth position for pens goes to the Manitoba Contest at Brandon, the points being 1984.7 for 1275 eggs. Rocks and are owned by Mrs. W. Allen of Eriksdale, Manitoba. Seventh position is held by a pen of White Leghorns owned by Mrs. J. S. Smith, Nanaimo, B. C., and have scored 1948.7 points for 1275 eggs. Right place is held by a pen of White Leghorns in the Canadian Contest at Ottawa, owned by G. S. Taylor of Bloomfield, Ontario, with a score of 2013.3 points for 1349 eggs.

Remember that 98 out of 100 women report benefit. Let it help you, too.

Issue No. 33 — '35

HOW TO MAKE ICED TEA

Take six heaping teaspoons of Solids Black Tea in a pint of fresh boiling water. After six minutes strain liquid into two-quart container. While hot, add 1 1/2 cups of granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved. Add 1/2 cup cold water. Do not allow tea to cool before adding the cold water, otherwise liquid will become cloudy. Serve with chopped ice.

"GOLDEN VIRGINIA" ICED TEA

Your Handwriting Tells Your Real Character!

By GEOFFREY ST. CLAIR (Graphologist)

All Rights Reserved.

For instance, letters and accounts are always dealt with first thing in the morning. They are not so much as to be sent an answer right away, but the letter or account is put in its proper department, and is dealt with in due course.

Even if you don't have a desk for your letters, you can set aside a special drawer for accounts, receipts and so on. Get one or two envelopes and write on the outside what they contain, such as "Receipts."

Then you can get some rubber bands or paper fasteners, and it will be an easy matter to keep together all the gas accounts, rent receipts, and so on. Then if any question ever raised about a receipt you will be able to put your hands on it quite readily.

These receipts which may be called on after a good number of years, such as for the annual payment of an insurance policy, should be carefully kept in a separate envelope, labeled on the outside.

Unpaid bills can be put into a special box as soon as received, and paid off as soon as possible. Small bills should be dealt with, as soon as you get them, for it is these small items which one is apt to forget, and when allowed to mount up the total may give you a shock one day when you have not the ready money to pay it.

Another business idea which is worth copying is to make a note for future reference of when any payments become due, or the date when the collector comes.

Some one sometimes forgets when such a visit is likely, and you say to yourself, "Is it this week, or next week the collector comes?"

If you keep a note of such dates in a diary, you will know to allow the sum of money due for that week, and not find yourself short when the collector calls. Or it may be that you become ill, and if someone else is left in charge of household affairs, they will know what has to be paid out.

You'll find it a good idea, too, to have a drawer with writing pad, envelopes, postcards, labels, blotting paper, pen and ink (or fountain pen) pencil and rubber. These are often wanted in a hurry, and if you know exactly where to get them it saves a lot of time and perhaps, temper.

Some rubber bands (in various widths), paper clips, drawing pins, and a small supply of pen nibs are worth while keeping in stock, while an address book is essential if you have difficulty in remembering the exact number of the street in which friends live.

WEEK-END GUESTS

One thing that adds immeasurably to the homemaker's enjoyment of the role of hostess to house guests is to plan, before their arrival, the menus for the entire visit. Besides saving many a flustered minute, it is the most economical way to entertain. Use up leftovers at luncheon whenever there are any and rely on an unusual dessert or hot biscuits or something special to make the meal festive.

Left-over chicken, for instance, goes into stuffed tomatoes. Combine the finely chopped meat with rice, season well and moisten with chicken stock. Stuff scooped out tomatoes with mixture, cover with buttered crumbs and serve with scrambled eggs.

Apparently choked on a bread substance, the two-year-old girl was unconscious when Dr. Gregory J. W. Cottam reached her. The child's pulse was the only instrument available. He made quick incisions in the child's windpipe, to let her breathe, and then rushed her to hospital. She is recovering.

High Lights in Egg Laying Contest

Production in the Egg Laying Contest conducted by the Dominion Department of Agriculture on the Experimental Farms throughout Canada continues to go ahead at a rapid rate. Reports for the 39th week are as follows:

The New Brunswick Contest at Fredericton has the leading pen for all Canada. This pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks is owned by C. M. Gries, Harvey Station, N. B. and has their credit 2127.1 points for 1275 eggs. British Columbia Contest at Paganis holds second place with a pen of White Leghorns owned by C. Heady of Cloverdale, B.C. They have to their credit 2113.3 points for 1275 eggs. Another pen in British Columbia Contest holds third place for W. Whiting of Port Kells, B.C. They are White Leghorns and have a score of 2055.3 points for 1275 eggs. Fifth place also goes to British Columbian Contest with a score of 2011.1 points for 1275 eggs, the birds being White Leghorns owned by F. C. Evans of Abbotsford, B.C. The fourth place goes to Nova Scotia Southern Contest at Kentville. These birds are White Leghorns owned by C. and M. Ellis of Port Williams, N.S., and have a score of 2013.3 points for 1275 eggs. For number of eggs produced this is the leading pen throughout Canada at the end of the 39th week.

