THE WORLD AT LARGE

IF THEY CARRIED SIGNS.

It would be interesting to know if motorists who are fined for speeding might not be considerably improved if the offender, in addition to a fine, were required to carry a sign on his car for a week, stating that he had been found guilty of negligent driving.

Very few industrial drivers would like to advertise their own incompetence in such fashion.—Calgary Herald.

IN TRANSIT

Like most sizeable communities, Kitchener has its quota of stray, homeless pigeons. One of the most common practical hitchhiker, when tired, it alights atop a motor car, rides a few city blocks, then alights and rejoins its mate. The pigeons consider this their action rather than a nuisance, but it is not said that the creature is dumb in the full sense of the word.—Border Cities Star.

NEAT AND TIDY.

It is difficult to keep residential premises neat and tidy without the constant trouble of picking up and disposing of a number of unwanted handbills every day. The greatest objection to the handbill, as we see it, is the method of distribution. It is not the handbill, but the proper use of it, that is the trouble. It is not the handbill, but the proper use of it, that is the trouble. It is not the handbill, but the proper use of it, that is the trouble.

PROMISES.

Critics of Prime Minister Bennett's starting economic reform policy are promising to end unemployment in Canada and claiming that in Canada they do not think that the present promises mean anything.

It may be that thoughtful people who are disappointed that Mr. Bennett's promise to perform an overnight miracle when he made that speech in 1939 are disappointed that he has had no such success as yet. It is certain that no one with a clear understanding of the economic situation as it is, would have believed that the present promises mean anything.

THE SPEED-CRAZY.

Sir Josiah Stamp, British economist, industrialist and president of the London and Scottish Railway, after a period of caution when so many people everywhere are paying tribute to the god of speed.

It is refreshing to find a man of Sir Josiah Stamp's expert knowledge as applied to railways, who has a recent address that is not a mere repetition of the relative cost of obtaining it—and what sacrifices there might be of other amenities to the ordinary observer the question arises: Why the hurry, anyway?—Haltfax Herald.

TELEVISION.

This much is certain, however. One company in Great Britain and one company in Germany are now in a position to provide a service of high-definition television of real entertainment value. The features of the day or other film subject matter, and certain indoor and outdoor events can now be transmitted a few seconds (depending on the full reproduction in the home and screen about a foot square, according to the Ottawa Spectator.

ART AND INDUSTRY.

British industry has been slow to employ designers and artists. Deteriorated and remedied efforts have been made to remedy the situation of which the Exhibition Royal Academy is the latest exponent. The exhibition is a masterpiece of art and industry, and it is a pleasure to see that the industry is beginning to take an interest in art.

The Inventor's Path

Seldom, Says a German, Does He Profit From His Ideas.

The path of the inventor is straight, stony and beset with obstacles, according to Dr. L. A. Osting, who signs himself "Business Manager of the International Union of Inventors," in a glossy article published in Die Woche. He tells us that of the 700,000 patents granted annually in the world, but a vanishing small number are of any commercial value. Amateurs who are not the inventors, inability to appraise industrial needs correctly, and those of inventors in general, done in the past in similar fields, what patent attorneys call "the art," are responsible for this poor showing.

Can't Have Haircut Until He Pays Up Alimony Arrears

Willard Sabornie, of Chicago, a piano tuner, can't have another haircut until he pays up his alimony arrears.

So said Superior Judge Deardorff, after counsel for Mrs. Nina Sabornie asserted her husband squandered $45 for a haircut with her $85 in alimony.

Commented the court: "Five dollars is too much for any man to spend in a barber shop at one time. It is worse in the case of a man who owes his wife money. And it is piano tuner. Anyway from the pictures I've seen in the funny papers, I thought all piano tuners had long hair."

Suppression Doubtful

Successful patents in any field by no means disclose the most serious inventions. If Auzinger is some are bought and suppressed because, if "worked," they would paralyze established industries.

How much truth is there in that oft-repeated tale of patents that are bought only to be pigeon-holed? Time and time again bills have been introduced in Congress which, if enacted in law, would make it compulsory to "work" a patent in a given period. Failing in the home and screen about a foot square, according to the Ottawa Spectator.

Day And Night

Spills, a spendthrift, rich in treasure, Golden larges without measure Over all the land.

Night, his thrifty helpmate, gathering up his treasure, leaving Only silver change.

Brings it to him, softly beaming, Kiss him with pride, Sends his wanders' lordship gleaming On another ride.

SCOUTING Here There Everywhere

An impromptu debate on the question, "Resolved, that a fathom line is of greater use than the Scout staff," proved the feature of a social evening of the 1st Niagara-on-the-Lake Troop, held in historic old Bay Hall, six Sea Scouts argued, and the "fathom line" was by a point.

A mothers' Night was made a big event by the 118th Toronto (Eglington United Church) Troop. The mothers were shown just what happens at a Scout meeting, and a good effect that later a Mothers' Auxiliary was organized.
