The War Threat

Whether or not the threatened Ethiopian war and its possible effect on the British Empire will play any part in the federal election remains questionable. While Ottawa has been kept fully informed from Great Britsin of the developments in the African and European situations no opinion has yet been sought from the Dominion according to authoratative sources here. It is generally thought that Canada's position could not be officially given until parliament meets, and that the design of the population of the fact that the natives outnumber the whites 1,000 to one.

be reaction on the money market followed the election and further complications are anticipated.

The future is further entangled by the possibility of issuance of the Aberhart certificates of $25, to each adult in the province conflicting with federal jurisdiction. This point may lead to a provincial-dominion dispute.

On the monetary question Mr. Stevens has made it clear that he proposes to issue new currency in accordance with the provision of the World Monetary Conference. This move, he explains, would give the Dominion an additional $100,000,000 without jeopardizing the nation's credit. On his return from his western tour Mr. Stevens refused to comment on the possibility of co-operation be tween. Mr. Aberhart's party and his own.

The Tory and Grit leaders remained silent on the Alberta landslide. Mr. Bennett is to open his campaign with a radio address on September 6 and will follow with two others on September 9 and 11. Mr. King is still playing a waiting game with Mr. Bennett.

The most serious blow from a federal election standpoint was that suffered by the Liberals. While they had little if any hope of victory the smattering of seats which they secured held little promise of an extensive support in Alberta in the approaching federal contest.

The Conservatives did not expect to capture many seats, their ambions being more modest than those of the Grits, but they face once more a strong expression of opinion de-