English Family Sets Scholarship Record

London, Eng.—A remarkable record in scholarship winning has been established by the family of Rev. Mr. James Deans, Seiven, of his eight children, seven have won a scholarship. This is believed to be a feat without precedent in the history of education.

The one child who did not win a scholarship was known to be a clever child that she was given a free place in a secondary school. Five of the remarkable family of scholars are boys and the other girls. Their ages range from 11 to 24.

Cigar Clipper Used To Save Girl's Life

An operation performed with a razor blade taken from a cigar clipper is credited with saving the life of Patricia Lee Flegg, of South Falls, S.D.

Apparently choked on a bread substance, the two-year-old girl was unconscious when Dr. Gregory J. W. Cottam reached her. The child's pulse was the only instrument available. He made quick incisions in the child's windpipe, to let her breathe, and then rushed her to hospital. She is recovering.

GOLDEN VIRGINIA PIPE TOBACCO

WARRIGLE'S JUICY FRUIT CHEWING GUM

KEEPS TEETH SPARKLING

Woman's World

By Mair M. Morgan

OFFICE METHODS AT HOME

Some housewives are rather haphazard in the management of what might be called the business side of the home, and the result is sometimes needless worry and expense. If they would take a leaf out of their office assistants' books they would find these matters very much easier to look after.

For instance, letters and accounts are always dealt with first thing in the morning. They are not so much as to be sent an answer right away, but the letter or account is put in its proper department, and is dealt with in due course.

Even if you don't have a desk for your letters, you can set aside a special drawer for accounts, receipts and so on. Get one or two envelopes and write on the outside what they contain, such as "Receipts."

Then you can get some rubber bands or paper fasteners, and it will be an easy matter to keep together all the gas accounts, rent receipts, and so on. Then if any question ever raised about a receipt you will be able to put your hands on it quite readily.

These receipts which may be called on after a good number of years, such as for the annual payment of an insurance policy, should be carefully kept in a separate envelope, labeled on the outside.

Unpaid bills can be put into a special box as soon as received, and paid off as soon as possible. Small bills should be dealt with, as soon as you get them, for it is these small items which one is apt to forget, and when allowed to mount up the total may give you a shock one day when you have not the ready money to pay it.

Another business idea which is worth copying is to make a note for future reference of when any payments become due, or the date when the collector comes.

Some one sometimes forgets when such a visit is likely, and you say to yourself, "Is it this week, or next week the collector comes?"

If you keep a note of such dates in a diary, you will know to allow the sum of money due for that week, and not find yourself short when the collector calls. Or it may be that you become ill, and if someone else is left in charge of household affairs, they will know what has to be paid out.

You'll find it a good idea, too, to have a drawer with writing pad, envelopes, postcards, labels, blotting paper, pen and ink (or fountain pen) pencil and rubber. These are often wanted in a hurry, and if you know exactly where to get them it saves a lot of time and perhaps, temper.

Some rubber bands (in various widths), paper clips, drawing pins, and a small supply of pen nibs are worth while keeping in stock, while an address book is essential if you have difficulty in remembering the exact number of the street in which friends live.

WEEK-END GUESTS

One thing that adds immeasurably to the homemaker's enjoyment of the role of hostess to house guests is to plan, before their arrival, the menus for the entire visit. Besides saving many a flustered minute, it is the most economical way to entertain. Use up leftovers at luncheon whenever there are any and rely on an unusual dessert or hot biscuits or something special to make the meal festive.

Left-over chicken, for instance, goes into stuffed tomatoes. Combine the finely chopped meat with rice, season well and moisten with chicken stock. Stuff scooped out tomatoes with mixture, cover with buttered crumbs and serve with scrambled eggs.

Apparently choked on a bread substance, the two-year-old girl was unconscious when Dr. Gregory J. W. Cottam reached her. The child's pulse was the only instrument available. He made quick incisions in the child's windpipe, to let her breathe, and then rushed her to hospital. She is recovering.

Woman's World

By Mair M. Morgan

Office Methods at Home

Some housewives are rather haphazard in the management of what might be called the business side of the home, and the result is sometimes needless worry and expense. If they would take a leaf out of their office assistants' books they would find these matters very much easier to look after.

For instance, letters and accounts are always dealt with first thing in the morning. They are not so much as to be sent an answer right away, but the letter or account is put in its proper department, and is dealt with in due course.

Even if you don't have a desk for your letters, you can set aside a special drawer for accounts, receipts and so on. Get one or two envelopes and write on the outside what they contain, such as "Receipts."

Then you can get some rubber bands or paper fasteners, and it will be an easy matter to keep together all the gas accounts, rent receipts, and so on. Then if any question ever raised about a receipt you will be able to put your hands on it quite readily.

These receipts which may be called on after a good number of years, such as for the annual payment of an insurance policy, should be carefully kept in a separate envelope, labeled on the outside.

Unpaid bills can be put into a special box as soon as received, and paid off as soon as possible. Small bills should be dealt with, as soon as you get them, for it is these small items which one is apt to forget, and when allowed to mount up the total may give you a shock one day when you have not the ready money to pay it.

Another business idea which is worth copying is to make a note for future reference of when any payments become due, or the date when the collector comes.

Some one sometimes forgets when such a visit is likely, and you say to yourself, "Is it this week, or next week the collector comes?"

If you keep a note of such dates in a diary, you will know to allow the sum of money due for that week, and not find yourself short when the collector calls. Or it may be that you become ill, and if someone else is left in charge of household affairs, they will know what has to be paid out.

You'll find it a good idea, too, to have a drawer with writing pad, envelopes, postcards, labels, blotting paper, pen and ink (or fountain pen) pencil and rubber. These are often wanted in a hurry, and if you know exactly where to get them it saves a lot of time and perhaps, temper.

Some rubber bands (in various widths), paper clips, drawing pins, and a small supply of pen nibs are worth while keeping in stock, while an address book is essential if you have difficulty in remembering the exact number of the street in which friends live.

WEEK-END GUESTS

One thing that adds immeasurably to the homemaker's enjoyment of the role of hostess to house guests is to plan, before their arrival, the menus for the entire visit. Besides saving many a flustered minute, it is the most economical way to entertain. Use up leftovers at luncheon whenever there are any and rely on an unusual dessert or hot biscuits or something special to make the meal festive.

Left-over chicken, for instance, goes into stuffed tomatoes. Combine the finely chopped meat with rice, season well and moisten with chicken stock. Stuff scooped out tomatoes with mixture, cover with buttered crumbs and serve with scrambled eggs.

Apparently choked on a bread substance, the two-year-old girl was unconscious when Dr. Gregory J. W. Cottam reached her. The child's pulse was the only instrument available. He made quick incisions in the child's windpipe, to let her breathe, and then rushed her to hospital. She is recovering.

English Family Sets Scholarship Record

London, Eng.—A remarkable record in scholarship winning has been established by the family of Rev. Mr. James Deans, Seiven, of his eight children, seven have won a scholarship. This is believed to be a feat without precedent in the history of education.

The one child who did not win a scholarship was known to be a clever child that she was given a free place in a secondary school. Five of the remarkable family of scholars are boys and the other girls. Their ages range from 11 to 24.

FU MANCHU

By Sax Rohmer

WARRIGLE'S JUICY FRUIT CHEWING GUM

KEEPS TEETH SPARKLING

Fascist Chief Directs Battle Maneuvers

Signor Starace (right), General Secretary of Fascist Party, inspects tanks during maneuvers of Young Fascists near Rome, preparatory for embarkation for Africa.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BARNABAS (A CONSERVATED MAN OF MEANS) — Acts 4:36, 37; 11:19-30. GOLDEN TEXT: — He was a good man, and full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. Acts 11:24.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

THE first appearance of Barnabas is during the same year as the descent of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, A.D. 31. The conversion of the Apostle Paul took place in A.D. 33. The missionary journey in which Barnabas accompanied Saul took place according to Ramsey, in 50 A.D., whereas other dates it A.D. 45 and 46. The council at Jerusalem took place during the following year.

PLACE — Barnabas first appears in the city of Jerusalem, where, no doubt, his greatest ministry was carried on. He was called by the Holy Spirit to accompany St. Apostle Paul to the city of Antioch.

AND Joseph, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas (which is, being interpreted, Son of exhortation). Barnabas comes from two words, Bar, meaning son, and nabas, possibly connected with the Hebrew word nab, meaning prophet, a name which may have been given to him because of his prominent gifts of speaking. "A Levite" Barnabas is the only Levite mentioned by name in the New Testament. They occupied a very subordinate position in New Testament Judaism, and when engaged at all in the service of the great sanctuary, were chiefly employed as temple police. "A man of Cyprus by race." Cyprus was an important island situated in the northeast corner of the Mediterranean Sea in an angle formed by the coasts of Cilicia and Syria, with an area of about 3,534 square miles.

HAVING A FIELD — Although the Levites were not allowed to hold positions in their land (Num. 18:20; Deut. 18:9), yet they could do so by purchase or inheritance (Lev. 25:12). "Sold it, and brought the money and said it at the apostles' feet." It would seem from 1 Cor. 9:6 that Barnabas by this great gift, was compelled, in later years, to earn his own living. The generosity of that deed is magnified not by what he gave, but by what he left.

THEY therefore that were scattered abroad upon the tribulation that arose about Stephen." The narrative is now resumed from Acts 8:4. The church at Jerusalem was, no

Laundrying Flannels

Wash the flannels in lukewarm water and soap flakes. Do not rub them nor run through wringer. Rinse, hang in shade and when they are almost dry, iron them on the wrong side.

Keating Paint

If a can of paint has been partly used, and it is not wished to cover the can securely, stir the paint thoroughly, then fill to the top with water. When needed, pour off the water very carefully.

Alcohol Dissolves Shellac

Any mixture containing alcohol will dissolve the shellac on polished furniture, if spilled and not removed at once. It should be wiped off immediately, then the spot rubbed thoroughly with sweet oil.

Laundrying Satens

When laundering satens, or any cotton material having a glazed finish, the shiny surface can be preserved much longer if small amount of borax is added to the soapy water and again to the rinse water.

Pouring Liquids

When pouring liquid from a can, the punching of one hole is not sufficient. A second hole should be punched on the opposite side of the can to allow air to enter and make the liquid flow easily.

Plaster Casts

To clean plaster casts, cover with paste of French chalk and water. Allow it to dry and then rub off with a soft brush.

Silk Hose

Rub the heel of the silk hose with paraffin, when troubled with wearing holes in the heels, and the annoyance will be overcome.

Give Pretty Sheen

When rinsing the hair, try adding a half cup of vinegar to the rinse

High Lights in Egg Laying Contest

Production in the Egg Laying Contest conducted by the Dominion Department of Agriculture on the Experimental Farms throughout Canada continues to go ahead at a rapid rate. Reports for the 39th week are as follows:

The New Brunswick Contest at Fredericton has the leading pen for all Canada. This pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks is owned by C. M. Gries, Harvey Station, N. B. and has their credit 2127.1 points for 1275 eggs. British Columbia Contest at Paganis holds second place with a pen of White Leghorns owned by C. Heady of Cloverdale, B.C. They have to their credit 2113.3 points for 1275 eggs. Another pen in British Columbia Contest holds third place for W. Whiting of Port Kells, B.C. They are White Leghorns and have a score of 2055.3 points for 1275 eggs. Fifth place also goes to British Columbian Contest with a score of 2011.1 points for 1275 eggs, the birds being White Leghorns owned by F. C. Evans of Abbotsford, B.C. The fourth place goes to Nova Scotia Southern Contest at Kentville. These birds are White Leghorns owned by C. and M. Ellis of Port Williams, N.S., and have a score of 2013.3 points for 1275 eggs. For number of eggs produced this is the leading pen throughout Canada at the end of the 39th week.

THE SEVERED FINGER—Another Victim.

"It is certainly something important, Pathe," said Smith as we stood for a fast to pull up. "And it is probably ghastly if Fu Manchu is at the bottom of it." At the police station we were taken immediately to Inspector Wymouth. Greeting us briefly, he nodded toward a long table, where lay a still form.

Nayland Smith and I were quickly brought to the scene of the crime. Wymouth's report, summed up in the Wapping River Police Station, was that a man named Fu Manchu had been found in the pursuit of Fu Manchu.

"For Caglan!" Wymouth said, his usually grimy face softened. "He was one of the most promising detectives of Scotland Yard."

"Fu Manchu" half-whispered Smith. "Look!" cried in horror. Three fingers of the left hand were missing.